Goldwater, Connally Lead Rivals In Texas

Stair Mishap Kills Child, Injures 45

Escalator Wedges Children Going To Baltimore Game

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — A 14-year-old girl was killed and 45 other children injured Saturday when they jammed aboard a ballpark escalator that was barricaded at the top.

Melville Gibson, 65-year-old usher at Baltimore Memorial Stadium, said he tried vainly to warn the children and other guards at the left field stands. The children were at the ball park for the Baltimore-Cleveland game as school safety patrol guests.

Thousands of the children, all teen-agers, were rushing to the left field stands. Attendants decided to open the escalator to the second deck, and the shouting children brushed past them.

CATTLE STAMPEDE

"The platform at the top of escalator was barricaded," Gibson said. "I tried to yell down to the guards below to tell the kids to stop getting on, but it was too late. It looked like a cattle stampede. The kids began to panic."

Police said the children jammed themselves on the escalator four and five abreast. Those at the top fell back on those below.

Fourteen-year-old Annette Costantine of Baltimore was killed in the crush. She was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Hospital attendants were unable to identify the girl. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nobile Costantine went to the hospital when their daughter did not come home after the game.

A three-man investigating team sent to the scene by City Solicitor Joseph Allen did not mention the temporary barricade cited by Gibson as the cause of the accident. The team however, said in a preliminary report that the probable cause was that the escalator steps were 40 inches wide but that rails narrowed the passage to 28 inches at the top.

FOR TEACHERS PAY

Area Legislator Offers Tax Raise

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The people of Louisiana would be asked to vote on a one-cent sales tax raise for education and higher teachers pay in a new proposal Saturday.

It is one of the many new ideas stacking up for the 60-day legislature which convenes at noon May 11, one day before Gov.-elect John McKeithen becomes governor.

SEN. MYRICK

Sen.-elect Spencer Myrick of Oak Grove said he would cosponsor the constitutional proposal. To clear the legislature, it would need a two-thirds majority in each house.

Myrick said several other legislators were interested. Revenue measures must originate in the House.

Two-thirds majorities for tax hikes are a mighty barrier for new taxes—even when backed by the administration in power.

And McKeithen, in his news conference Friday, said "we're ruling out any new taxes in this session of the legislature."

The tax proposal, as a constitutional amendment, would not be submitted to the governor for his signature or veto—if it could win legislative passage.

The governor-elect was asked specifically for comment on the plan by Myrick, one of the McKeithen supporters.

"I do not feel we should attempt to pass additional taxation in this session of the legislature," McKeithen replied, thus echoing his stand on tax hikes at this time.

The Myrick proposal, if successful in the legislature, would be submitted to popular vote in next November's general election for president.

Pressure for additional state revenue dedicated to education has existed for years. Former state Supt. Shelby M. Jackson continually talked, without success, of the need for additional state revenues dedicated to education.

The powerful United School Committee is pushing now for a higher teachers pay Scale, backed by the State Board of Education and William J. Dodd,, the new state superintendent.

Estimated cost for full implementation of a new salary schedule for teachers, school bus drivers has ranged as high as $51 million a year.

McKeithen says the proposed new state budget contains no money for the higher teacher salary schedule, although it does provide some $15 million for normal increases

Educators have made no pitch for a tax raise, and there is no indication they have any connection with the Myrick proposal.

Several legislators report educators are circulating a bill for the higher teacher salary schedule listed in the bill.

Man Dies, 2 Hurt In East Carroll Fire

Blaze Destroys Home Of Prison Superintendent

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — One man was killed and two others seriously injured in a fire that destroyed the home of the superintendent of the East Carroll Parish prison farm about 11 miles west of here Saturday.

According to the sheriff's department, three prisoners were cleaning and varnishing the floors in the home of Prison Superintendent Kiley Mangum about 10 a.m. when the fire broke out.

IDENTIFIED

They were identified as B. B. Childers, 50, from Michigan, who was burned to death; and Clinton McDaniel, 38, and David Lee Chaney, 27-year-old Negro, who both suffered second and third degree burns over a good portion of their bodies.

Officials from the Lake Providence fire department are still investigating the cause of the fire.

The sheriff's department reported that there was an explosion, then the entire house burst into flames. The Lake Providence fire department answered the alarm, and pumped water from the nearby Tensas Bayou in an effort to combat the blaze, but were unable to save the house.

Supt. Mangum said that the cleaning fluid apparently ignited, causing the explosion. The same type of work had been in progress Friday, Mangum said, and the pilot lights and floor furnace in the house had been turned off. Both he and Mrs. Mangum were away from home at the time of the fire.

Mangum stated that the men were excellent workers and that he had confidence in all three.

Demos Wage Close Race For Senate

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona scored a runaway victory Saturday night in the Texas Republican presidential preferential poll, a nonbinding survey of voter opinion.

Goldwater's triumph was never in doubt. He moved swiftly to the front in early returns and steadily outdistanced his rivals hour by hour.

LODGE SECOND

Second-runner in the poll was Henry Cabot Lodge, who showed unexpected strength in amassing write-in votes.

The presidential poll was designed to show Goldwater's vote-getting appeal in the Lone Star state, and perhaps influence voters and delegates in other states.

Gov. John Connally, bidding for a second term, had captured the bulk of the vote in the Democratic primary at 11:30 p.m. The head of the Texas Election Bureau, Robert Johnson, said that if the trend continued, Connally was the winner over 38-year-old Houston lawyer Don Yarborough.

Gov. John Connally scored a smashing triumph in his bid for a second term. His opponent in the Democratic primary, 38-year-old Houston attorney Don Yarborough, conceded at 11 p.m.

"The trend being what it is," said Yarborough, "it is obvious that I cannot be elected."

At this point Connally was maintaining the 3-1 lead he had held over the challenger from the beginning of the vote counting.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, no relation to Don Yarborough, found himself in a tough battle with Dallas radio executive Gordon McLendon in the Democratic Senate primary.

Yarborough held on to the lead as returns mounted, but McLendon stayed close behind. Later returns from the big cities were expected to help McLendon.

In the Republican Senate primary, Houston oilman George Bush edged out in front of attorney Jack Cox, a former Dem-

Left, Rightwing Laotians Merge Into Coalition

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The coalition premier of Laos, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma said Saturday the neutralist and rightwing factions of the coalition had merged.

Souvanna told a press conference he now has become leader of the two parties.

Souvanna expressed hope that the third Laotian faction—the pro-communist Pathet Lao—will also join the neutralist and rightists in one single faction.

He made the announcement on the eve of his departure for Khang Khay and a conference with his half - brother, Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

The premier of the shaky coalition regime met with reporters inside his residence for the first time since a right-wing military junta seized control in Vientiane two weeks ago. Previously he had talked to newsmen from an outside balcony.

As minister of defense as well as premier, he said, "I will effectively direct all military affairs."

Souvanna said that he could not perform his defense duties before because the right-wing faction had control of the army. He added that reforms will be instituted in the armed forces to return it to the situation that prevailed prior to a coup staged by Gen. Kong Le, a neutralist, in August 1960.

This led to speculation that right-wing and neutralist armed forces would be merged. The neutralists have been under separate command since the 1960 coup.

Soviet Troops Remain In Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fairly large numbers of Soviet troops are still in Cuba, although by earlier U.S. estimates they should be approaching the vanishing point by now.

Still, American authorities are sticking to their crystal balls and dismissing any suggetion that the Russians are dragging their feet because of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

TWICE A RESCUER

Young Hero Insures Share Of Ice Cream

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ronnie Micklos, 7, accepted a hero's medal Saturday, handed it to his mother and buried his sunburned nose in a box of ice cream.

"I'm not bashful," he said, explaining the lack of an acceptance speech. "I just want some of this ice cream before all the other kids eat it up."

The Dairy Council of South Florida threw a big testimonial ice cream and cake party for children in honor of Ronnie, who dived into a canal last week to rescue 5-year-old Debbie Tetreault from drowning.

This was old hat for Ronnie. When he was four, he saved 3-year-old Earl Gillen from drowning in the same canal by running for help.

The street was closed for a block in front of Ronnie's house and a long table set up in the middle. About 250 schoolmates and others showed up for the party. They consumed thousands of cupcakes and huge quantities of milk and ice cream.

Ronnie signed his autograph until his pencil broke, then stepped up to accept a citation from Sheriff T. A. Buchanan, making him an honorary deputy.

"Hey, did ya hear that?" a friend cried. "Ronnie can arrest his mother."

Fullback Pete Banaszak of the University of Miami football team presented Ronnie with the council's first achievement award in a new program honoring children for heroism. The American Legion gave him a $25 savings bond.

Ronnie's older brothers, Dan, Steve, and Mike, weren't jealous of his popularity.

"Heck," said Dan, "we taught him to swim."

3,000 Czechs Stage Protest Against Regime

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A gathering of 3,000 students in Prague for traditional May Day poetry reading exploded into wild antigovernment rioting. Diplomatic sources said Saturday night the outburst bordered on open revolt.

Shouts of "Long live freedom" and 'Down with the Gestapo" came from the students, and at least 15 were arrested as club-swinging police aided by dogs quelled the outburst, said informants who quoted Western reports relayed from the Czech capital.

CTK, the official Czech news agency, said there was a disturbance but denied that students were involved. There was no political demonstration but only "an act of a small group of hoodlums," said CTK. It added that the ringleaders would face charges of disturbing public order.

It was the third student outburst in the past three years on the traditional Communist holiday in the Czech capital, and on the basis of available reports it was the most violent.

The target of the demonstrators was the Communist regime headed by President Antonin Novotny. There has been a gradual liberalization in the country the past four years of the post-Stalin era, but economic pressures have been increasing recently.

The sources, gave this account:

The riot broke out Friday night at Kinsky Park, where students from Charles University and various high schools had gathered for the traditional singing and poetry reading. This is an old custom by students dating back to pre - Communist times.

Talk Ebbing In Senate On Rights Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was practically terse Saturday. It spent only 4½ hours discussing civil rights.

When the Senate is getting ready to vote, the oratorical flow begins to ebb. A vote on a civil rights amendment is in prospect Wednesday, and the senators evidently decided this sunny Saturday was a good time to let up on speechmaking.

But there is no sign that the Dixie forces are about to give up their filibustering tactics. So the civil rights field marshal, Assistant Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, again raised the specter of a cloture move.

DIXIE GAG

Only by gagging the Southerners can anything but an emasculated version of the House passed bill clear the Senate. Since a profusion of amendments gives them that much more opportunity to filibuster, Humphrey suggested picking a date to vote on all changes in the measure.

"If they reject this," the Minnesotan said, "Then we should set in motion the machinery to see about cloture."

Humphrey thought Memorial Day would be appropriate, although he said opponents of civil rights legislation could select "any particular holiday they would like to honor."

"Possibly Monday," he said, "I might just ask unanimous consent to select such a date."

Humphrey made the suggestion in an exchange with Sen. Spessard L. Hollard, D-Fla., and later expanded on it in talking with reporters.

Partly Cloudy, Mild Forecast

Partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures that blanketed the Twin Cities, as well as most of the area, Saturday are expected to remain through Monday.

WARM

Temperatures may vary a little Monday as a series of widely scattered thundershowers moves into northeast Louisiana.

Saturday's high was a sunny 84 degrees, rising from a low mark of 61 degrees. Some .37 of an inch of rain fell during the early morning hours.

High predicted for today and Monday is from 83-87 degrees. Tonight's low should hit around 62-66 degrees.

Today's winds will be mainly from the south, ranging from 5 to 15 m.p.h.

ABOUT 60 INJURED

High Speed Train Jumps Off Tracks

LAPORTE, Ind. (AP) — A high-speed passenger train, racing across the flat northern Indiana prairie at 75 miles an hour, jumped the tracks Saturday, injuring an estimated 60 persons.

Thirteen passengers and one crewman were admitted to La Porte hospitals. Twenty-four others were released after treatment. Sheriff's deputies said first aid was given to a score of other persons with minor injuries.

There were no fatalities. None of those hospitalized was listed in critical condition.

The derailment twisted seats in the cars and catapulted passengers into the aisles.

All 10 cars and two diesel units derailed. About 100 passengers were aboard the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train. They included 39 seniors from Maria High School for girls in Stevens Point, Wis.

The cause of the wreck in a rural area seven miles southwest of here was not determined immediately.

The derailed cars remained upright but some tilted as much as 45 degrees. One locomotive unit stayed on the rails. Those that left the rails were scattered in one group of eight and another of three over half a mile of right-of-way.

Engineer James S. Lazdnby, 63, Garrett, Ind., said none of the train's crew in the engine section was hurt. His fireman was Stanley W. Rathert of Auburn, Ind.

The derailment scene was three miles west of the small town of Wellsboro. The train was traveling from Chicago to Washington on the B&O's main east-west line.

An unidentified passenger reported that about a mile before the wreck occurred "the ride began to feel bumpy."

Deputy Sheriff M. J. Shinn, however, said "nobody knows what caused it."

The B&O dispatched another train from Chicago to pick up the stranded passengers.

Speeding Train Rams Into Car; Several Injured

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — A fast - moving passenger train bound from Chicago to the West Coast crashed into a derailed box car Saturday injuring at least 32 persons.

Use of a radio phone by one engineer to another possibly prevented a worse wreck.

Five diesel units and 21 cars on the Great Northern Railway's Western Star left the tracks about 10 miles west of here. Ten freight cars were knocked off the rails.

Freight engineer Gene Wicklund, Willmar, Minn., said the first sign of trouble was the loss of air pressure for braking.

ALPINE REGALIA

4 Climbers Ascend Paris' Eiffel Tower

PARIS (UPI) — Four mountain climbers, in full Alpine regalia, Saturday scaled the face of the 1,056-feet Eiffel Tower.

It was the most sensational stunt in Paris since 1952 when the late Bernard McFadden, the American health faddist, parachuted from an airplane in his red underwear and landed in the River Seine.

The mountaineers, three Frenchmen and an Englishman, nimbly climbed the northwest "face" of the tower as part of the 75th anniversary celebrations for the monument of rust-colored lace iron built by Gustave Eiffell in 1888.

Saturday's climbers, wind whistling around them, zigzagged back and forth across the iron girders. They were tied together with 25 feet of white nylon rope and carried radio transmitters on their backs so they can describe the scenery on television.

The hardest part for the climbers was negotiating the overhang on the platform atop the tower.

They did not plant a flag. They were rewarded with champagne.

What did they think about on the way up?

"I thought about not falling down," said MacNaughton-Davis. "I looked at my hand holds and foot holds.

"I'm glad I did this. When I'm old in a wheelchair I can't go to the Alps to see the mountains I've climbed. But I can always come to Paris to look at the Eiffel Tower and say, "I climbed that."

He added, "Actually, I've always had an urge to climb the Eiffel Tower."

I knew the answer, but I asked "Why?," anyway.

"Because it's three," he replied, of course.

Explosion Fells 8 U.S. Soldiers In Viet Street

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Salvage crews labored today to seal a gaping, 28-foot-long hole blown in the hull of the U.S. aircraft ferry ship Card below her waterline by a massive explosion that security officers attributed to the Communist Viet Cong.

American blood stained 30 feet of pavement of a nearby boulevard from a bomb blast Saturday night, similarly blamed on Red terrorism.

The bomb explosion wounded eight U.S. servicemen—five officers and three enlisted men—amid a crowd of Vietnamese moving in to look at the crippled ship, waterlogged at her pier on the Saigon River. One fragment injured a Vietnamese.

Throbbing pumps and a rising tide of the river had freed the 9,800-ton Card from the bottom muck into which she settled for several hours after the first inrush of the water when the hull was shattered at 5 a.m.

NEW YORK DISPUTE

Race Rift Stirs White Plumbers To Stage Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A smoldering question of whether there is racial discrimination in the building trades has risen anew in a walkout of white plumbers on a $25-million city project.

The plumbers refused to work with four newly hired men—three Puerto Ricans and a Negro.

Spokesmen for AFL-CIO Plumbers Local 2 said the reason was that the newcomers were nonunion. But rank-and-file members said openly that race was a strong factor.

The City Commission on Human Rights called a meeting of interested parties.

The dispute brought reminders of sit-downs at construction sites last summer by demonstrators demanding more jobs for Puerto Ricans and Negroes in the building trades.

A crew of 41 members of Local 2—which has 4,100 members all but 16 reportedly white—has refused to work on the New York City Terminal Market in the Bronx since Thursday when the four new men appeared for work.

Other work continued on the project, which will be occupied by wholesale fruit and vegetable dealers.

Spokesmen for the local at first said the men walked out because sanitation facilities were inadequate. When the condition was corrected, they said the reason was that the new men were nonunion. Rank and filers were outspoke in putting the finger on race as the cause.

"Animals don't mix," said one. "Why should people have to?"

"God created me white," said another. "Is it any fault of mine they're created of another color?"

One plumber, pointing to a Negro official of the Commission on Human Rights, said:

"I want a crack at his job right now just like they want to take mine."

Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Thursday, without referring specifically to the Bronx market dispute, that he would use compulsion if necessary to end any discrimination in the building trades.

"I am addressing myself not only to all-white unions but to their employes as well," the mayor said.

He did not detail what form the "compulsion" might take.

Ralph Astrove, president of the Astrove Plumbing & Heating Corp., holds a $1.4-million plumbing contract on the project.

He hired the three Puerto Ricans and the Negro after consultation with the Commission on Human Rights.

Astrove said he had found their qualifications satisfactory and that his contract with the local permitted him to hire qualified nonunion men.

The four men said that when they showed up for work Thursday they were met with racial epithets by plumbers, who walked off. Police stood by.

"We have a few hotheads," said one union plumber. "But in any case I don't think these men will come to work as long as these guys show up.

"This crew will act as a unit. They took too many knocks to get their jobs to have some stranger just walk in and get hired.

"Considering what might have happened, this was very orderly. It could have been a bloody mess."

But the four new men showed no sign of retreating.

Bernard Allman, the Negro, put it this way:

"Of course, I'll come back. I have no reason to run away. I have a wife and four kids. I need the job."

Blonde Is New Miss Concordia Parish Beauty

FERRIDAY (Special) — The new Miss Concordia Parish is Miss Jaunice Harris, 17-year-old Ferriday High School senior.

The green-eyed blonde won out over one other contestant, Miss Lynda Bidings of Vidalia.

Miss Harris, the daughter of Mrs. B. R. Harris of Ferriday, did a fire-baton dance as her competition.

Miss Junior Concordia Parish is Ferriday High School junior, Miss Shelia Huber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Huber of here. Second place was shared by three contestants.

Judges were Fred Schmidt, President of Natchez Chamber of Commerce, Gene Howard and Willoughby Thomas both judges of the Miss Louisiana contest which Miss Harris will enter in June at Monroe, and Misses Irish Henderson and Pat Turner of Monroe.

The event was sponsored by the Ferriday Rotary Club with Rotarian Clyde Webber the emcee.

BID FOR COMPANY

Johnson TV Plans Raise FCC Queries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission says there is a question whether the Austin television station principally owned by the family of President Johnson would be allowed to buy into a community antenna television company in that city.

Henry said also that in the near future the Johnson station no longer will be the only television broadcaster in the Texas capital.

Texas Broadcasting Corp., operator of KTBC-TV, holds an option to buy 50 per cent of the stock of Capital Cable Co., which proposes to distribute television programs by wire in the Austin area in competition with KTBC.

Interviewed on a recorded non-network television program, "Youth Wants To Know," Henry was asked whether the agreement, made public last month by the FCC, constitutes an attempt "to monopolize television rights in that area and should something be done about it?" Henry replied:

"This is a business arrangement consummated in 1957 between these two people. Your question is whether anything should be done about it. The answer is possibly. We don't know yet.

"The FCC recently made a decision involving Clarksburg, W.Va. We voted four to two to allow a community antenna system in Clarksburg to purchase control of the only broadcasting outlet there. There were two dissents there, one of which was mine. And I said that I didn't think that in the same community . . . a television station should be allowed to own and operate or control a community antenna system.

"So that case will have a direct bearing on whther or not KTBC could ever exercise its option. But we haven't made any broad decision along those lines as yet. Simply a question has been raised."

Asked why there is only one television station in Austin, Henry noted that in the early 1950s the FCC limited the city to one very high frequency and two ultra high frequency channels but the latter two never have been used, presumably because of poor commercial prospects.

Grains Show Little Change

CHICAGO (AP) — Market influences were few and feeble in the grain futures trade last week and most prices showed little net change.

Greatest activity centered in the May wheat contracts, which galloped over broad ranges almost daily under alternate flurries of buying and selling, principally by speculators. Brokers said the guiding considerations there hardly were of commercial origin now and that the contract probably will continue its broad fluctuations down to the final minutes of its life on May 19.

The government's report on stocks in all positions as of April 1 was a factor in soybean trade early in the week but speculators said it was rather quickly neutralized. At first it was viewed as lightly bullish but the demand was easily filled.

At the close wheat was 7¼ cents a bushel lower to ⅜ higher than a week ago, May $1.97⅞-⅝; soybeans ¾ lower to 1½ higher, May $2.54½-⅜; corn ½ higher to ⅛ lower, May $1.24⅜-¼; oats ⅝-2⅜ lower, May 62⅛-62 cents; rye ½ higher to ½ lower, May $1.29⅝-½.

Red Backed Congolese On Warpath

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Communist - backed rebels have taken to the warpath in the eastern Congo's Kivu region, killing an officer and two soldiers in an ambush.

Radio messages Saturday reporting the ambush said Col. Leonard Mulamba, a regional commander of the Congolese army, was wounded slightly Friday night in the incident near Uvira, a small town on the shore of Lake Tanganyika.

Tension has been rising in Kivu for weeks. It is shaped up by politician Gaston Soumialot, who has established close ties with Communist Chinese diplomats in Bujumbura, capital of the neighboring kingdom of Burundi.

Soumialot is a follower of the late Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's fiery and unpredicatable first premier. He lives in the same hotel as the Chinese. Intelligence reports say he is also linked to a group of exiled extremists who have made repeated attempts to overthrow the Leopoldville government.

This group, styling itself the National Liberation Committee, is also backing a revolt in the Congo's Kwilu province led by former education minister Pierre Mulele. The committee has its headquarters in Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo, a 20-minute ferryboat ride from Leopoldville across the Congo River.

According to the radio messages, Col. Mulamba and a detachment of soldiers were attacked by a rebel force variously estimated to number from 300 to 3,000.

There are no U. N. soldiers in Kivu and present plans call for the withdrawal of almost all from the Congo by the end of the first week of June. The U. N. army at present numbers fewer than 4,000 men, mostly in Katanga and Leopoldville.

Military sources say the Congo's army of about 25,000 men is at present fully extended and might make it very difficult for the Leopoldville government to retain control outside the capital.

Thieves Ignore Steel Barricade

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Loy Jones barricaded his shop windows with steel bars after someone smashed the glass with a flower pot and stole five television sets in January.

Saturday, burglars used the rear of a truck to knock down the bars and windows and enter his shop.

Demos Wage Close Race For Senate

ocatic officeholder who had previously shown vote - getting strength.

Shortly after 9 p.m. the totals were:

Returns from 114 of Texas' 254 counties, 99 complete:

Republican preferential poll: Goldwater 38,892, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller 2,340, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith 1,894, Harold Stassen 2,102, Lodge 4,106,Richard Nixon 1,897, Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania 203, George Romney 84.

Democratic primary, 103 counties, 5 complete:

Governor: Connally 125,955, Don Yarborough 44,843.

U.S. senator: Sen. Ralph Yarborough 94,253, McLendon 79,128.

U.S. representative at-large: Rep. Joe Pool 72,909, Robert Baker 25,019, Bill Elkins 11,518, Bob Looney 10,733, Dan Sullivan 23,543.

Republican primary, 103 counties, 5 complete:

U.S. senator: George Bush 26,408, Jack Cox 15,154, Milton Davis 1,629, Robert Morris 7,230.

Republicans nominated candidates in each U. S. House districts and the one at large position. Twenty of the GOP House candidates had no opposition in the primary. Among the unopposed were Ed Foreman and Bruce Alger, only Republicans in the Texas House delegation.

Thirteen Democratic House members drew no opponent in the primary. Rep. Joe Kilgore did not seek re-election.

The presidential poll was developed by the Republican state leadership, which is committed to Goldwater. The strategy was to demonstrate what most observers believed was overwhelming Texas GOP sentiment for the Arizona senator. This, the thinking went, might sway delegates and voters in other states.

None of the presidential possibilities campaign in Texas. The poll is not binding and not even advisory. The delegates to the national GOP nominating convention will be selected by a state convention June 16 and are expected to be solid for Goldwater.

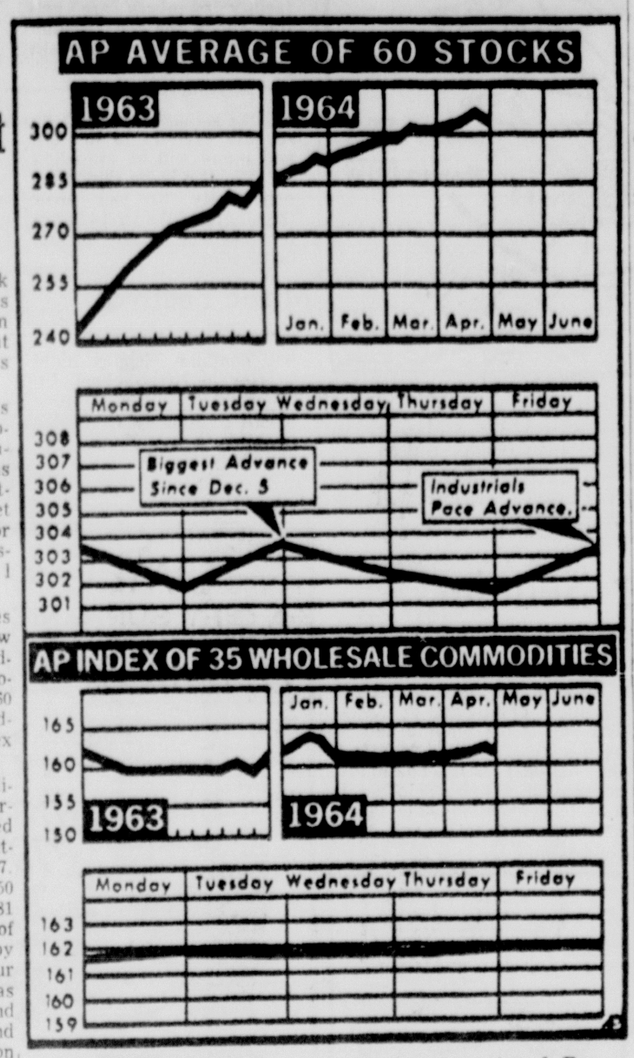
Rallies Even Stock Market After Losses



FOR SECOND straight week, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved lower, closing Friday at 303.1 from 303.4 a week earlier. The Commodity Index, led by food and livestock, advanced slightly this week to 161.9 from 161.7 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took some sharp losses last week but balanced them out with a couple of rallies that left the averages about even as the week ended.

Analysts saw the declines as part of a correction of the prolonged rise since last November. How much further this correction had to go was a matter of doubt among Wall Street experts. Optimism prevailed for the longer term, based on rising profits and the general strength of the economy.

The popular market averages were at variance. The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 2.21 to 817.10. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .3 to 303.1. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .42 to 80.17.

The moves of all these indicators were minor. In the overall list of 1,523 issues traded this week, however, losers outnumbered gainers by 792 to 537.

Volume totaled 27,811,850 shares compared with 29,083,081 last week. About 3.9 million of this total was accounted for by two stocks, Texas Gulf Suphur and Curtis Publishing. Texas Gulf gained 8⅝ at 527⅛ and Curtis rose 5½ to 17½. Demand for both stocks was based on their holdings of Ontario land, presumed to be rich in minerals.

Corporate trading on the exchange rose to $226,941,700 par value for April compared with $124,314,000 in April last year.

OIL, GAS DISTRICT

13 Completions Spark Activities

The number of completions soared to 13 last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, though other activity generally declined in the 15 parish area.

These points highlighted the weekly report issued in the Monroe office of District Manager Duncan S. Cook.

Active rigs throughout the area numbered only 15 and were scattered over seven parishes, while 10 new locations were staked, also in seven o fthe 15 parishes.

There were four recompletions, two in Concordia Parish, two in LaSalle.

Cook's report showed most of the completions in Union Parish, which reported five, followed by four in Concordia Parish. Ouachita, LaSalle, Winn and Grant Parishes all recorded single completions.

Activity was sparse in Avoyelles, Caldwell, Catahoula, Morehouse and Ouachita Parishes, each reporting but one rig drilling or testing. However, there were six working in LaSalle Parish and four in Tensas.

The new locations were widely scattered — two each in Catahoula, Morehouse and LaSalle Parishes, one each in Concordia, Ouachita, Tensas and Morehouse.

Concordia Parishe's recompletions included David Crow's Fred K. Conn No. B-1, recompleted at 6840 feet in section 19-4-7E of the Bee Brake Field, and The California Company's Walter Beasley No. 2,9160 feet, section 8-9-10E, the Lake St. John Field.

In LaSalle Parish, the recompletions were Cities Service's Tremont No. H-13, recompleted at 2059 feet, section 3-9-2E of the Olla Field, and Justiss Mears Oil's J. M. Whatley Estate No. C-1, 3703 feet, section 23-8-2E, Trout Creek Field.

Four wells were plugged and abandoned during the week and inactive sites numbered 53.

Other data on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations included:

First Quarter Profits Show Strong Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The jingle of first-quarter profits this week rang a merry tune of near-record prosperity.

General Motors Corp. checked in with the best three months in the history of any American Corporation. Cheering reports came also from U.S. Steel Corp., Texaco and many other major firms for what some surveys indicate will be a one-third rise from 1963's first quarter.

President Johnson, meanwhile, said that 1964 profits should hit $31 billion, compared with last year's $27.1 billion.

This bespeaks, he said, the kind of economic growth that could lead to further tax cuts "a few years down the road." But this can happen only, he said, if inflationary forces are kept in check.

He asked business leaders to hold down their prices and even to cut some if they can. He also said he would ask labor union leaders, when he meets with them in the coming week, to avoid inflationary wage demands.

U.S. Steel Corp., meanwhile, announced price cuts in an important category of products. The avowed purpose was to attempt to stem the tide of foreign imports. The company trimmed prices by 12 to 14 per cent on coarse steel wire and steel rods sold for fencing. These products count for one-third of the 5.5 million tons of foreign steel sold annually in the United States.

Another development concerning international business was a resolution by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce supporting an expansion of U.S. trade with Russia.

Accident Near Jena Is Fatal For Negro Man

JENA (Special) — A 60-year-old Negro was killed about two miles from here Saturday night in an accident involving three pickup trucks.

He was identified by officials of the Catahoula Parish sheriff's department as Jerry Patterson of Trout.

The incident occurred about 9:45 p.m. on La. Hwy. 772, known as the Alexandria cutoff.

Three Negroes were attempting to pull a pickup out of a ditch alongside the road, using a second truck. The truck doing the pulling turned east onto the highway, veering over the westbound lane in the process.

At this time, a third pickup truck approached driving west, and swerved off the right shoulder of the road, sideswiping the truck that was pulling and crashing into the pickup that had been stuck.

Patterson was standing outside the truck, unhooking the chain, and was hit by the third pickup.

Occupants of the third pickup were Johnny J. Boney, 37, who was driving, and Pearce Maness, 27, both of Pineville.

Deputies said Boney was not injured in the accident, but suffered an apparent heart seizure later, and was hospitalized. Doctors reported that Boney had a medical history listing two previous heart attacks.

Maness sustained minor cuts and bruises on his leg, shoulder, back and face.

The two Negroes who were driving the first two trucks were not injured.

SWEDEN ORDERS SUBS

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The Swedish government has ordered five new submarines at a cost of $48 million, it was disclosed Saturday. The diesel submarines will be armed with torpedoes and Swedish - constructed anti - submarine weapons.

Monroe Police Book Negro On Several Counts

Monroe Police Saturday booked a 29-year-old Negro, Mose Scoby of 3927 Dunlop St., on a charges of aggravated battery on a police officer, aggravated assault, resisting arrest, drunk and disorderly and disturbing the peace. Scoby was arrested at 3805 Gayton St., at 11:25 a.m. after he reportedly had caused a disturbance in Poe's Super market at 3721 Owl St.

Scoby was released on $2,500 bond.

Robert Clifton Turner of Oak Grove was booked on charges of simple criminal damage and reckless driving at 3:50 a.m. Saturday after he was involved in a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Thomas and Mississippi Streets. According to police, Turner apparently ran a stop sign on Mississippi Street and collided with a vehicle on Thomas Street driven by Richard L. Baker of 1117 Alabama St. Baker was treated at a local hospital for cuts and abrasions of the head and held for observation.

Robert Lee McGee, 19-year-old Negro of 207 N. 18th St., was booked on charges of carrying a dangerous weapon after his arrest in the 1400 block of Adams St., at 12:45 a.m. Saturday.

West Monroe Police booked a 28-year-old Negro, Elmo Evans of 710 Pine St., Monroe on charges of driving while intoxicated after his arrest on Cypress Street at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Monroe Police reported 10 minor accidents Saturday with no apparent serious injuries while West Monroe law enforcement officials reported one minor traffic accident with no injuries.

2 Professors To Appear On Educational TV

Two professors in the agriculture department of Northeast State College, and Frank K. McDermott of Monroe, an inspector with the Louisiana Department of Agriculture, will be featured on a 11:30 a.m. Monday program over KLSE-TV, Channel 13 educational station.

The educators are Jasper G. Hammons, professor of agronomy, and F. H. Holdeman, associate professor of agricultural engineering. Title of the program is "Agriculture and Opportunities in Agriculture," and will deal with training available at the college.

McDermott, who will serve as moderator said, "The average person thinks of agriculture in terms of farming, but it is more. Of the 62 million employed Americans, about 25 million are engaged in some phase of agriculture. Over 250,000 scientists are directly serving agriculture. It is estimated that these major fields need 15,000 college graduates each year, but at present the supply is only around 9,000.

Johnson Leads 2 Pet Beagles Out For Display

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson led his two pet beagle dogs out on long chains to show them to 3,000 Democratic women on the White House lawn and to slap back at his critics.

He said because Republicans don't like serious issues like civil rights and medical care they brought up "dogs, light bulbs and speedometers."

The President was mobbed as he tried to walk the dogs amid the crowd. In the crush, one of the dogs got stepped on and let out a yelp. So Johnson finally sent "Him" and "Her" off with White House aides.

The whole Johnson family joined in a wind-up entertainment on the spring-green south lawn, with musical selections by the American Light Opera Company.

Sheriff Probes Area Burglary

COLUMBIA (Special) — The Caldwell Parish Sheriff's Department is investigating the Friday night burglary of a Grayson service station owned by Bill Belcore.

Sheriff Floyd Hodges, who took office only Friday, said the time of the burglary was about midnight.

According to the sheriff, the burglar entered the station through a side door. He reportedly took a car battery, two boxes of tools, two cases of motor oil and 25 cartons of cigarettes after breaking into the vending machine.

The burglary was discovered Saturday morning when the owner opened for business.

D. A. Noonan Jr. Dies; Rites Set

Daniel A. Noonan Jr. died Saturday morning in San Francisco, Calif., after an illness of several weeks.

Funeral services and burial will be held Tuesday in San Francisco.

Among his survivors is his widow, Mrs. Winifred Riggs Noonan, a native and former longtime resident of Monroe.

Noel Bell Choir Wins Honors At State Festival

Superior ratings were won by the Noel Bell Choir of the First Methodist Church of Monroe in both concert and sight reading divisions at the State Music Festival held Friday in Lafayette. A trophy was also presented to the group in recognition of its performance.

Not only is the local group the first bell choir to enter the festival, it is also the first church-sponsored musical organization to participate in the event.

A member of the Louisiana Music Educator's Association, the bell ensemble also received superior ratings at Solo Festival and District Festival, both held recently in Ruston.

After their Friday performance, the Bell Choir was asked to play on a Lafayette television program by Willis Ducrest, festival chairman and member of the music department of the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Organized about a year ago by Mrs. Irvie Lee Temple, choir director at the First Methodist Church, the bell ringers have already performed at a number of public functions in the Twin Cities. They are next scheduled to be guest artists at the spring concert of the Ouachita Parish High School band on Tuesday.

The thirteen menbers of the Noel Bell Choir are Sammy Hill, George D. Temple, Mark Swayze, Danny Hill, Jim Mears, Aaron Polk, Steve Flannery, Freddie Zeagler, Wesley Zeagler, Carolyn Pumphrey, Fran Harbuck, Virginia Harkey and Claire White. Accompanist is Mrs. Dorothy Zeagler, church organist.

HONOR STUDENTS of the Winnsboro High School 1964 graduating class are Jane Routh Lee, left, valedictorian, and Suzanne Walter, salutatorian. Jane Routh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Passman Raps Amendment On School Prayer

WASHINGTON (Special) — Louisiana's Rep. Otto Passman Saturday recorded himself in opposition to the "school prayer" constitutional amendment now pending in the house of representatives.

Hearings on the measure, which is sponsored by Rep. Frank Becker (R., N.Y.), are now under way before the house judiciary committee.

In a statment issued from his office, Passman charged that by adoption of the amendment religious freedom in the United States would be "dangeroulsy undermined, if not actually destroyed."

Passman said that the supreme court's recent "school-prayer" rulings had been widely misunderstood, contending that the decisions "did not, in any manner, prohibit voluntary prayer in public schools, but that, instead, they upheld America's basic safeguard to religious freedom, as guaranteed by the first amendment to the constitution."

He said the decisions "serve to protect religion from the crippling hand of government by upholding the doctrine of the separation of church and state."

"Simply and briefly stated," he added, "the court declared that no governmental authority may prescribe prayers, or readings from any of the versions of scriptures, or any other sort of religious observance for children in public schools. It did not prohibit any of these prac-

State Telephone Group Installs New Officers

Murray C. Fincher, vice president and general manager of Southern Bell in Louisiana, was installed Saturday at president of the Gulf Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America.

The installation of Fincher and other officers to serve the Louisiana Pioneer Organization during the 1964-65 term highlighted the chapter's meeting at Houma.

Other officers installed were Laverne Thomas, of Baton Rouge as first vice president; R. L. Higgins, of New Orleans, as second vice president; I. A. Gashia, of Lafayette, as active member-at-large; and Mrs. Rellie Quinn, of Shreveport, as life member-at-large.

The Telephone Pioneers is an organization of active and retired telephone employees in the United States and Canada who have obtained 21 years of service in the industry. The Louisiana Chapter is composed of nine councils, including the Ouachita Council.

Fincher, whose home is in New Orleans, is active in numerous business and civic organizations in the state.

A graduate of Birmingham-Southern College, he began his telephone career with Southern Bell's Public Relations Department in Atlanta in 1939. He came to Louisiana in May, 1957 as a department head on the vice president's staff. He was elected a vice president of the company and assigned the direction of the company's operations in Louisiana in April, 1963.

FREEWAY DEDICATED

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Formosa's first freeway was dedicated Saturday to the memory of the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Provincial Gov. Huang Chieh presided over ceremonies Saturday morning opening the 17-mile, four-lane highway between Taipei and Keelung.

GENERAL CONFERENCE

Methodists React To Race Measure

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Hundreds of Methodists from various parts of the country converged on their church's general conference Saturday to drive home a plea for stronger racial integration measures within the church.

An estimated 1,000 demonstrators, most of them whites, knelt in lines, joined hands and sang songs outside the main approach to Pittsburgh's Civic Arena as conference delegates streamed past them and into the building. Others paraded with signs.

Negro and white, male and female, then held hands and at times swayed in unison as they sang. The atmosphere was hushed — almost churchlike. Oddly, there wasn't a policeman in sight.

As the morning conference session was about to get under way, they marched single-file into the big round-top arena and took seats in a solic block.

A conference delegate, the Rev. James Laird of Detroit, got permission to take the floor. He read a statement from the demonstrators, saying:

"We believe that the clear command of God to Methodists today is to eliminate the wound and blight of racism in our midsts."

After the statement was read, the conference returned to other matters. Most of the demonstrators got up and left, presumably to go home.

The action took the form of a protest against the conference's passage Friday of a voluntary plan of action for the elimination of the Negro Methodist (Central Jurisdiction) Church.

The demonstrators, members of the group called Methodists for Church Renewal, say they feel the plan of action is inadequate. They said more forceful action is needed to break down racial barriers in the church.

"Voluntarism has become a word to mock the body of Christ," said the statement read by the Rev. Mr. Laird.

MISS LINDA BIRD

Miss Linda Bird Elected Mortar Board President

Miss Linda Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bird of 2715 Point Dr., Monroe, has been elected president of the Mortar Board at Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge.

The Mortar Board is a national honor society for senior women whose members are selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship and service to the university.

Miss Bird, who will be a senior next semester, was capped as a member of the board at the Spring Honors Day Convocation held in the New Union Theatre Building at LSU.

She was capped with 15 other new members, among them Mrs. John A. Hunter, wife of the president of LSU.

After initiation into the society, Miss Bird was then elected president by a vote of the members.

Miss Bird is a Spanish major with an overall average of 2.259. She was recognized for leadership and service as president of Alpha Lambda Delta, as executive officer of Angel Flight, vice president of Pi Beta Phi, chairman of AWS Careers Committee, member of Lambda Intersorority, Standard Boards of Highland and McVoy Hall and Judical Board.

Membership in Mortar Board is recognized as the highest honor that can be obtained by a coed at LSU.

THEY'LL NEVER LOOK FOR HIM THERE

EMDEN, Ill. (AP) — Seeing the "first pheasant" of the hunting season was an unhappy occasion for Mrs. Ernest Jeckel.

Within an hour after the season opened, she heard a crash and rushed to investigate. A pheasant had crashed the picture window in her home.

Dazed by the impact, the wild bird shook off broken glass and wandered away.

Soviets Trying Hard To Win Algerian Favor

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union, in its apparent bid to become Algeria's best friend, is making some progress but has a long way to go.

President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria, here on a state visit, has been given every honor the Soviet Union could heap upon him. And a Soviet commission in Algeria is talking money.

Somehow, his visit hasn't created the public excitement created by the surprise visit here last May Day of Fidel Castro.

But official Russia has given him more attention than was given the Cuban prime minister.

Not only was Ben Bella made a Hero of the Soviet Union, but also he was given the Lenin Peace Prize. This latter is a prize the Soviet Union is trying zealously but without too much success to bring up as a rival to the Nobel Prize.

Unofficial reports here are that the Soviet commission now in Algeria is taking orders for about a $111 million worth of machinery, supplies and general help. This is real money, and puts Algeria in the way of getting aid which may sometime resemble the aid given President Gamal Abdel Nasser for construction of Egypt's Aswan Dam and associated projects.

Ben Bella overiously is impressed, and has made one gay little concession.

If he is a Communist it is unknown to the world. But at any rate he referred to President Leonid Brezhnev last night as "tovarish" or comrade, a greeting normally used in these parts only to refer to fellow Communists.

NEWS ANALYSIS

But Ben Bella is president of a country which has outlawed the Communist party and only very recently seized the party's only newspaper in Algeria, the Alger Republican.

This action, taken at a recent meeting of the National Liberation Front of Algeria, was bound to have something of a jarring effect on many Communists, for the paper was edited by Henri Alleg, an Algerian rebel who had been tortured by the French. Alleg is somewhat of a hero in the Soviet Union, without the official title, and spent several months here.

If verbal commitments count, Ben Bella has made quite a few since he has been here.

He has supported the limited nuclear test ban, peaceful coexistence and disarmament.

In an answering speech Friday night, he credited the Soviet with giving great aid to the Algerian Republic.

3-Day Alcoholism Institute To Open Here Wednesday

"Alcoholism — Community Responsibility" will be the theme of a three day institute on alcoholism this week at Monroe's Virginia Hotel.

Being sponsored by the Twin Cities Council on Alcoholism, institute activities will run Wednesday through Friday.

Co-sponsors are the Ouachita Parish Medical Society, Northeast Louisiana State College, the Caddo-Bossier Council on Alcoholism, the Louisiana Commission on Alcoholism and the Division on Alcoholism of the Louisiana State Department of Hospitals.

Officials have slated participation by "outstanding authorities in the field," among them: Dr. R. L. Raleigh, medical director, Texas Eastman Company, Longview, Tex.; Dr. Howard J. Clinebell Jr., associate professor of pastoral counseling, Southern California School of Hoyle Houser, rehabilitation director, Arkansas Commission on Alcoholism, Little Rock, Ark.; and Al Mazur, chief probation officer, Caddo Parish Juvenile Court, Shreveport.

Clinebell and Raleigh will deliver major addresses both Thursday and Friday, as well as conduct several workshops on specific points.

Clinebell will speak Wednesday during an evening session at 8:30 p.m. Registration begins at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday and reopens at 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

The institute will be open to the public, though officials term it of particular interest to ministers, civic and community leaders, members of the teaching profession, industrial supervisors and others especially concerned with alcoholism.

President George Phillips of the Twin Cities Council on Alcoholism listed these members of an institute planning panel: Rev. Alan King, chairman, Mac Ward, Ralph Caldwell, Travis Howard, Bailey Grant, Mrs. Mary Cook, Dr. Doyle Hamilton, Dr. Eugene Heilman, John Fleming, Mrs. Nina Maxwell, Rabi Martin Silverman and the Rev. Charles Vorkoper.

Dr. Raleigh is a graduate of Albany Medical College, Albany, N. Y., and has served as a fellow with the American Cancer Society and as an assistant in medicine at the Albany Medical College. A member of the American Academy of Occupational Medicine, the Texas Industrial Medical Association and of the American Industrial Hygiene Association, he has specialized in the industrial relations aspects of alcoholism.

Dr. Clinebell, author of several books and publications on alcoholism, is a member of the Educational Advisory Committee of the National Council on Alcoholism. A graduate of De Pauw University, he received his doctorate at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary in applied psychiatry. Dr. Clinebell has served as pastor of several Methodist churches in Indiana, Illinois and New York and served as minister of counseling for the First Methodist Church of Pasadena, Calif.

Mazur is a member of the Louisiana State Bar Association and has wide experience in coping with alcoholism as a result of service as juvenile officer for the Caddo Parish Juvenile Court, considered one of the outstanding courts of its type in the nation.

Houser has been active in the rehabilitation field of alcoholics for many years.

Neville Alumni Annual Banquet Slated Tuesday

Final plans have been completed by the Neville High School Alumni Association for their annual banquet, to be held at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday at the Paragon Club.

Parents of Neville seniors and all alumni of the Monroe City School System are invited to attend the banquet. Reservations may be made by calling Neville High at 323-2237, before noon Monday.

Classes of 1914 and 1939 will also be specially honored at the meeting.

Prior to the banquet at 3:30 p.m., all members of the class of 1939 are invited to an open house at the home of Mrs. Jack Taylor, 2311 Marie Place.

Immediately after the banquet, a reception will be held for all graduates of the old Monroe City High School in the Jade Room of the Paragon Club. Hostesses for this event are Mrs. Blanche Oliver, Mrs. Flora Potts, Mrs. Daisey Haas, Mrs. Dorothy Scholars, Miss Sallie Humble and Mrs. Marietta McGee Brown.

Committee chairmen for the banquet were as follows: nominating, Mrs. Joy McCure; decorating, Mrs. John Sherrouse Jr.; telephone, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Atkinson; program, Mrs. Arthur Wedemeyer; and Alumni Association president, Mrs. John Allen Jr.

Polaris Submarines Fire 79 Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Navy Polaris submarines, making ready for the possible grim day when orders flash suddenly, have launched 79 missiles from the sea so far.

Each one of the 18 Polaris ships already in commission has fired to test equipment or train crews—as will the 23 others to come. Which means that each of the 13 submarines now deployed within missile reach of Russian targets knows what it will be like if a shoot order came.

The Navy, in answer to questions, made some data available to a reporter Saturday.

These show that of the 79 launchings, all but one from submerged positions, 60 are rated as successful. The total includes a number of missiles fired during development, a phase in which failures or semifailures show up more often.

The ship-firings have included all three models of the Polaris missile family—the original A1 series with n approximate range of 1,380 miles, the A2 with 1,727-mile range and the new A3 designed for 2,875 miles.

Of 37 firings of the A1, 24 were successful. But of 40 launches of the A2, all but six are rated as OK.

The A1 or A2 presently are used in all submarines. The A3 is in production. Only two submarine - launched shots have been made with the A3, both classed as successful.

Some test-firings have been programmed in advance with the crews fully briefed. Others have been practice surprises.

On the latter, a signal to launch one or more milliles comes without warning from headquarters.

In sequence, the ship verifies, against codes established, the authenticity of the messaged order; then feeds data cards into highspeed computers. The information whipped out by the computers, to which are added available data on meteorological and other conditions, is fed into the fire control system and the ship if ready for the final step.

The button is pushed. Air— or in the case of newer series, steam—drives the missile from the tube. It breaks into the atmosphere, aligns itself into correct trajectory and course and is on the way.

The Polaris system has another realistic training aspect. The Polaris tender ships, normally based in Holy Loch, Scotland, or at Rota, Spain, sometimes are seen to leave suddenly, along with whatever submarines may be alongside at the moment. Presumably, they have secret alternate bases to which they would move immediately at the outset of a shooting war.

On at least two occasions, the sudden departures of tenders and subs from Holy Loch were under other than practice conditions. They headed out quickly at the onset of the Berlin crisis in 1961 and the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

There is a twofold reason for this procedure: to protect the tender and submarines and to reduce the danger of attack on the location which would expose populations in the target area.

Local Mayors Decree May 3-10 As Music Week

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard and Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe have officially proclaimed the week of May 3-10 as Music Week in the Twin Cities and urged public participation in its observance.

Local activities will be part of National Music Week, sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Planning programs here during the week, according to Mrs. Carole Kilpatrick, publicity chairwoman, are members of the Music Guild, the Musical Coterie and the Fine Arts Club.

Using the theme, "Make Music Your Keynote for Living," officials list four principal objectives: to develop more extensive understanding and appreciation of the great art of music; to encourage more participation in music; to demonstrate the pleasure and value of music; and to vitalize music for the harmony it creates.

The local mayors joint proclamation asks "that all citizens of this community observe and take part in activities, recognizing the importance of music, musicians and musical organizations in the cultural life of our city and state and the nation and world."

Johnson Lists Federal 'Frugality' Measures To Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told his Cabinet Saturday that, in carrying out the administration's economy-and-efficiency drive, "we ought to be as unsatisfied as a little boy's appetite."

Johnson opened an hour-long session of the Cabinet and heads of independent agencies by reading a statement reviewing the federal government's frugality efforts.

Some of the highlights:

—More than a million dollars will be saved by eliminating 141 publications which are now deemed unnecessary. Included on the list being axed were the "Rural Line Bulletin," "The Caribbean Forester" and the "Patent Office Index."

—Some $5 million is being saved because the General Services Administration has figured out a way to cut back federal office space by 3½ square feet per employe.

Cigarette Ban Poses Problem

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—A ban on campus sale of cigarettes at Kansas State University has caused "a marked decrease in boy-girl relationships," says the student newspaper.

The reason: the girls can't stand cigars, which can still be sold on the campus.

"The female gender," says an editorial in the Daily Collegian, "has in many cases given the ultimatum 'Either take the cigar or me'.

But some males, the paper says, are heeding Rudyard Kipling's admonition that "A woman's just a woman, but a good cigar's a smoke."

Parade, Awards Slated Thursday At Area College

RUSTON (Special) — To honor senior cadets and outstanding individuals, the Louisiana Tech Air Force ROTC wing will conduct a parade and present awards in ceremonies scheduled for Thursday noon on the college football field.

Receiving awards will be John S. Davis of Ruston, Air Force Association Award; Edwin E. Walker of Logansport, General Dynamics Award; Carroll E. Gowins of Ruston, Air Force Times Award; Thomas J. Vining of Oakdale, Reserve Officers' Association Medal.

Chicago Tribune ROTC medals will be presented to Grady J. Landry of Vinton, Charlton L. Cooke Jr., of Honolulu, Hawaii, James J. Cozine Jr., of Monroe, and John M. Hoffman of Lacombe.

Luther C. Anthony of Springhill will receive the Sons of the American Revolution Medal and Don R. Price of Pollock will receive the Air Force Communications and Electronics Association Award.

Lt. Col. James B. Sanford, assistant professor of Air Science and commandant of cadets at Tech, will receive this last parade of the school year. Cadet Col. Kerry G. Herron will be commander of troops.

The event will start at 12:10 p.m. and the public is invited to attend. In the event of rain, awards will be presented in Howard Auditorium.

Fred Brownlee Is Speaker At Memorial Today

Ruling Elder Fred Brownlee of Covenant Presbyterian Church will be speaker at 11 a.m. services today at Memorial Presbyterian Church.

He is substituting in the absence of Dr. Hugh Brandshaw, pastor who has been attending the annual meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., in Montreat, North Carolina.

Tommy Reighney, a member of Memorial Church, will preside at 7 p.m. worship hour, with the young people of the church being in charge of the program. At the 7:30 p.m. Wednesday services, Ruling Elder D. W. Reighney, will be in charge.

LEADERS OF AN HONORARY society, Delta Beta Omicron, which became a chapter of the national Cwens at Louisiana Tech Saturday night, include these three students. Frances Anders, center, of Winnfield will be president of the national Tech unit for the coming year. At the left is Frankie Adams of Mansfield, head of the local DBO organization for 1962-63. Dana Miller, right, of Pineville is the retiring president of DBO.

AT LOUISIANA TECH

Installation Held For New Chapter

RUSTON (Special) — Delta Beta Omicron, organized as a local honorary society for sophomore women students at Louisiana Tech, now is Chi chapter of the national Cwens, which is an Agnlo-Saxon word meaning "queens" or "ladies."

Installation activities for 50 members of the national organization were concluded here Saturday with an initiation banquet at 5:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Miss Alice Smolkovich of Pittsburgh, Pa., national vice president and ritual chairman of Cwens, participated in the installation program, which began with a get-acquainted party in the home economics lounge Friday at 7 p.m. At that time, a test was given to propsective members.

Ten members of the University of Mississippi chapter of Cwens met with the candidates for initiation at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The addition of the Tech chapter brings the number of Cwens chapters to 20 throughout the United States. The organization was founded at the University of Pittsburgh in 1922 by the the dean of women there to honor women student leaders. A gold crown and scepter are emblems of the society.

Purposes of the organization are to foster leadership, scholarship and a spirit of service, to encourage leadership among freshman girls, to promote fellowship among sophomore women and to promote the interest of one's college in various ways.

ARTISTIC USES OF NEWSPAPERS

By SARAH LITTLE
Staff Writer

The newspaper, a conveyor of enlightenment, serves also as a source of materials for eye-pleasing art forms, students in a West Monroe High School art class have discovered.

Monroe Morning World
SUNDAY FEATURES
Monroe, La., May 3, 1964—One-B
Editorials Spotlight Sports

What has almost as many uses around the house as a bottle of vinegar and "elbow grease"? Any self-respecting reporter can answer that — a newspaper, of course.

A newspaper not only serves as a source of information on current events, but housewives across the nation would find it difficult to get along without the paper while doing their household chores.

Some of the wide variety of uses of the newspaper include lining cans, cutting out patterns, wrapping around food parcels, an insulator when defrosting the icebox, polishing windows, mirrors and cars, protective coverings on floors when painting, sopping up spilled water, wrapping materials for throwing away, wrapping flowers for transplanting, etc.

NEW USE

I could, of course, go on enumerating the wide range of uses that a newspaper is put to, but the beginning art classes at West Monroe High School recently discovered a fascinating new use for the common newspaper.

They used this familiar part of American life in making colorful unusual toys, masks and items of decor. Stacks of newspapers were ripped to shreds, and used to make papier mache which was fashioned into the colorful, and sometimes bizarre, creatures, puppets, masks and other projects.

Half the fun of making the papiermache objects was letting their imaginations run wild, according to the students. And their handiwork certainly proved what "fertile imaginations" they have.

The group not only sculptured with the torn up newspapers, but they also made three-dimensional figures and masks.

WIDE RANGE

The projects included puppets ranging from clowns, hoboes, and outer space creatures to ghosts, devils and the popular "Beatles." The three-D figures ran the gamut from pre-historic animals, giraffes, and elephants, to far out creatures that even "Outer Limits" never dreamed of. As for the masks created, the theme included witch doctors, clowns, bears and beak-nosed, bespectacled professors.

The students learned not only the fun of making these items for themselves, but also the pleasure of making them as gifts for friends. The papier mache figures can also be made into items for sale at bazaars or as prizes for parties.

OTHER USES

Papier mache can be used in fashioning ash trays, savings banks, bracelets and necklaces and even wall decorations.

Back during the 18th century, papermakers in France used papier mache in making parts of bodies for coaches, buttons and other ornaments.

The art of making papier mache into beautiful decorations of oriental motif was known in the East centuries before its introduction into Europe. The molded paper products came into existence in France in the late 18th century, probably, according to historians, to utilize used paper and avoid complete waste of a costly material.

Before the close of the century, German and English manufacturers rivaled France in the production in quantity and quality of papier mache products. Frederick the Great established a papier mache factory in Berlin as early as 1765. However, the papier mache industry declined during and after the 19th century, but left one important application in the use of papier mache.

MATRICES

This was the use of papier mache in making matrices from which stereotype printing plates are cast. These are the curved plates which made early printing from rotary presses practicable. Papier mache is also still in use in making toys, masks, model scenic materials, etc., for industrial sale.

To make models out of papier mache requires very little material — and all of it very common, ordinary items such as the newspaper. Materials needed include newspapers, string, wallpaper paste (or a paste made from flour, salt and water can be subsituted), cardboard cylinders, tempera paint and shellac. If puppets are being made, material for making clothing is also necessary, as well as other sewing apparatus.

Perhaps one of the simplest items made by the students was a large-sized Easter egg, hollowed out to be filled with chocolate rabbits, eggs and other goodies.

METHOD

To make the egg, an egg-shaped ballon is inflated and covered with about four layers of newspaper strips which have been dipped in the paste. The newspaper is torn in strips varying in size from one-half to an inch in width. The size of the strips used depends on the item being made. If the item is small, then minute strips of newspaper are used. The bigger the item, the larger the size of strips that can be used.

After the strips have been applied all over the balloon in four layers, the item is left to dry in a space away from heaters. When dry, an opening is cut in the front in the shape of a "window" and the bottom of the newspaper egg is pressed in so that the egg will stand upright. The bottom is pressed so that it becomes more or less flat.

When the egg is first punctured, the balloon pops and pulls away from the papier mache egg. It can be easily removed from inside while shaping the "window" opening.

NEXT STEP

The next step is to paint the egg with the tempera paint. Whatever designs are desired may be painted on, and if tempera paint is used, it can be easily painted over if not satisfied with the first drawings. After the paint has dried, shellac is applied to the entire egg and if desired, seqiuns or glitter can be applied with glue onto the dried, shellacked surface.

The inside of the decorated egg can be made attractive by painting it or by glueing colorful tissue paper or foil to the walls.

The three-D objects are also fairly simple to make, requiring only three steps. First, newspaper is folded or rolled into the size you want the main body of the object to be. This roll is then securely tied with string and bent for a neck, body and tail.

The next step is to add layers of newspaper and paste until the desired size and shape are formed. This is allowed to dry, and the last step of painting and shellacking is performed. Giraffes, bears, horses, other animals, and "outer space" creatures are made this way.

INTERESTING YEAR

According to the two art instructors at West Monroe High School Mrs. Vorice George and Mrs. Betty Woodhead, the students have had an interesting year. Their projects have included lettering with pen and ink, making portfolios to contain their paintings, pencil drawing, perspective, designing and tooling leather belts and billfolds, print making with potatoes, gadgets and linoleum blocks, papier mache and color painting.

Both teachers pointed out that anyone interested in making the inexpensive papier mache figures can "get into business" simply by checking at the local public library for a book which contains all directions necessary on making numerous objects.

A SHOWCASE OF work done by West Monroe High School beginning art students contains all kinds of papier mache creatures, ranging from witch doctor masks, pre-historic monsters and "outer space creatures" to puppets of "Beatles," monkeys and ghosts. (Staff photos by Ben Bradford)

SHOWING OFF SOME of the creatures made out of papier mache by them and other students in the beginning art classes at WMHS out of papier mache are, from left, David Lester, Becky Mann and Bearl Wheeler. The animals include a witch doctor mask, a penquin, a puppet, horses, a wolf, a dog, and an "outer-space" creature.

WEST MONROE ART students demonstrate the various steps in making the three-dimensional figures from papier mache. Materials include newspapers, string, paste, paint and shellac. Here one sees the original string-tied body of a griaffe, the body after paper stripes have been pasted on and the final product, painted and shellacked. An Easter egg also is seen on the table and the students (from left) David Lester, Becky Mann, and Carolyn Sharp, are in the beginning stages of making puppet heads.

Opinion And Information

Although the old saw that "Gold is where you find it" still holds true, there are only two fundamental ways in which most of us can earn money and a livelihood. Any student of economy knows those two ways are through the sale of goods and through the sale of services. Either we must sell something at a profit or we must work for some one.

Counting those who work for salaries, a far greater number of people earn money through the sale of services than through the sale of goods but there are many who sell their services directly to the people, rather than through an employer. Those who do this are as eager as are the merchants to find out what the people want. Because of this, they use various ways to find out, often using public opinion polls.

Those who buy goods and services are known by at least five different names, each of which has a different meaning, although they are sometimes overlapped in usage. These people are called customers, clients, constituents, patients and patrons. To clarify it a little, those who buy goods from merchants are customers, those who use the services of lawyers are clients, those in a certain area served by an officeholder, such as a congressman, are constituents, those who go to doctors are patients and those who go to picture shows or Little Theater entertainments are patrons.

Although this is a time when our freedoms are under attack as never before, it is also a time when public opinions are sought more often and given more freely than at any time in the history of this country.

All kinds of forums and public opinion mediums are popular. Those that have prevailed in this country since the advent of printing include public meetings at which people express their opinions and certain sections of the newspapers which are given over to those who wish to express their views, such as the "Views of Our Readers" column carried in the Monroe Morning World.

Views of readers carried in newspapers are of particular interest to everyone because they show what the people are thinking and how they stand on matters that are vital to the public. Office-holders not only pay attention to expressions of opinion in the letters they receive but also in letters carried in the newspapers.

Of more recent origin are columns dealing with personal, social, psychological, medical, financial and social security problems. Never before have people had so much opportunity to express what they think or to receive such informed answers to their questions.

In the medical, personal, psychological and social fields Dr. Peter J. Steinchron, Ann Landers and Dr. George W. Crane are among the outstanding writers. There are many others, of course. These columns not only give readers answers to their questions but give them opportunities to express their own views on what is being done in the right way, in the wrong way or not being done at all. If a reader sees something lacking in any of these fields, he is free to point out that fact.

Politicians and merchants long have wanted to find out what their constituents and customers think and want. Now, more than ever before, physicians are interested in learning the same things, from their patients, believing that insight thus gained will assist them in giving treatment, in providing some attention heretofore largely neglected and possibly even in finding new cures. Columns which present views of the readers help those in each profession a great deal.

Even though government leaders seem bent on socializing and controlling the people, the general sentiment is that the public must be informed on everything. Public expression not only is among the best ways to give information but to receive it as well.

President's Beagles' Ears

Talk about a man who can get publicity outside his official duties! It's president Johnson. First, reporters said he was driving his high-powered car at 85 or 90 miles an hour while holding up a filled paper cup in one hand. Now, according to an Associated Press news story, dog lovers throughout the nation have set up a howl because Johnson picked up his beagles, Him and Her, by their ears, to make them yelp. He was photographed in the act, too, the story said.

In Charleston, W. Va., Humane Officer Kenneth Pauley growled: "The president did that? You are kidding. If he were in Charleston, I'd run him in.

"Any vet will tell you you're not supposed to pick up a rabbit by the ears. I've been handling animals 32 years and I never heard of that."

After Jonhson had picked up one of the two dogs by the ears, he was asked:

"Why did you do that?"

"To make him bark," Johnson replied. "It's good for him. And, if you've ever followed dogs, you like to hear them yelp."

The most discussed picking-up-by-the-ears job prior to the Johnson episode was that involving the late Thomas Edison, great scientist and electrical wizard who, among other things, was the father of the talking machine. Reportedly, Edison was standing beside the open door of a freight car when a man in the door reached down, took him by the ears and lifted him into the car. During most of his life, Edison was extremely hard of hearing and this affliction was blamed on the ear-lifting stunt.

It is to be hoped Johnson's dogs won't develop deafness, although in some ways they might not be much worse off than the chief executive, who seems to have trouble hearing anything the people in the south say to him, particularly on the integration question.

There was quite a hassle over the Johnson incident. Melvin Schlesinger (with a last name the sounds oddly familiar in Democratic circles) said all the baying against the president was just "Republican propaganda." He stated: "You often pick up a beagle that way by its ears to see how it looks."

Clint Callahan, a Long Island beagle breeder, said: "Maybe its done in Texas, but I never heard of it."

Some people endorse Johnson even though he wants to seize white people's homes in good neighborhoods and sell them to Negroes and wants to take away the jobs of union men with seniority and give them to Negroes, as evidenced by the terms of the civil rights bill now before the senate, but what can they say about the bad example he sets for youngsters by excessively fast driving and by picking up beagles by the ears?

To the Editor:

The board of commissioners of Glenwood Hospital wishes to express to you and your organization our thanks and appreciation for your interest and assistance in giving the news and keeping the public informed relative to the expansion of Glenwood Hospital. Your organization has been very instrumental in the past in promoting worthwhile civic projects in Ouachita Parish and it is the feeling of the board of commissioners that the expansion of Glenwood Hospital is just one more step in making a better Ouachita Parish.

Likes Golf Coverage

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I intended to write you sooner and congratulate you on the fine job you did of covering the Masters. I have heard many favorable comments on your coverage, especially the part where you gave the approximate yardage of the drives to the greens and the clubs used by Palmer in one of his rounds.

Enjoyed the information you published on Hogan. His excellent play on the last three holes on TV substantiated your comments that he is still able to make all the shots.

Sincerly,

Monroe, La.

Dear Mr. Whetstone:

While you are at it, suggest that you save local taxpayers several thousand dollars a year by working to straighten out the dual school systems in the City of Monroe, La. I attended a meeting where you were and we all agreed that this should have been done a few years ago, but when the parish school board voted to request a survey as to what could be done, someone in the state department would not recognize this request and you were a member of the state board then and the city board too at this time.

Yours for better education without so much waste in Ouachita Parish, and you are in a position to do something about it.

Pilot Club Thanks

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The Pilot Club of Monroe would like to take this opportunity to tell you how very much we appreciate the nice publicity you gave to us for our district convention held in Monroe on April 17-19, 1964. The other Clubs in this District said it was the best they had ever seen.

Thank you again so very much for all of this wonderful coverage for the Convention.

Election Year's Effect On Stocks

Q.: WHAT IS THE pattern of the stock market in presidential election years?

A.: Absolutely none. In eight past presidential election years going back to 1932, the stock market has ended the year UP on average four times, has ended the year DOWN on average four times — as inconclusive a pattern as you could get.

Q.: Is the stock market likely to hit its high for the year before or after the President election?

A.: The market refuses to make it easy for you. In the eight past election years, the high for the year has occurred before the election five times and after the election, three times.

Q.: Any difference between the stock market's performance in years of Republican victories and Democratic victories?

A.: Not enough to give you solid clues to action. There were five Democratic victories between 1932 and President Eisenhower's election in 1952. In these five years, the market ended lower three times, higher two times. During Eisenhower's victorious years of 1952 and 1956, the market moved higher.

Q.: UNDER WHICH party is a major bear or bull market most probable?

A.: Under either. The worst bear market in history — late 1929 to mid-1932 — occurred under a G.O.P. administration. The sharpest crackup since — in 1962 — occurred under a Democratic administration.

The spectacular bull market of the 1920s coincided with G.O.P administrations. The fabulous bull market of the 1950s began under the Democrats, flourished under both the Elephant and the Donkey.

Q.: What then is the tie between stocks and election yars?

A.: Despite the persistent myth that there is a close connection, the fact is that there isn't and there hasn't been since the 19th century. The fundamental forces determining stock prices now are the trends of business, corporation profits, individual incomes and confidence. Much more vital to the stock market's decline than Truman's election in 1948 was the fact that 1948 marked our first major postwar recession. Much more vital to the stock market's rise than Eisenhower's election in 1952 was the fact that we were into the boom of the 1950s.

Here's the record to guide you through the uninformed arguments about stock prices and elections as the year rolls on.

1932: ROOSEVELT, D. The familiar Dow-Jones industrial stock average entered the year at 77.90, made its high in March, its low in July, closed down for the year at 59.93.

1936: Roosevelt, D. The average began at 144.13, made its low in January, its high in November, closed up for the year at 179.90.

1940: Roosevelt, D. The average started at 150.24, made its high in January, its low in June, closed down for the year at 131.13.

1944: Roosevelt, D. The average started at 135.89, made its low in February, its high in December, closed up for the year at 152.32.

1948: Truman, D. The Dow-Jones index began at 181.16, made its low in March, its high in June, closed down for the year at 177.30.

1952: Eisenhower, R. The average began at 269.23, made its low in May, its high in December, closed up for the year at 291.90.

1956: EISENHOWER, R. The average started at 488.40, made its low in January, its high in April, closed up for the year at 499.47.

1960: Kennedy, D. The index started at 679.06, made its high in January, its low in October, closed down for the year at 615.89.

1964: The Dow-Jones index started the year at 766.08, made its low for the year to date that same day and is now hovering slightly below its all-time high of 827.33.

Johnson Asking Violent Change

SPEAKING AS ONE American citizen, I am getting just a little tired of being told that this country must do this or do that in order to prevent the rest of the world from turning on us. This either or argument is nonsense. It has been used to justify fantastic expenditures in antagonistic or Communist countries, presumably to prevent Communism from spreading.

As an American voter, I am shocked at President Lyndon Johnson's formulation to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce this past week. The President called for the destruction of those "ancient enemies"—poverty and ignorance. Who could disagree? But then, by implication, he warned that the only way to do this was by more of the old spend-and-spend program which failed to pull us out of the 1930 depression and which today damages the economy and keeps millions of unemployed on relief rolls.

The President is entitled to his opinion. As long as he is President, he must follow his beliefs and try to perpetuate the program he feels is best for the country. What disturbed me was the President's assertion that if the deplorable conditions he insists now exist are not changed peacefully along the lines of his program, "a violent change is inevitable."

IN OTHER WORDS, the goblins will get you if you don't watch out.

There is a threat in those words which I do not like. They are, moreover, based on false logic and a false understanding of what causes revolutions and what revolutions achieve.

Volent change has never filled a single empty belly. Violent change never created a viable economic order. As the Spanish philosopher, Jose Ortegay Gasset, wrote: when the mobs riot for bread, the first thing they do is burn the bakeries.

The great upheavals have never been caused by hungry people — only by dissatisfied people. The French Revolution, we have forgotten, came at a time of considerable prosperity. The revolutions of the 19th and 20th centuries were stirred up and led by the middle class. The leaders of the African anti-colonialist movements have been well fed and well-educated. They have been able to manipulate mobs by playing on hatred and frustrations, not hunger. The mobs now realize in many cases that they have less to eat under the "freedom" of the new rulers. The demonstrations and the battles merely shifted political power from experienced to rapacious hands.

In the President's speeches on poverty the picture is painted of a United States poor and underprivileged. Simply by focussing all his attention on a condition which strikes at only a tiny fraction of the population, Mr. Johnson denigrates an entire nation. Never is it pointed out that most unemployed workers in the U.S. have a higher standard of living than the fully employed of the Communist bloc. Seldom is it said that under the American system, there is less poverty than any other society has ever seen.

THIS INCREDIBLE prosperity — interrupted but never stopped — is not the product of the planners and so-called welfare-statists. There were roughly as many unemployed in the United States seven years after Franklin D. Roosevelt made elephantiasis-of-the-budget a chronic Federal disease than when he took office. Since 1933, we have been brainwashed into believing that Uncle Sam, by shoveling out the dollars, would put an end to all economic problems. Now the self-proclaimed follower and heir of the Roosevelt line confesses that one-fifth of the population is in dire straits—thereby putting in question his entire argument.

Programs are needed to rehabilitate areas of the United States which have been hit badly by the shifts in technology. As farming becomes an industry rather than a small enterprise, means must be found to help the farmer find his way in an urban or urbanized society.

But the scatter-gun approach which points Federal dollars in one general direction and then blasts does no good for those in need and hurts the rest of the country. President Johnson's either-or speech may have sounded good to some. But it failed to discuss the issues in a responsible and statesmanlike manner.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Suggests Negroes Want Privileges

THE POLICE Commissioner of New York is an Irishman without, it is said, an Irishman's temper, but even so by last Tuesday he had apparently had more than he could stand and he lashed out at the critics of the New York Police Department. He had obviously in mind first and foremost James Farmer, director of CORE, who has been complaining of discriminatory brutality by the New York police against Negroes. Murphy passionately denied any such thing, and came rather close to suggesting that some New York Negroes are expecting not equality on account of their color, but privileged treatment on account of their color.

On the morning of the same day that Mr. Murphy boiled over, a three-man panel of judges led by Judge Gassman sentenced a white CORE leader in Brooklyn who had taken part in the effort to close down the World's Fair to one year in jail. More precisely, the Court activated a one-year suspended sentence that had previously been earned by 26-year-old Arnold Goldwag, but suspended for a probationary period that ran out of gas along with Mr. Goldwag's car, en route to the World's Fair. On receiving the news in the courtroom Mr. Goldwag responded by throwing himself on his back right there in front of the three judges and refusing to budge. In due course he was propped up by some of Mr. Murphy's patient men, and thereupon sentenced to an additional thirty days for contempt of Court. It is a lucky thing Mr. Goldwag got a glimpse of the Fair on opening day, as it will be just about over by the time he gets out of jail.

MEANWHILE, of course, a hue and cry will go up against the brutality of the New York court system. But like Mr. Murphy, the judges, I suspect, are in a mood to fight back. It is their responsibility, they will remind us, to enforce the law. The law — remember? That quaint reliquary of bygone days, back before Martin Luther King discovered it was unpatriotic and ungodly to observe it?

It is all especially galling to Southerners, needless to say. They noticed how hotly New York reacted against the proposed stall-in, and how quickly the body of responsible New Yorkers came to the defense of their police and their courts. It is never so in the South: every charge of police brutality is instantly credited, coast to coast. There are no missionaries, down from New York to urge Southern Negroes to obey the law, to respect private property, to stay out of the way of traffic. Just last summer a private amusement park in Maryland was made inaccessible by stall-ins and sit-ins in which important divines of various faiths flamboyantly participated: that was okay — but don't interfere with the World's Fair . . . The police in New York are eminently fair and responsible — but not those of Birmingham or Jacksonville . . . The double standard outrages a great many Southerners (who, one might wish, would be equally outraged on those occasions when double standards of justice are meted out to white and black citizens).

THE PROBLEM of law enforcement will become more acute as the civil rights movement grows more reckless, which it threatens to do. The reason for it is a) the much remarked rivalry among leaders of the movement — who, like many labor union leaders, feel that they must constantly increase their demands in order to satisfy their clientele; b) the intrinsically elusive nature of the thing the Negroes hunger for: a kind of social equality which will not be achieved in our time. And c), because the rowdyism that is latent in every one of us — what Herbert Agar once called the "anarchic passion to smash," what Victor Gollancz calls the "Hitler in ourselves" — is officially unleashed by those civil rights leaders who began with non-violent, lawful protests, progressed to non-violent, non-lawful protests, and move now in the direction of violent, nonlawful protests of the kind threatened by Malcolm X. A clear statement of the moral rationale was furnished at the dock in South Africa last week by the terrorist Mandele: if peaceful protests don't work, try violent protests. See?

One can hope that the resolute Murphys and the no-nonsense Gassmans will wield effective deterrent force. Otherwise, New York will have an opportunity to demonstrate what devices it has discovered for controlling mobs which are less offensive than electrical cattle-prods, police dogs, and fire hoses, and equally effective.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The Week In Focus

by Jack Gates

Editor's Note: While Executive Editor Jack Gates is mending from recent surgery, the Week in Focus is being written and compiled by John Cale of the News-Star and Morning World editorial staff.

April Exits

THE SCATTERED rains and intermittent twisters following on the heels of last week's heavy weather in north Louisiana afforded a turbulent backdrop to what proved to be a relatively quiet week on the news front.

After several damaging tornadoes had touched down in the Shreveport area prior to the weekend, others swept through eastern Texas with one striking near Chestnut in Natchitoches Parish Sunday.

After a three-inch downpour had drenched the Monroe area, one amateur weather watcher offered the comment of the week in understatement:

"April showers bring May flowers."

THE TURN of events of the week also included a turn of the calendar from April to May. There were open and shut cases in the realm of romance. Lynda Bird Johnson, daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson, announced she had broken off her engagement with Navy Lieutenant Junior Grade Bernard Rosenbach.

On the other hand, the royal wedding between Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Spain's Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma took place as scheduled in Rome. Because of religious differences between her own family and her husband's, the princess elected to renounce her claim to the throne of Holland.

CLOSER TO home, a sparse turnout of voters Tuesday gave a one-sided approval to Ouachita Parish to continue certain maintenance taxes. All five measures of a property owners tax election were supported by a majority of nearly seven to one.

Only 1,394 voters turned out to vote, however, out of approximately 24,000 registered as property owners in the parish's 48 precincts. There's a message in these figures for those who are sincerely concerned about the transfer of power from the local property owner to the federal government.

Also from the Police Jury, there was the election of a new president, T. W. Humphries. Humphries was elected to the parish governing body in the recent Police Jury election and is a resident of Ward 10.

Primaries

ALTHOUGH greater attention in this part of the country will be focused on the Indiana primary Tuesday, a race in which Alabama Governor George Wallace's name is on the ballot, there were such elections this past week in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Two unannounced Republican prospects — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Governor William Scranton — rolled to impressive home state primary victories in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

On the Democratic side of the ballot, President Johnson demonstrated his political popularity with resounding write-in triumphs.

IN MASSACHUSETTS, Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was running up a margin of nearly 8 to 1 over his nearest rival, Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

GOV. SCRANTON

In Pennsylvania, Scranton, whose name appeared on the ballot as "reluctant" favorite son, was polling a probably record write-in vote for the Keystone State. The governor himself expressed amazement at the size of the vote and state GOP leaders urged him to "stand available" as a presidential candidate at the July convention.

JOHNSON easily outscored Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in the latter's home state of Massachusetts and the President was given an enthusiastic write-in vote in Pennsylvania. Neither he nor Kennedy were active candidates in the primaries.

Lodge was openly delighted over his second "write-in" triumph in recent months — the first coming in New Hampshire — although he has made no formal declaration of his candidacy.

In Saigon, the 1960 GOP vice presidential candidate issued a statement in which he said "it means much to me that my fellow citizens of Massachusetts should show this confidence. I shall always do my utmost to deserve their trust."

With virtually all precincts reporting, the ambassador polled 27,483 votes to Goldwater's 3,577. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Scranton, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Harold Stassen trailed in that order.

From the Democrats, Johnson received 24,918 votes. Kennedy, brother of the late President, tallied 7,124.

THE LARGE number of presidential preference write-in votes for Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in Philadelphia and adjoining Delaware County in Tuesday's primary election had political experts puzzled.

The segregationist governor received 1,709 write-in votes in Philadelphia, a large number considering the cumbersome requirements of writing in names on voting machines. Also puzzling was the fact that 1,015 of Wallace's votes in the city were on Republican ballots and that his votes were not restricted according to racial areas.

President Lyndon Johnson received, 1935 votes, all on Democrats ballots.

Stateside

THE COMMITTEE planning Governor-elect John McKeithen's inauguration ceremonies at Baton Rouge said the May 12 festivities would range from the strictly formal to the more informal.

Along with the formal swearing in ceremonies on the capitol steps, there will be parades, balls, banquets and an open house for the general public at the state's new million-dollar executive mansion.

DURING ONE of the closing sessions of the state Parent-Teachers convention in Shreveport last weekend, action was taken to keep the organization closed to racially integrated units.

A MOVE to admit mixed groups was blocked by the 500 delegates attending the PTA's annual meeting.

The issue first arose several years ago when New Orleans public schools were desegregated and some Negro parents applied for membership to local PTA units. The state group refused to recognize any units admitting Negroes.

THE STATE group called on the legislature to establish "minimum educational standards" at schools supported by state grants-in-aid.

Another resolution calling for the state to quit supporting such private schools was defeated.

A substitute resolution said minimum standards should be established in the grant-in-aid schools because the program had become "subject to many abuses."

Front Runners

PRESIDENT Charles de Gaulle left Cochin Hospital after prostate gland surgery two weeks ago.

De Gaulle was seated in a limousine beside Mrs. de Gaulle.

IN STUTTGART, Germany, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard scored a prestige-boosting victory Sunday in his first test at the polls since taking over from Konrad Adenauer half a year ago.

Complete unofficial returns from the Baden-Wuerttemberg state electon showed his Christian Democratic party gained heavily to capture almost half of the total votes.

Ludwig Erhard

THE GAINS were made at the expense of the Christian Democrats' smaller coalition partners. The opposition Socialists marked a slight increase but failed to match that of the Erhard party.

Voters elected a new legislature for the state, one of West Germany's largest and wealthiest. It was the last major vote before next year's general election, and was watched closely by all parties for trends.

BARRY Goldwater still holds a commanding lead in Republican convention delegates despite home state write-in victories by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

Regardless of how he fares in the primaries before his California test on June 2, Goldwater is building up such a bloc of delegates that his campaign lieutenants claim he could win the presidential nomination on the first ballot.

The Arizona senator made an impressive showing in Tuesday's presidential primaries in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, where only write-in votes were cast.

School Prayer

TWO MINDS usually separated in affairs of state came forward with similar testimony last week on the issue of outlawing prayer in schools. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace each charged Thursday that the Supreme Court usurped authority in outlawing prayer in public schools. They urged Congress to override the court.

BISHOP SHEEN

The fluent Catholic prelate and the governor testified before the House Judiciary Committee on a host of proposals for amending the Constitution to set aside the court's orders barring religious worship as as a part of public school programs.

WALLACE WENT much farther than Bishop Sheen, charging that the court had handed down a number of decisions which "give aid and comfort to agitators, to anarchists, to atheists, to those who would replace the flag . . . with the red signal of discord, anarchy and atheism."

He said the prayer decisions were "part of a deliberate design to subordinate the American people, their faith, their customs, and their religious traditions in a godless state."

The bishop said in a prepared statement that the court's ruling "should be constitutionally amended." But he declined to endorse specifically any of the 147 proposed amendments under committee study, and agreed under questioning that Congress should proceed cautiously.

Race And Religion

THE GENERAL Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, meeting at Montreat, North Carolina, last week began implementing a stronger civil rights policy by ordering all-white presbyteries in seven southern states to absorb three all-Negro presbyteries.

A PROPOSAL to withdraw from the National Council of Churches, which plans to train youths for civil rights work in the Mississippi Delta this summer, was defeated by the denomination's 104th General Assembly.

Conservative ministers protested Monday's order by the assembly to integrate Negro and white presbyteries, or judicial districts.

THE ORDER affects presbyteries in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Louisiana. The area has 43 Negro churches with a membership of 2,560.

"This is the type of coercion that will put our churches in the area in a tailspin," said the Rev. John Miller of Jackson, Mississippi.

"It's been constitutional to have segregated presbyteries all these years," he said. "Why the push now?"

The Rev. Thomas Frye of Dallas, Texas, said, "We will be forcing some of our brethren out of the church."

THE ASSEMBLY defeated 276 to 136 a motion to request the integration rather than order it.

In Action

MEANTIME, there was little in the way of religious overtones in the civil rights demonstrations which swarmed into Nashville, Tennessee, streets during the week, blocking traffic and protesting against segregated eating places.

Club-swinging policemen tried to disperse the crowd, mostly teen-age Negroes, but were unable to break it up until a fire truck swung into range, ready to spray streams of water. Hundreds of demonstrators sat in the street.

Ruby Case

THE JACK Ruby case entered a new phase during the week as lawyers began preparations for appeals.

Attorney Joe Tonahill said he hopes to have the matter before the state's only appellate criminal court within six months.

Judge Joe B. Brown denied a defense motion for a new trial Wednesday — exactly a month and a half after Ruby, 53, received a death verdict from a Dallas jury.

THE FORMER night club operator was convicted of murder with malice for the Nov. 24 killing of Lee Harvey Oswald, alleged assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Should the Court of Criminal Appeals rule against Ruby, he and his lawyers will have to turn to the federal courts. Observers say the appeal of the verdict could take years.

Smoke Scare Over

APPARENTLY most Americans are reaching for the cigarettes again in spite of the grim statistics presented in the Surgeon General's Report earlier in the year.

A Denver distributor of tobacco products put it this way: "After all, most people don't worry about the atom bomb."

A Hollywood salesgirl noted: "I ask customers about cancer and they say it's for the younger ones to stop smoking. The older generation is a goner anyway."

IT SEEMS the boost in cigarette sales began last month and really recovered its strength during April, barely three months since the government report linked cigarette smoking to cancer.

Truman Retains Vigor Despite His 80th Year

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) —When Harry S. Truman was only 79, someone suggested he was an elder statesman.

Truman bristled.

"I'm still working hard as I can for the good of the country," he said. "An elder statesman—that's someone who doesn't do anything."

By that definition, as his 80th birthday approaches Friday, Harry Truman still is not an elder statesman.

He sticks to his formula: work hard, walk fast, sleep tight and learn to relax.

"For 80 years of age, he's marvelous," says a long-time friend, Eugene P. Donnelly. "His mentality and vitality still are waxing strong. His locomotion has slowed down, but his mind is keen as ever."

Truman's slowed walk — it's still fast for 80—and his 12-14 pounds of recently added weight are the only outward signs of change in the former president. If anything, they make his appearance more distinguished and his bearing more stately.

He still keeps the hours of his farm days: up at 5, to bed at 9:30. He has added brief naps at noon and occasionally to 3:30, when he leaves his office in the Truman Library.

ONLY COURSE

Herbert Hoover reportedly once told Truman: "The only thing for an old president to do is to take pills and dedicate libraries."

Hoover hasn't done that Dwight Eisenhower hasn't. Neither has the man from Independence. He is busier and more in demand than ever.

"He turns down an average of 30 to 40 requests for appearances each day and he considers every one of them," says Tom Evans, a close friend.

Through a miraculous budgeting of time, Truman somehow finds a moment for people who come to see him—and there are many. The guest register is a democratic mingling of the famous, and the plain: statesmen who want his advice, politicians looking for support, friends of friends, and people who just want to shake hands.

Newsmen don't get much chance to question Truman individually. He holds news conferences when groups of reporters want his comment on the same thing or—when he's out of town—they are given during the 20 paces a minute he calls a walk.

"What got you up so early:" he asks the reporter who greets him at the library at 7:30. Then comes the familiar grin and: "What is it you want to know?"

Eighty is an arbitrary milestone, the newsman remarks.

"Oh, I don't know about that," says Truman who in the past has wished people would forget about his birthdays.

Is there anything in your life you would change?

"I would change nothing. I've always met every situation as it comes and that's the way it's going to be."

What about the future?

"I'm going to be right here, seeing people and writing, just as I have done all along. Political prophets are no good and other seers aren't accurate."

Any birthday particularly memorable."

"I remember them all, they were all fine."

The 33rd President of the United States, who ordered atomic bombs dropped on Japan, now goes grocery shopping with his wife like any other husband.

The man who saved Greece from the Communists and championed the Marshall Plan that rescued Western Europe when it looked easy prey to Stalin, drives his mist-green 1961 Chrysler to the office daily, carefully observing a 4-way stop sign at the corner of Delaware and Truman Road.

The man who established the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for collective security against the Soviet Union once was seen carrying three suits and a top coat to his office to save the cleaners a longer trip to his home.

The man who instituted the Berlin airlift, who ordered the Communists stopped in Korea, who scolded and fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now pridefully escorts distinguished visitors through his library, surprises ROTC cadets by showing up to present their marksmanship awards and lectures to children and college students.

Despite these diversions, Truman keeps single-mindedly to the task of setting down for history the turbulent time of his presidency. His White House secretary, Rose Conway, two other secretaries and two assistants are kept busy compiling that record.

TWO CELEBRATIONS

There will be two birthday celebrations this year. On Wednesday about 250 old friends will honor Truman in Kansas City with a luncheon — as in every year since he left the White House.

On Friday, in Washington, Truman will have his usual birthday luncheon with old friends from the investigating committee he headed while a senator. President Johnson is expected to drop in.

Johnson, then vice president, attended the 1961 function in Kansas City.

"When you have to hire a hall to give a birthday party, the occasion sort of speaks for itself," he said.

Truman's loyalty to his friends has been damned and exalted. What he gets in return is devotion. There is an inner cadre of friends whose main complaint is he won't let them do enough for him.

Truman is strong on maintaining family ties.

He telephones his sister and brother, both ailing, almost daily. With Mrs. Truman, he visits them nearly every Sunday, Mary Jane Truman, his unmarried sister, is 75, and his brother, J. Vivian, is 78.

Truman is gregarious and likes to be with people. He particularly enjoys lodge affairs. He's a 33rd degree Mason, installing officer of the lodge he organized in Grandview, Mo., and has 50-year memberships in the York and Scottish Rites. He attends reunions of Battery D, 29th Field Artillery of the 5th Infantry Division. Truman is one of 110 living members in the battery he commanded as a captain. The last roll of the dead listed 106.

"Such things as these take much of his time," says Rufus Burrus, an Independence lawyer and another member of the circle closest to Truman.

"When he goes to these places he needs someone to protect him. Sometimes two or three thousand people want to shake hands with him. In the functions around here, he knows everybody and wants to meet them all.

One of Truman's most ambitious plans, Burrus says, is to exchange microfilms with the other presidential libraries so each will have a set from all the others.

Truman has often said that the papers of the president should not be private.

Eisenhower and Hoover are willing to exchange microfilms, Burrus says, and he believes the John F. Kennedy Library at Harvard also will join in the exchange.

The story of the Truman years will come to television soon, with the former president himself as narrator. Each of 26 half-hour shows will begin with Truman telling about a major problem he faced at a certain time in the White House. These incidents will be put into a dramatic format. Truman will tell how he finally reached a decision.

The peppery 33rd president of the United States has lost little of his vigor in the eleven years since he left the White, House and, as his 80th birthday approaches, sticks to a schedule that would weary men half his age.

Leche Is Obscure Orleans Attorney

By DAVID ZINMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Richard Webster Leche, who rode Huey Long's memory to the governorship, and then wound up in federal prison, is ending his life like he started—as an obscure New Orleans lawyer.

"I have no animosities whatsoever," he said. "I'm thoroughly enjoying watching the parade."

At 65, Leche is the same jolly, bearlike man who seized the Kingfish's mantle and rolled up the largest gubernatorial majority (67 per cent) in Louisiana history.

Some say the fact that his star ascended so quickly and burned so brightly—even for so short a time—brings a touch of irony and sadness to Leche's waning years. Others say he got his just desserts.

It all started back in the early 1930s. Huey took a shine to the friendly, 6-foot-2, 250-pound lawyer and made him a state appeals court judge.

After a bullet cut short Long's life in 1935, Leche took over Huey's crack state political machine.

Assured by his landslide 1936 election, Leche went to Washington. Handsome "Governor Dick," his shining black hair parted in the middle, hobnobbed with FDR, patched up Long's running feud with the New Deal. He came home with federal money.

Leche and the boys set out to out-Huey Huey in public spending projects. Bridges, hospitals, roads reached to areas Long left untouched.

Soon, an administration friend built a mansion house with a private barbershop. Another got a toilet with gold fixtures. Leche acquired a "gift" yacht, a country estate with a private hunting preserve.

How could he afford such luxuries on his meagre $7.500 governor's salary? Leche made the classic reply:

"When I took the oath of office, I didn't take any vow of poverty."

There was a little grumbling. But it didn't last. Governor Dick was in the national spotlight. There was talk of a federal judgeship. A state group wanted him nominated for president.

Federal relief funds, streams of it, gushed into Louisiana. Much of it went into the pockets of a chosen few.

It was estimated Louisiana was looted of $100 million. Nobody has challenged the figure. Leche was to testify he himself got profits and commissions totaling nearly $500,000. (He said the money came from business ventures. The government called it "loot.")

The looting defied belief. Once, a Charity Hospital building was put on rollers, moved 200 feet, then moved back to the original site. The state paid the movers $500,000.

The Louisiana hayride was flying out of gear. The press started a clamor. Cries echoed all over the nation.

The government couldn't ignore them. Washington flew in O. John Rogge, a brilliant young federal attorney. His orders: to convict.

And so began the infamous Louisiana Scandals. Scores of state officials were to go to prison or pay fines. Four men were to commit suicide.

Leche resigned, citing reasons of health. He was indicted, convicted and sentenced to 10 years. The charge was mail fraud in connection with the pocketing of $31,000 in kickbacks on the sale of 233 trucks to the state.

So while the rest of the country went to war, Leche sat behind bars at Atlanta federal prison. He was brought back to New Orleans briefly to face disbarment charges in 1943. At the hearing, he steadfastly maintained his innocence, his prison term notwithstanding. The case got snarled in red tape. Leche resigned anyway.

He was paroled in 1945 after serving five years. In 1952, President Truman gave him a full pardon.

For eight years, Leche ran a nursery in the little south Louiaiana town of Lacombe. When he was readmitted to the bar, he came back to New Orleans to resume law practice.

Today, he lieves quietly in a rambling, two-story, 10-room frame house near Tulane University. He uses the downstairs for an office. He rarely argues a case in court.

When the weather is right, he takes the day off to go dove or quail hunting.

Louisianians don't harbor grudges. And Leche finds himself invited frequently to political banquets. He's introduced as a former Louisiana governor. Occasionally, he runs into pals from his administration, figures out of the past.

The past is with him, too, when he goes to Baton Rouge, which is often because Leche is a lobbyist for construction firms.

They call him "governor" up there. They haven't forgotten him. And it is at these moments when the memories must come flooding back.

A whole lost career could sweep through Governor Dick's mind as he again climbs the skyscraper capitol's 48 steps, each with the name of a state etched into it, and walks through the huge bronze doors beneath the two eagles protecting the great seal of Louisiana.

Opinion And Information

Although the old saw that "Gold is where you find it" still holds true, there are only two fundamental ways in which most of us can earn money and a livelihood. Any student of economy knows those two ways are through the sale of goods and through the sale of services. Either we must sell something at a profit or we must work for some one.

Counting those who work for salaries, a far greater number of people earn money through the sale of services than through the sale of goods but there are many who sell their services directly to the people, rather than through an employer. Those who do this are as eager as are the merchants to find out what the people want. Because of this, they use various ways to find out, often using public opinion polls.

Those who buy goods and services are known by at least five different names, each of which has a different meaning, although they are sometimes overlapped in usage. These people are called customers, clients, constituents, patients and patrons. To clarify it a little, those who buy goods from merchants are customers, those who use the services of lawyers are clients, those in a certain area served by an officeholder, such as a congressman, are constituents, those who go to doctors are patients and those who go to picture shows or Little Theater entertainments are patrons.

Although this is a time when our freedoms are under attack as never before, it is also a time when public opinions are sought more often and given more freely than at any time in the history of this country.

All kinds of forums and public opinion mediums are popular. Those that have prevailed in this country since the advent of printing include public meetings at which people express their opinions and certain sections of the newspapers which are given over to those who wish to express their views, such as the "Views of Our Readers" column carried in the Monroe Morning World.

Views of readers carried in newspapers are of particular interest to everyone because they show what the people are thinking and how they stand on matters that are vital to the public. Office-holders not only pay attention to expressions of opinion in the letters they receive but also in letters carried in the newspapers.

Of more recent origin are columns dealing with personal, social, psychological, medical, financial and social security problems. Never before have people had so much opportunity to express what they think or to receive such informed answers to their questions.

In the medical, personal, psychological and social fields Dr. Peter J. Steinchron, Ann Landers and Dr. George W. Crane are among the outstanding writers. There are many others, of course. These columns not only give readers answers to their questions but give them opportunities to express their own views on what is being done in the right way, in the wrong way or not being done at all. If a reader sees something lacking in any of these fields, he is free to point out that fact.

Politicians and merchants long have wanted to find out what their constituents and customers think and want. Now, more than ever before, physicians are interested in learning the same things, from their patients, believing that insight thus gained will assist them in giving treatment, in providing some attention heretofore largely neglected and possibly even in finding new cures. Columns which present views of the readers help those in each profession a great deal.

Even though government leaders seem bent on socializing and controlling the people, the general sentiment is that the public must be informed on everything. Public expression not only is among the best ways to give information but to receive it as well.

Getting The Beagle Treatment

President's Beagles' Ears

Talk about a man who can get publicity outside his official duties! It's president Johnson. First, reporters said he was driving his high-powered car at 85 or 90 miles an hour while holding up a filled paper cup in one hand. Now, according to an Associated Press news story, dog lovers throughout the nation have set up a howl because Johnson picked up his beagles, Him and Her, by their ears, to make them yelp. He was photographed in the act, too, the story said.

In Charleston, W. Va., Humane Officer Kenneth Pauley growled: "The president did that? You are kidding. If he were in Charleston, I'd run him in.

"Any vet will tell you you're not supposed to pick up a rabbit by the ears. I've been handling animals 32 years and I never heard of that."

After Jonhson had picked up one of the two dogs by the ears, he was asked:

"Why did you do that?"

"To make him bark," Johnson replied. "It's good for him. And if you've ever followed dogs, you like to hear them yelp."

The most discussed picking-up-by-the-ears job prior to the Johnson episode was that involving the late Thomas Edison, great scientist and electrical wizard who, among other things, was the father of the talking machine. Reportedly, Edison was standing beside the open door of a freight car when a man in the door reached down, took him by the ears and lifted him into the car. During most of his life, Edison was extremely hard of hearing and this affliction was blamed on the ear-lifting stunt.

It is to be hoped Johnson's dogs won't develop deafness, although in some ways they might not be much worse off than the chief executive, who seems to have trouble hearing anything the people in the south say to him, particularly on the integration question.

There was quite a hassle over the Johnson incident. Melvin Schlesinger (with a last name the sounds oddly familiar in Democratic circles) said all the baying against the president was just "Republican propaganda." He stated: "You often pick up a beagle that way by its ears to see how it looks."

Clint Callahan, a Long Island beagle breeder, said: "Maybe its done in Texas, but I never heard of it."

Some people endorse Johnson even though he wants to seize white people's homes in good neighborhoods and sell them to Negroes and wants to take away the jobs of union men with seniority and give them to Negroes, as evidenced by the terms of the civil rights bill now before the senate, but what can they say about the bad example he sets for youngsters by excessively fast driving and by picking up beagles by the ears?

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The board of commissioners of Glenwood Hospital wishes to express to you and your organization our thanks and appreciation for your interest and assistance in giving the news and keeping the public informed relative to the expansion of Glenwood Hospital. Your organization has been very instrumental in the past in promoting worthwhile civic projects in Ouachita Parish and it is the feeling of the board of commissioners that the expansion of Glenwood Hospital is just one more step in making a better Ouachita Parish.

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I intended to write you sooner and congratulate you on the fine job you did of covering the Masters. I have heard many favorable comments on your coverage, especially the part where you gave the approximate yardage of the drives to the greens and the clubs used by Palmer in one of his rounds.

Enjoyed the information you published on Hogan. His excellent play on the last three holes on TV substantiated your comments that he is still able to make all the shots.

Sincerly,

Monroe, La.

Dear Mr. Whetstone:

While you are at it, suggest that you save local taxpayers several thousand dollars a year by working to straighten out the dual school systems in the City of Monroe, La. I attended a meeting where you were and we all agreed that this should have been done a few years ago, but when the parish school board voted to request a survey as to what could be done, someone in the state department would not recognize this request and you were a member of the state board then and the city board too at this time.

Yours for better education without so much waste in Ouachita Parish, and you are in a position to do something about it.

SYLVIA PORTER

Election Year's Effect On Stocks

Q.: WHAT IS THE pattern of the stock market in presidential election years?

A.: Absolutely none. In eight past presidential election years going back to 1932, the stock market has ended the year UP on average four times, has ended the year DOWN on average four times — as inconclusive a pattern as you could get.

Q.: Is the stock market likely to hit its high for the year before or after the President election?

A.: The market refuses to make it easy for you. In the eight past election years, the high for the year has occurred before the election five times and after the election, three times.

Q.: Any difference between the stock market's performance in years of Republican victories and Democratic victories?

A.: Not enough to give you solid clues to action. There were five Democratic victories between 1932 and President Eisenhower's election in 1952. In these five years, the market ended lower three times, higher two times. During Eisenhower's victorious years of 1952 and 1956, the market moved higher.

Q.: UNDER WHICH party is a major bear or bull market most probable?

A.: Under either. The worst bear market in history — late 1929 to mid-1932 — occurred under a G.O.P. administration. The sharpest crackup since — in 1962 — occurred under a Democratic administration.

The spectacular bull market of the 1920s coincided with G.O.P administrations. The fabulous bull market of the 1950s began under the Democrats, flourished under both the Elephant and the Donkey.

Q.: What then is the tie between stocks and election yars?

A.: Despite the persistent myth that there is a close connection, the fact is that there isn't and there hasn't been since the 19th century. The fundamental forces determining stock prices now are the trends of business, corporation profits, individual incomes and confidence. Much more vital to the stock market's decline than Truman's election in 1948 was the fact that 1948 marked our first major postwar recession. Much more vital to the stock market's rise than Eisenhower's election in 1952 was the fact that we were into the boom of the 1950s.

Here's the record to guide you through the uninformed arguments about stock prices and elections as the year rolls on.

1932: ROOSEVELT, D. The familiar Dow-Jones industrial stock average entered the year at 77.90, made its high in March, its low in July, closed down for the year at 59.93.

1936: Roosevelt, D. The average began at 144.13, made its low in January, its high in November, closed up for the year at 179.90.

1940: Roosevelt, D. The average started at 150.24, made its high in January, its low in June, closed down for the year at 131.13.

1944: Roosevelt, D. The average started at 135.89, made its low in February, its high in December, closed up for the year at 152.32.

1948: Truman, D. The Dow-Jones index began at 181.16, made its low in March, its high in June, closed down for the year at 177.30.

1952: Eisenhower, R. The average began at 269.23, made its low in May, its high in December, closed up for the year at 291.90.

1956: EISENHOWER, R. The average started at 488.40, made its low in January, its high in April, closed up for the year at 499.47.

1960: Kennedy, D. The index started at 679.06, made its high in January, its low in October, closed down for the year at 615.89.

1964: The Dow-Jones index started the year at 766.08, made its low for the year to date that same day and is now hovering slightly below its all-time high of 827.33.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Johnson Asking Violent Change

SPEAKING AS ONE American citizen, I am getting just a little tired of being told that this country must do this or do that in order to prevent the rest of the world from turning on us. This either or argument is nonsense. It has been used to justify fantastic expenditures in antagonistic or Communist countries, presumably to prevent Communism from spreading.

As an American voter, I am shocked at President Lyndon Johnson's formulation to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce this past week. The President called for the destruction of those "ancient enemies"—poverty and ignorance. Who could disagree? But then, by implication, he warned that the only way to do this was by more of the old spend-and-spend program which failed to pull us out of the 1930 depression and which today damages the economy and keeps millions of unemployed on relief rolls.

The President is entitled to his opinion. As long as he is President, he must follow his beliefs and try to perpetuate the program he feels is best for the country. What disturbed me was the President's assertion that if the deplorable conditions he insists now exist are not changed peacefully along the lines of his program, "a violent change is inevitable."

IN OTHER WORDS, the goblins will get you if you don't watch out.

There is a threat in those words which I do not like. They are, moreover, based on false logic and a false understanding of what causes revolutions and what revolutions achieve.

Volent change has never filled a single empty belly. Violent change never created a viable economic order. As the Spanish philosopher, Jose Ortegay Gasset, wrote: when the mobs riot for bread, the first thing they do is burn the bakeries.

The great upheavals have never been caused by hungry people — only by dissatisfied people. The French Revolution, we have forgotten, came at a time of considerable prosperity. The revolutions of the 19th and 20th centuries were stirred up and led by the middle class. The leaders of the African anti-colonialist movements have been well fed and well-educated. They have been able to manipulate mobs by playing on hatred and frustrations, not hunger. The mobs now realize in many cases that they have less to eat under the "freedom" of the new rulers. The demonstrations and the battles merely shifted political power from experienced to rapacious hands.

In the President's speeches on poverty the picture is painted of a United States poor and underprivileged. Simply by focussing all his attention on a condition which strikes at only a tiny fraction of the population, Mr. Johnson denigrates an entire nation. Never is it pointed out that most unemployed workers in the U.S. have a higher standard of living than the fully employed of the Communist bloc. Seldom is it said that under the American system, there is less poverty than any other society has ever seen.

THIS INCREDIBLE prosperity — interrupted but never stopped — is not the product of the planners and so-called welfare-statists. There were roughly as many unemployed in the United States seven years after Franklin D. Roosevelt made elephantiasis-of-the-budget a chronic Federal disease than when he took office. Since 1933, we have been brainwashed into believing that Uncle Sam, by shoveling out the dollars, would put an end to all economic problems. Now the self-proclaimed follower and heir of the Roosevelt line confesses that one-fifth of the population is in dire straits—thereby putting in question his entire argument.

Programs are needed to rehabilitate areas of the United States which have been hit badly by the shifts in technology. As farming becomes an industry rather than a small enterprise, means must be found to help the farmer find his way in an urban or urbanized society.

But the scatter-gun approach which points Federal dollars in one general direction and then blasts does no good for those in need and hurts the rest of the country. President Johnson's either-or speech may have sounded good to some. But it failed to discuss the issues in a responsible and statesmanlike manner.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Suggests Negroes Want Privileges

THE POLICE Commissioner of New York is an Irishman without, it is said, an Irishman's temper, but even so by last Tuesday he had apparently had more than he could stand and he lashed out at the critics of the New York Police Department. He had obviously in mind first and foremost James Farmer, director of CORE, who has been complaining of discriminatory brutality by the New York police against Negroes. Murphy passionately denied any such thing, and came rather close to suggesting that some New York Negroes are expecting not equality on account of their color, but privileged treatment on account of their color.

On the morning of the same day that Mr. Murphy boiled over, a three-man panel of judges led by Judge Gassman sentenced a white CORE leader in Brooklyn who had taken part in the effort to close down the World's Fair to one year in jail. More precisely, the Court activated a one-year suspended sentence that had previously been earned by 26-year-old Arnold Goldwag, but suspended for a probationary period that ran out of gas along with Mr. Goldwag's car, en route to the World's Fair. On receiving the news in the courtroom Mr. Goldwag responded by throwing himself on his back right there in front of the three judges and refusing to budge. In due course he was propped up by some of Mr. Murphy's patient men, and thereupon sentenced to an additional thirty days for contempt of Court. It is a lucky thing Mr. Goldwag got a glimpse of the Fair on opening day, as it will be just about over by the time he gets out of jail.

MEANWHILE, of course, a hue and cry will go up against the brutality of the New York court system. But like Mr. Murphy, the judges, I suspect, are in a mood to fight back. It is their responsibility, they will remind us, to enforce the law. The law — remember? That quaint reliquary of bygone days, back before Martin Luther King discovered it was unpatriotic and ungodly to observe it?

It is all especially galling to Southerners, needless to say. They noticed how hotly New York reacted against the proposed stall-in, and how quickly the body of responsible New Yorkers came to the defense of their police and their courts. It is never so in the South: every charge of police brutality is instantly credited, coast to coast. There are no missionaries, down from New York to urge Southern Negroes to obey the law, to respect private property, to stay out of the way of traffic. Just last summer a private amusement park in Maryland was made inaccessible by stall-ins and sit-ins in which important divines of various faiths flamboyantly participated: that was okay — but don't interfere with the World's Fair . . . The police in New York are eminently fair and responsible — but not those of Birmingham or Jacksonville . . . The double standard outrages a great many Southerners (who, one might wish, would be equally outraged on those occasions when double standards of justice are meted out to white and black citizens).

THE PROBLEM of law enforcement will become more acute as the civil rights movement grows more reckless, which it threatens to do. The reason for it is a) the much remarked rivalry among leaders of the movement — who, like many labor union leaders, feel that they must constantly increase their demands in order to satisfy their clientele; b) the intrinsically elusive nature of the thing the Negroes hunger for: a kind of social equality which will not be achieved in our time. And c), because the rowdyism that is latent in every one of us — what Herbert Agar once called the "anarchic passion to smash," what Victor Gollancz calls the "Hitler in ourselves" — is officially unleashed by those civil rights leaders who began with non-violent, lawful protests, progressed to non-violent, non-lawful protests, and move now in the direction of violent, nonlawful protests of the kind threatened by Malcolm X. A clear statement of the moral rationale was furnished at the dock in South Africa last week by the terrorist Mandele: if peaceful protests don't work, try violent protests. See?

One can hope that the resolute Murphys and the no-nonsense Gassmans will wield effective deterrent force. Otherwise, New York will have an opportunity to demonstrate what devices it has discovered for controlling mobs which are less offensive than electrical cattle-prods, police dogs, and fire hoses, and equally effective.

The Week In Focus

April Exits

THE SCATTERED rains and intermittent twisters following on the heels of last week's heavy weather in north Louisiana afforded a turbulent backdrop to what proved to be a relatively quiet week on the news front.

After several damaging tornadoes had touched down in the Shreveport area prior to the weekend, others swept through eastern Texas with one striking near Chestnut in Natchitoches Parish Sunday.

After a three-inch downpour had drenched the Monroe area, one amateur weather watcher offered the comment of the week in understatement:

"April showers bring May flowers."

THE TURN of events of the week also included a turn of the calendar from April to May. There were open and shut cases in the realm of romance. Lynda Bird Johnson, daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson, announced she had broken off her engagement with Navy Lieutenant Junior Grade Bernard Rosenbach.

On the other hand, the royal wedding between Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Spain's Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma took place as scheduled in Rome. Because of religious differences between her own family and her husband's, the princess elected to renounce her claim to the throne of Holland.

CLOSER TO home, a sparse turnout of voters Tuesday gave a one-sided approval to Ouachita Parish to continue certain maintenance taxes. All five measures of a property owners tax election were supported by a majority of nearly seven to one.

Only 1,394 voters turned out to vote, however, out of approximately 24,000 registered as property owners in the parish's 48 precincts. There's a message in these figures for those who are sincerely concerned about the transfer of power from the local property owner to the federal government.

Also from the Police Jury, there was the election of a new president, T. W. Humphries. Humphries was elected to the parish governing body in the recent Police Jury election and is a resident of Ward 10.

Primaries

ALTHOUGH greater attention in this part of the country will be focused on the Indiana primary Tuesday, a race in which Alabama Governor George Wallace's name is on the ballot, there were such elections this past week in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Two unannounced Republican prospects — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Governor William Scranton — rolled to impressive home state primary victories in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

On the Democratic side of the ballot, President Johnson demonstrated his political popularity with resounding write-in triumphs.

IN MASSACHUSETTS, Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, was running up a margin of nearly 8 to 1 over his nearest rival, Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

GOV. SCRANTON

In Pennsylvania, Scranton, whose name appeared on the ballot as "reluctant" favorite son, was polling a probably record write-in vote for the Keystone State. The governor himself expressed amazement at the size of the vote and state GOP leaders urged him to "stand available" as a presidential candidate at the July convention.

JOHNSON easily outscored Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in the latter's home state of Massachusetts and the President was given an enthusiastic write-in vote in Pennsylvania. Neither he nor Kennedy were active candidates in the primaries.

Lodge was openly delighted over his second "write-in" triumph in recent months — the first coming in New Hampshire — although he has made no formal declaration of his candidacy.

In Saigon, the 1960 GOP vice presidential candidate issued a statement in which he said "it means much to me that my fellow citizens of Massachusetts should show this confidence. I shall always do my utmost to deserve their trust."

With virtually all precincts reporting, the ambassador polled 27,483 votes to Goldwater's 3,577. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Scranton, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Harold Stassen trailed in that order.

From the Democrats, Johnson received 24,918 votes. Kennedy, brother of the late President, tallied 7,124.

THE LARGE number of presidential preference write-in votes for Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in Philadelphia and adjoining Delaware County in Tuesday's primary election had political experts puzzled.

The segregationist governor received 1,709 write-in votes in Philadelphia, a large number considering the cumbersome requirements of writing in names on voting machines. Also puzzling was the fact that 1,015 of Wallace's votes in the city were on Republican ballots and that his votes were not restricted according to racial areas.

President Lyndon Johnson received, 1935 votes, all on Democrats ballots.

Stateside

THE COMMITTEE planning Governor-elect John McKeithen's inauguration ceremonies at Baton Rouge said the May 12 festivities would range from the strictly formal to the more informal.

Along with the formal swearing in ceremonies on the capitol steps, there will be parades, balls, banquets and an open house for the general public at the state's new million-dollar executive mansion.

DURING ONE of the closing sessions of the state Parent-Teachers convention in Shreveport last weekend, action was taken to keep the organization closed to racially integrated units.

A MOVE to admit mixed groups was blocked by the 500 delegates attending the PTA's annual meeting.

The issue first arose several years ago when New Orleans public schools were desegregated and some Negro parents applied for membership to local PTA units. The state group refused to recognize any units admitting Negroes.

THE STATE group called on the legislature to establish "minimum educational standards" at schools supported by state grants-in-aid.

Another resolution calling for the state to quit supporting such private schools was defeated.

A substitute resolution said minimum standards should be established in the grant-in-aid schools because the program had become "subject to many abuses."

Front Runners

PRESIDENT Charles de Gaulle left Cochin Hospital after prostate gland surgery two weeks ago.

De Gaulle was seated in a limousine beside Mrs. de Gaulle.

IN STUTTGART, Germany, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard scored a prestige-boosting victory Sunday in his first test at the polls since taking over from Konrad Adenauer half a year ago.

Complete unofficial returns from the Baden-Wuerttemberg state electon showed his Christian Democratic party gained heavily to capture almost half of the total votes.

Ludwig Erhard

THE GAINS were made at the expense of the Christian Democrats' smaller coalition partners. The opposition Socialists marked a slight increase but failed to match that of the Erhard party.

Voters elected a new legislature for the state, one of West Germany's largest and wealthiest. It was the last major vote before next year's general election, and was watched closely by all parties for trends.

BARRY Goldwater still holds a commanding lead in Republican convention delegates despite home state write-in victories by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

Regardless of how he fares in the primaries before his California test on June 2, Goldwater is building up such a bloc of delegates that his campaign lieutenants claim he could win the presidential nomination on the first ballot.

The Arizona senator made an impressive showing in Tuesday's presidential primaries in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, where only write-in votes were cast.

School Prayer

TWO MINDS usually separated in affairs of state came forward with similar testimony last week on the issue of outlawing prayer in schools. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace each charged Thursday that the Supreme Court usurped authority in outlawing prayer in public schools. They urged Congress to override the court.

BISHOP SHEEN

The fluent Catholic prelate and the governor testified before the House Judiciary Committee on a host of proposals for amending the Constitution to set aside the court's orders barring religious worship as as a part of public school programs.

WALLACE WENT much farther than Bishop Sheen, charging that the court had handed down a number of decisions which "give aid and comfort to agitators, to anarchists, to atheists, to those who would replace the flag . . . with the red signal of discord, anarchy and atheism."

He said the prayer decisions were "part of a deliberate design to subordinate the American people, their faith, their customs, and their religious traditions in a godless state."

The bishop said in a prepared statement that the court's ruling "should be constitutionally amended." But he declined to endorse specifically any of the 147 proposed amendments under committee study, and agreed under questioning that Congress should proceed cautiously.

Race And Religion

THE GENERAL Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, meeting at Montreat, North Carolina, last week began implementing a stronger civil rights policy by ordering all-white presbyteries in seven southern states to absorb three all-Negro presbyteries.

A PROPOSAL to withdraw from the National Council of Churches, which plans to train youths for civil rights work in the Mississippi Delta this summer, was defeated by the denomination's 104th General Assembly.

Conservative ministers protested Monday's order by the assembly to integrate Negro and white presbyteries, or judicial districts.

THE ORDER affects presbyteries in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Louisiana. The area has 43 Negro churches with a membership of 2,560.

"This is the type of coercion that will put our churches in the area in a tailspin," said the Rev. John Miller of Jackson, Mississippi.

"It's been constitutional to have segregated presbyteries all these years," he said. "Why the push now?"

The Rev. Thomas Frye of Dallas, Texas, said, "We will be forcing some of our brethren out of the church."

THE ASSEMBLY defeated 276 to 136 a motion to request the integration rather than order it.

In Action

MEANTIME, there was little in the way of religious overtones in the civil rights demonstrations which swarmed into Nashville, Tennessee, streets during the week, blocking traffic and protesting against segregated eating places.

Club-swinging policemen tried to disperse the crowd, mostly teen-age Negroes, but were unable to break it up until a fire truck swung into range, ready to spray streams of water. Hundreds of demonstrators sat in the street.

Ruby Case

THE JACK Ruby case entered a new phase during the week as lawyers began preparations for appeals.

Attorney Joe Tonahill said he hopes to have the matter before the state's only appellate criminal court within six months.

Judge Joe B. Brown denied a defense motion for a new trial Wednesday — exactly a month and a half after Ruby, 53, received a death verdict from a Dallas jury.

THE FORMER night club operator was convicted of murder with malice for the Nov. 24 killing of Lee Harvey Oswald, alleged assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Should the Court of Criminal Appeals rule against Ruby, he and his lawyers will have to turn to the federal courts. Observers say the appeal of the verdict could take years.

Smoke Scare Over

APPARENTLY most Americans are reaching for the cigarettes again in spite of the grim statistics presented in the Surgeon General's Report earlier in the year.

A Denver distributor of tobacco products put it this way: "After all, most people don't worry about the atom bomb."

A Hollywood salesgirl noted: "I ask customers about cancer and they say it's for the younger ones to stop smoking. The older generation is a goner anyway."

IT SEEMS the boost in cigarette sales began last month and really recovered its strength during April, barely three months since the government report linked cigarette smoking to cancer.

Truman Retains Vigor Despite His 80th Year

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) —When Harry S. Truman was only 79, someone suggested he was an elder statesman.

Truman bristled.

"I'm still working hard as I can for the good of the country," he said. "An elder statesman—that's someone who doesn't do anything."

By that definition, as his 80th birthday approaches Friday, Harry Truman still is not an elder statesman.

He sticks to his formula: work hard, walk fast, sleep tight and learn to relax.

"For 80 years of age, he's marvelous," says a long-time friend, Eugene P. Donnelly. "His mentality and vitality still are waxing strong. His locomotion has slowed down, but his mind is keen as ever."

Truman's slowed walk — it's still fast for 80—and his 12-14 pounds of recently added weight are the only outward signs of change in the former president. If anything, they make his appearance more distinguished and his bearing more stately.

He still keeps the hours of his farm days: up at 5, to bed at 9:30. He has added brief naps at noon and occasionally to 3:30, when he leaves his office in the Truman Library.

ONLY COURSE

Herbert Hoover reportedly once told Truman: "The only thing for an old president to do is to take pills and dedicate libraries."

Hoover hasn't done that Dwight Eisenhower hasn't. Neither has the man from Independence. He is busier and more in demand than ever.

"He turns down an average of 30 to 40 requests for appearances each day and he considers every one of them," says Tom Evans, a close friend.

Through a miraculous budgeting of time, Truman somehow finds a moment for people who come to see him—and there are many. The guest register is a democratic mingling of the famous, and the plain: statesmen who want his advice, politicians looking for support, friends of friends, and people who just want to shake hands.

Newsmen don't get much chance to question Truman individually. He holds news conferences when groups of reporters want his comment on the same thing or—when he's out of town—they are given during the 20 paces a minute he calls a walk.

"What got you up so early:" he asks the reporter who greets him at the library at 7:30. Then comes the familiar grin and: "What is it you want to know?"

Eighty is an arbitrary milestone, the newsman remarks.

"Oh, I don't know about that," says Truman who in the past has wished people would forget about his birthdays.

Is there anything in your life you would change?

"I would change nothing. I've always met every situation as it comes and that's the way it's going to be."

What about the future?

"I'm going to be right here, seeing people and writing, just as I have done all along. Political prophets are no good and other seers aren't accurate."

Any birthday particularly memorable."

"I remember them all, they were all fine."

The 33rd President of the United States, who ordered atomic bombs dropped on Japan, now goes grocery shopping with his wife like any other husband.

The man who saved Greece from the Communists and championed the Marshall Plan that rescued Western Europe when it looked easy prey to Stalin, drives his mist-green 1961 Chrysler to the office daily, carefully observing a 4-way stop sign at the corner of Delaware and Truman Road.

The man who established the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for collective security against the Soviet Union once was seen carrying three suits and a top coat to his office to save the cleaners a longer trip to his home.

The man who instituted the Berlin airlift, who ordered the Communists stopped in Korea, who scolded and fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now pridefully escorts distinguished visitors through his library, surprises ROTC cadets by showing up to present their marksmanship awards and lectures to children and college students.

Despite these diversions, Truman keeps single-mindedly to the task of setting down for history the turbulent time of his presidency. His White House secretary, Rose Conway, two other secretaries and two assistants are kept busy compiling that record.

TWO CELEBRATIONS

There will be two birthday celebrations this year. On Wednesday about 250 old friends will honor Truman in Kansas City with a luncheon — as in every year since he left the White House.

On Friday, in Washington, Truman will have his usual birthday luncheon with old friends from the investigating committee he headed while a senator. President Johnson is expected to drop in.

Johnson, then vice president, attended the 1961 function in Kansas City.

"When you have to hire a hall to give a birthday party, the occasion sort of speaks for itself," he said.

Truman's loyalty to his friends has been damned and exalted. What he gets in return is devotion. There is an inner cadre of friends whose main complaint is he won't let them do enough for him.

Truman is strong on maintaining family ties.

He telephones his sister and brother, both ailing, almost daily. With Mrs. Truman, he visits them nearly every Sunday, Mary Jane Truman, his unmarried sister, is 75, and his brother, J. Vivian, is 78.

Truman is gregarious and likes to be with people. He particularly enjoys lodge affairs. He's a 33rd degree Mason, installing officer of the lodge he organized in Grandview, Mo., and has 50-year memberships in the York and Scottish Rites. He attends reunions of Battery D, 29th Field Artillery of the 5th Infantry Division. Truman is one of 110 living members in the battery he commanded as a captain. The last roll of the dead listed 106.

"Such things as these take much of his time," says Rufus Burrus, an Independence lawyer and another member of the circle closest to Truman.

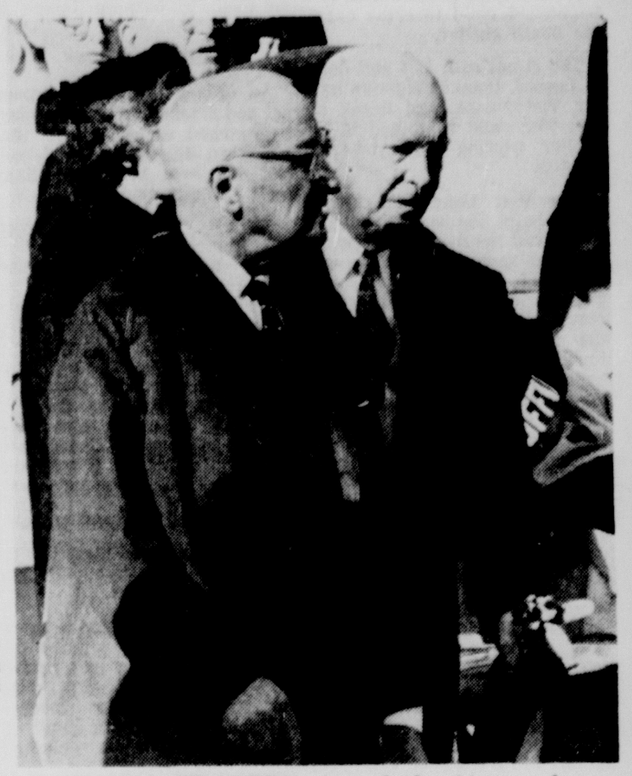
"When he goes to these places he needs someone to protect him. Sometimes two or three thousand people want to shake hands with him. In the functions around here, he knows everybody and wants to meet them all.

One of Truman's most ambitious plans, Burrus says, is to exchange microfilms with the other presidential libraries so each will have a set from all the others.

Truman has often said that the papers of the president should not be private.

Eisenhower and Hoover are willing to exchange microfilms, Burrus says, and he believes the John F. Kennedy Library at Harvard also will join in the exchange.

The story of the Truman years will come to television soon, with the former president himself as narrator. Each of 26 half-hour shows will begin with Truman telling about a major problem he faced at a certain time in the White House. These incidents will be put into a dramatic format. Truman will tell how he finally reached a decision.



NATIONAL TRAGEDY thawed the 11-year freeze in relations between the 33rd and the 34th Presidents, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower. Truman (left) and Eisenhower leave St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington together after the funeral of assassinated President John F. Kennedy last Nov. 25. The charges and counter charges of the 1952 Presidential election campaign had left deep scars healed only during the aftermath of the assassination. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

The peppery 33rd president of the United States has lost little of his vigor in the eleven years since he left the White, House and, as his 80th birthday approaches, sticks to a schedule that would weary men half his age.

Leche Is Obscure Orleans Attorney

By DAVID ZINMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Richard Webster Leche, who rode Huey Long's memory to the governorship, and then wound up in federal prison, is ending his life like he started—as an obscure New Orleans lawyer.

"I have no animosities whatsoever," he said. "I'm thoroughly enjoying watching the parade."

At 65, Leche is the same jolly, bearlike man who seized the Kingfish's mantle and rolled up the largest gubernatorial majority (67 per cent) in Louisiana history.

Some say the fact that his star ascended so quickly and burned so brightly—even for so short a time—brings a touch of irony and sadness to Leche's waning years. Others say he got his just desserts.

It all started back in the early 1930s. Huey took a shine to the friendly, 6-foot-2, 250-pound lawyer and made him a state appeals court judge.

After a bullet cut short Long's life in 1935, Leche took over Huey's crack state political machine.

Assured by his landslide 1936 election, Leche went to Washington. Handsome "Governor Dick," his shining black hair parted in the middle, hobnobbed with FDR, patched up Long's running feud with the New Deal. He came home with federal money.

Leche and the boys set out to out-Huey Huey in public spending projects. Bridges, hospitals, roads reached to areas Long left untouched.

Soon, an administration friend built a mansion house with a private barbershop. Another got a toilet with gold fixtures. Leche acquired a "gift" yacht, a country estate with a private hunting preserve.

How could he afford such luxuries on his meagre $7,500 governor's salary? Leche made the classic reply:

"When I took the oath of office, I didn't take any vow of poverty."

There was a little grumbling. But it didn't last. Governor Dick was in the national spotlight. There was talk of a federal judgeship. A state group wanted him nominated for president.

Federal relief funds, streams of it, gushed into Louisiana. Much of it went into the pockets of a chosen few.

It was estimated Louisiana was looted of $100 million. Nobody has challenged the figure. Leche was to testify he himself got profits and commissions totaling nearly $500,000. (He said the money came from business ventures. The government called it "loot.")

The looting defied belief. Once, a Charity Hospital building was put on rollers, moved 200 feet, then moved back to the original site. The state paid the movers $500,000.

The Louisiana hayride was flying out of gear. The press started a clamor. Cries echoed all over the nation.

The government couldn't ignore them. Washington flew in O. John Rogge, a brilliant young federal attorney. His orders: to convict.

And so began the infamous Louisiana Scandals. Scores of state officials were to go to prison or pay fines. Four men were to commit suicide.

Leche resigned, citing reasons of health. He was indicted, convicted and sentenced to 10 years. The charge was mail fraud in connection with the pocketing of $31,000 in kickbacks on the sale of 233 trucks to the state.

So while the rest of the country went to war, Leche sat behind bars at Atlanta federal prison. He was brought back to New Orleans briefly to face disbarment charges in 1943. At the hearing, he steadfastly maintained his innocence, his prison term notwithstanding. The case got snarled in red tape. Leche resigned anyway.

He was paroled in 1945 after serving five years. In 1952, President Truman gave him a full pardon.

For eight years, Leche ran a nursery in the little south Louiaiana town of Lacombe. When he was readmitted to the bar, he came back to New Orleans to resume law practice.

Today, he lieves quietly in a rambling, two-story, 10-room frame house near Tulane University. He uses the downstairs for an office. He rarely argues a case in court.

When the weather is right, he takes the day off to go dove or quail hunting.

Louisianians don't harbor grudges. And Leche finds himself invited frequently to political banquets. He's introduced as a former Louisiana governor. Occasionally, he runs into pals from his administration, figures out of the past.

The past is with him, too, when he goes to Baton Rouge, which is often because Leche is a lobbyist for construction firms.

They call him "governor" up there. They haven't forgotten him. And it is at these moments when the memories must come flooding back.

A whole lost career could sweep through Governor Dick's mind as he again climbs the skyscraper capitol's 48 steps, each with the name of a state etched into it, and walks through the huge bronze doors beneath the two eagles protecting the great seal of Louisiana.

Mekong Delta Also Homeland

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

MEKONG DELTA, South Viet Nam (AP)—A farmer named Ngoc offered tea to the American soldier, and beckoned to a frightened child to come out of the bomb shelter.

The American, tall and deeply tanned, thanked Ngoc in halting Vietnamese, and drank his tea. The child remained in the shelter, peering wide-eyed from the top.

The Viet Cong had helped Ngoc build the shelter, and it had saved the lives of his grandchildren several times. It was made of five large, ceramic pots buried to their lids in the clay floor of the hut. Others in the hamlet had not been so lucky. Many small, charred bodies had been collected by villagers on sheets of corrugated metal for burial during the past year.

This American seemed all right. He carried a sub-machine-gun over one shoulder but a camera over the other, and he spoke gently.

He had come with the government soldiers that landed in helicopters over in the next hamlet down the canal. There had been a lot of shooting and people said there were many dead.

It was quiet now, except for the snorting of a water buffalo tethered in a thatched shed next to Ngoc's hut. A young boy sat passively on its back.

The fierce, noon sun brought heat waves shimmering from the hardened rice fields. Soldiers sat drinking coconut milk in the shade of palms and bamboo. Others sprawled on the polished, all-purpose tables in the huts.

SCHOOL BURNS

An officer and a few troops sat and smoked as they watched a thatched school house that had been draped with red, yellow and blue Viet Cong flags burn to the ground.

An army interpreter joined the American in Ngoc's hut. "This time, the government troops will stay here," the American said. "The soldiers have orders to pay for anything they need to eat. They will help you protect yourselves against the Communists, and you won't have to pay taxes to the Viet Cong any more. We also have doctors and experts to help you build a new school, a well and other things. Will you help us?"

Ngoc bowed his head politely.

"What would you most like us to do for your hamlet?" the American continued.

The old man, dressed in peasant's black calico, studied the American's camera and guided his visitor to the family shrine just inside the door. Incense sticks burned under a small altar, in which some yellowed family photographs hung.

"A French soldier took those pictures for me 10 years ago," Ngoc said, "but they are old, and I would be grateful if you would take a new picture of me. My children will want it for the altar when I die."

The American said he would send Ngoc the picture.

"That Frenchman," Ngoc continued, "he was a nice soldier, not like the others who were here. He stayed here a long time. That is his daughter over there."

The farmer gestured toward a Eurasian child sitting in a nearby doorway.

"It was sad. He was killed near here by the Viet Minh."

The American glanced behind a partition made of interlaced palm leaves, where a young woman was nursing a baby.

"Where are all the young men? Where is this woman's husband?" the American asked.

"Oh, away, working," Ngoc said.

"When will they return?"

Ngoc shrugged.

The army interpreter told the American that almost all the young men in the village were Viet Cong guerrillas. One of Ngoc's sons, the interpreter said, was a Viet Cong company commander.

The American pulled out a note pad.

"Have you always lived here?" he asked Ngoc.

"No, we used to live in the district town 15 kilometers from here, past the third canal. My brother worked for the French there, and my wife was a nurse. After the great war, the Viet Minh took over the town, and my brother began working for them.

FRENCH RETURNED

"Then the French came back, and a hundred legionnaires moved into the town—Germans, most of them. My brother had to flee with the Viet Minh, with his wife and children. One night, some drunk legionnaires were walking through the streets, shouting and shooting their pistols in the air.

"They insulted the women they saw, and did things to them. Some of the pretty ones they dragged off. My wife was not lucky. She was returning home when a group of them grabbed her and took her somewhere. I never saw her again.

"My brother was also unlucky. His neighbor was a man who had envied my brother's fine house for many years. This neighbor also fled with the Viet Minh when the French came, and denounced my brother to the district commissar as a French spy. They dragged my brother from his bed and cut off his head, with all his children watching.

"I came here with my children to take care of my brother's family, and build a new house.

"The liberation front gave each of us here two hectares (about five acres) of good rice land, and now I have two buffalo.

"It was peaceful here until last year, when the fighting began again."

A soldier stopped in front of the hut and pasted a large poster near the door, showing a picture of the new revolutionary council in Saigon. A loudspeaker nailed to a tree began blaring jazz music from Radio Saigon. Ngoc said he had never been to Saigon.

"It will be peaceful here again, and your government wants to help you in many ways," the American said.

"Can you think of anything the people here especially need?"

Ngoc offered the American a cigarette, and lighted one himself.

"This year we had a very good harvest, but there are many problems. The rats are eating all our rice. I have enough until the next harvest, but some of us will be very hungry. A woman across the canal there lost her husband in the fighting three months ago, and now there is no one to harvest her rice, so it rotted."

The American made a note and said: "Rat poison. We have plenty of it in Saigon, and we will bring enough here to kill your rats."

NEED WATER

"We need water, too," Ngoc continued. "We have only a small well. Every time the government soldiers come, they take our water and smash the pots we keep it in."

The American started to say something about well drilling equipment in Saigon when pistol and automatic rifle fire crackled from the other end of the hamlet.

The American grabbed his gun and ran toward the shooting. A Vietnamese lieutenant reached from a ditch and pulled him down, yelling "Air strike. Viet Cong trying to escape, running through hamlet."

Orange flame spurted from the rocket pods under the silver fighters' wings and smoke chugged from their cannons. A dozen huts up ahead exploded into flame.

It was over quickly, and troops rushed into the smashed cluster of huts, spraying tommy-gun fire through those suspected of concealing snipers. Bodies were strewn everywhere.

One of the bodies had been a young man. An ammunition belt was bound around the chest.

"Viet Cong" a soldier yelled, plunging his bayonet again and again into the corpse.

The army interpreter joined the American, and exchanged a few sentences with the villagers.

"That was Ngoc's son," he said.

"PUBLIC BUSINESS should be public," maintains Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.,) who's been battling for nine years to break down the wall of secrecy around all sorts of government matters. Solon Battles Secrecy In Government Business

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — For nine years a bespectacled congressman from California has been protesting that a slipknot of secrecy has been drawing ever more tightly around the federal government.

In the process, Rep. John E. Moss, a Democrat from Sacramento, has also become a close observer of U.S. news media. He is chairman of the House subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information.

Whatever can be said of Moss' effectiveness, he is one of the few men in town who keeps pounding on the theme, as he put it in an interview, that "public business should be public."

While it has long been axiomatic that the survival of democracy depends upon a well-informed public, critics of secrecy usually have a difficult time proving that the withholding of information in specific instances has really damaged the public weal.

In his battle against secrecy, Moss has recently acquired an ally—the Senate subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure, headed by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

The subcommittee recently endorsed unanimously a freedom-of-information bill containing a provision for court enforcement whereby citizens might obtain information they deem wrongfully withheld.

Long is a realist. "We should not kid ourselves," he said, "about the legislation's prospects. There is intense opposition to the bill from virtually every government agency in Washington."

NO SURPRISE

This is not surprising since the label "secret" can be used to protect matters that are truly national secrets and also bureaucratic bumbling.

There are, for example, some major secrets in this town which have little to do with national security but which might prove highly embarrassing to bureaucrats and others.

In 1962 the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, alarmed over the second failure of the Ranger moon probe spacecraft appointed a committee to find out what was wrong.

The contractor for the Ranger program is the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

The findings of this committee are still secret though a congressional source — and please note the anonymity—describes them as "the harshest I've ever seen involving a contractor."

Since the report was drawn, there have been four more Ranger failures — six in all. Each failure has cost about $18 million.

For the past two years the U.S. Navy's Bureau of Ships has kept secret a report dealing with construction of the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk by the New York Shipbuilding Corp.

The Kitty Hawk was 22 months behind schedule in construction. The company bid $119.9 million on her construction. The final cost to the government was $178 million.

Throughout construction inspectors from the Bureau of Ships supposedly were maintaining a watch on the quality of construction.

What happened? Did the inspectors fail? Sorry, classified.

Then there is the matter of the A11, the super-supersonic aircraft which can travel faster than 4,000 miles an hour. Who paid for it? Funds were not appropriated by Congress, at least not knowingly.

Was the A11 financed by the Central Intelligence Agency? If so, has the agency become a source of enormous funds for projects Congress hasn't approved?

Bureaucratic secrecy has been carried to the point where the General Accounting Office, Congress' own overseer of spending, can't always find out details of multimillion-dollar transactions.

The Moss subcommittee reports that the Interstate Commerce Commission guaranteed a loan through a subordinate agency to the ailing New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. These guarantees totaled $35.6 million.

STILL TRYING

This happened in 1962 and the GAO still is trying to find out the details.

Moss feels strongly that government contracts, especially those negotiated without competitive bidding, should be a matter of public knowledge.

The Defense Department and NASA are the sources of most non-competitive contracts signed by the government.

Moss said he felt the chief offender in withholding legitimate news was the Defense Department.

"In defense," he said, "it is so easy to cloak everything on security grounds. This is the way they think. It is also so difficult to know what legitimate information might be available. Defense has tried to control all sources of information."

Whether the graying, 51-year-old Moss has had much success over the past nine years is debatable. But there is no doubt he has obtained release of some specific information after complaints.

Moss said he was perturbed by the absence of complaints, especially from reporters.

This would imply that news sources have so dried up, he said, that the reporters simply are unaware of what they are missing and hence have no reason to complain.

Unless complaints are forthcoming, Moss said, "we can't determine the scope of the problem."

Comptroller Stirs Cash Controversy

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP)—James J. Saxon has a reputation as the man who opened up more banks —and more feuds— than any other comptroller of the currency in American history.

He has bedazzled and bedeviled some of the most prestigious personalities in Washington and the world of banking in the past 2½ years with a driving campaign for major changes in the nation's banking system.

He has not hesitated to tangle with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Chairman William L. Cary of the Securities and Exchange Commission and Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board, to name a few.

To many conservative bankers, Saxon's public airing of the industry's highly controversial issues and his slashing verbal attacks are as unseemly as a banker counting his money in public. On the other hand, he has enthusiastic support from a large contingent of bankers.

From the day he took over as supervisor of the 4,500 national banks, Saxon acted as if he wanted to be as different as possible from his predecessor, Ray M. Gidney, who ran the office in a more traditional manner.

HURTS BANKING

Saxon believes that years of government control have stifled competition in the banking industry, and his remedy is more new banks and more branches. New units have been sprouting at a tremendous rate.

His second major principle is a belief in coordinated regulation at the federal level instead of the present division of responsibility among three federal agencies.

Unless they cooperate on on overlapping problems, the comptroller, the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation —FDIC—can set off sparks almost by accident.

Saxon, 50, is blocky and slightly below medium height. His gray hair adds distinction without detracting from his vigorous appearance. He and his wife have six children, aged 4 to 18.

A few months ago he stopped giving interviews to the press —reportedly because of an article he considered uncomplimentary. A subordinate said, "He just doesn't have time anymore."

Some who have encountered the comptroller came away speaking of him as personable, highly persuasive. Others say he is abrupt and abrasive and addicted to loss of temper.

A hassle with a non-bank agency, the Securities and Exchange Commission, gave him his first major setback. President Johnson asked Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon to set up a committee to make sure one banking agency didn't sneap up on the other two with a surprise regulation.

Johnson's action did not mention the SEC but it came soon after the Budget Bureau, apparently on orders from the President, said pointedly that Saxon's views on pending SEC legislation were his own and did not represent those of the administration.

The legislation would require several thousand corporations which are not listed on major stock exchanges to make periodic reports to their stockholders and to conform to other SEC rules. SEC officials consider it an important first step in a major overhaul of securities regulations.

The SEC made a major concession to Saxon by permitting the comptroller to check on the performance of banks under the new rules, and the bill passed the Senate without opposition. With the bill pending in the house, Saxon put his own disclosure regulations into effect and wrote a series of letters to bankers raising questions about portions of the bill.

ENDORSES BILL

Johnson's choice of the coordinating committee followed the exact course suggested by William F. Kelly, Philadelphia banker who heads the American Bankers Association—ABA. He had endorsed the SEC bill.

Saxon seems to enjoy the role of Maverick, but he has shown no inclination to tilt with the White House.

His term is not up until 1966. He could be removed by Johnson, although the law states that the President would have to tell the Senate his reason for the firing.

Even Saxon's detractors do not question his ability in the fields of law and banking.

"I believe his critics object more to the methods than to the actions he's taken," said one Washington official. "I frequently can't understand the motives behind some of his strong statements. Some say he's running for office. If so, what office? He puzzles a lot of people."

An official in the comptroller's office said, "It's only natural that he should make enemies in the cities where he has permitted new national banks. Every time he approves a new bank he risks the wrath of the established bankers in that city."

German Visitor Should Enjoy Argentine Trip

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Heinrich Luebke of West Germany, the first European chief executive to visit Argentina, should feel right at home when he arrives Monday.

Argentina's ties with Germany date back to Utz Scmidl of Straubing, Bavaria, a soldier who landed here in 1536 with the conquistador forces of Pedro de Mendoza.

In the years that have followed, many German immigrants have come. More than 50,000 Germans maintain their native country's passports and some 500,000 residents speak German.

Argentina's German business community has pushed trade to new highs between the two countries, with new investments from Germany totaling more than $2 million in 1963.

West Germany especially wants to see the Argentines use up their favorable balance of payments and buy more machinery.

KEEPING THINGS stirred up, James J. Saxon has brought controversy and excitement to the formerly quiet office of U.S. comptroller of the currency. He is seen in his office in the Treasury Department in Washington. Saxon has approved hundreds of new banks and branches to encourage competition, stepped on many V.I.P. toes, made verbal attacks on issues — and seems to enjoy the resultant controversies. BOOKS

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Books In Library Of Varied Interest

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Each week new titles of a wide variety are added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. This week is no exception with books to interest many readers. "A Touch of the Dragon" is the title of Hamilton Basso's new book. This is a very clever social commentary and will interest many readers. "The Last Tresilians" by John I Stewart is another important novel. "Up For Grabs" is the latest mystery by A. A. Fair and "Gold Strike in Hell" by Darwin Lambert is a new Western.

There are a number of interesting books of non - fiction. "The American Reading Public" by Roger H. Smith is a very fine study what and why people read. "Niles Weekly Register" by Luxon is an account of the most important news magazine of the nineteenth century. "The Rural Press and the New South" by Thomas D. Clark is an informative account of the part played by the small town newspapers of the South. "Spawn of Evil" by Paul I. Wellman is a graphic account of the robbers and outlaws who terrorized the West in the years between 1783 and 1865. A useful book is "Why and How to Prepare an effective Job Resume" written by Juvenal L. Angel.

In the field of sports there are a number of new titles. They are: "Sports illustrated book of Football"; "Sports Illustrated Book of Tennis", "The Story of the Olympic Games" by John Kieran, "The Better Homes and Gardens book of Family Camping" "Four Against Everest" by Woodrow Wilson Sayre, "Swimming and Diving" by John H. Higgins, "Field Archery and Bowhunting" by Arnold O. Haugen and "Between the Sunlight and the Thunder" by Neol Simon. The last title deals with hunting big game in Africa and the conservation of wild life in Kenya.

There are two very important titles in the field of literature; "Who's Who in Faulkner" by Margaret Patrick Ford and "Hemingway and his Critics" by Carlos Baker. Robert Payne has written a very lovely and scholarly book about "Ancient Greece; The Triumph of a Culture." A lovely book for the traveller is "Hill Towns of Italy" written by Lucy Lilian Notestein. A very useful book, which has been out of print, but is available again is "Coming of Age in Samoa" by Margaret Mead. We are happy that the library now has copies of this book. "Capitol Capsules" by Marilyn D. Franzen gives information about the capitols of each of the fifty states. "Travel Guide to the Hawaiian Islands" by Bob Krauss is most useful for anyone planning a trip to Hawaii as it gives complete information about the Islands of Oahu, Kauai, Hawaii, Maui and Molokai.

Probably one of the most vivid and complete accounts of the French Revolution to be written is "Paris in the Terror" by Stanley Loomis. It is a significant addition to the history of the period.

The reference collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is one of it's strongest points and we are constantly adding to it. A num- of new books were added this week. "The Canadian Almanac and Directory for 1964" will be useful to people planning a trip to Canada or having business with Canadian firms. "A concise etymological dictionary of the English Language" by Walter William Skeat is most useful to students of language. "The Inaugural Addresses of the American Presidents From Washington to Kennedy" edited by Davis Lott is a unique and valuable book; "The Chemical Formulary" edited by H. Bennett is a valuable book of formulas for chemical processes; "The Condensed Chemical Dictionary" explains terms used in chemistry. "The American novel, 1789-1959" by Donna Gerstenberger is an excellent book of literary criticism. "The American Historical Association's guide to Historical Literature" is a most useful compendium. "Who's Who in America (1964-65)" contains much valuable information about outstanding Americans.

"The 1964 edition of the City Directory of Monroe and West Monroe" is just off the press. This is a very valuable book and copies are found at each branch of the library. Reference books in the field of genealogy are always in demand and there are several additions to that collection this week. "They Went Thataway" by Charles Hughes Hamiln is an interesting book of early Virginia Wills. "Bolton'a American Armory" is a record of the coats of arms which have been in use within the present bounds of the United States. "A history of Conecuh County, Alabama" by B. F. Riley is a reprint of an 1881 edition. "An Index to the United States Census of Georgia for 1820 was compiled under the auspices of the Georgia Historical Society. This is the earliest census extant for the State of Georgia and this index should help many people.

SWIMMING ADS

CHICAGO (AP) — A Grand Rapids, Mich., family has been named "Swimming Pool Family of the Year" for 1963.

The family of Dr. Ramon B. Lang, his wife and three children was selected by a committee of the Midwest Swimming Pool Association.

The Lang family had the first pool in their block. It was built three years ago.

"They derived so much benefit from it themselves and told so many people about the joys of pool ownership that there are now four more polls in the same block," said Roger F. Vaugh, chairman of ths selection committee.

Shock Jolts Lives

ACCIDENT. By Elizabeth Janeway. Harper & Row. $5.95.

If there had been no accident, who knows what have been the outcome of many entangled and heartful problems?

But there was an accident, an utterly foolish one. Young Steve Benedict drove at an idiotic speed to get his friend back to college before a deadline. In the smashup, Steve received only moderate injuries, but his friend Saxe was turned into a paraplegic.

It was a shock that changed a good many lives. It affected Steve's parents —Charles Benedict, the big wheel in the ferromanganese market, who was impatient at the foolishness of his son; Maude, the frustrated wife and mother, and even Maude's father, the old professor whom Charles had always hated.

It cut into the lives of Charles' mistress - secretary, Allison Timms, and Saxe's girl friend Elizabeth Jowett, too. And Saxe's globe - trotting mother, among others.

But more than anything else, it changed the life of young Steve, who hated his fahter, admired his grandfather, felt a guilty pity about Saxe and grew to find a magnetic attraction in Elizabeth.

The story is told in a shifting series of first person narratives. First one character and another picks up the story and pushed it along, the overlapping chronology offering many contrasts.

It is an emotional story. Perhaps because it is so emotional, the women in the cast seem the most natural. The father is reasonably well portrayed as a tough hard-driving business man, but the old professor seems a little bit too ethereal.

This could be another way of saying that a male author might have given a different slan to the whole story but not necessarily a better one.

Mrs. Janeway has a story that communicates and enhances life. It is on a high level.

Fantasy, Satire Result In Sharp Wibberley Sting

A FEAST OF FREEDOM. By Leonard Wibberley. Morrow. $3.95.

Wibberley's touch of fantasy is back again. But this time the humor of fantasy is not quite so broad, and the proportion of satire is greater. The result has a sharper sting.

Most readers will remember the author's delightful chronicle of a pocket-size duchy that stumped the large world of science and military might, in the inimitable "The Mouse That Roared." There also was the sequel that spoofed satellites orbiting to the moon, The Mouse on the Moon."

These were as unreal as they were amusing, so that we could read them as ha-ha-ha, without squirming too much when their lessons struck home. The basis of their humor was the contrast between simple, small, family-size common sense and the packaged nonsense of world powers entrapped in their own economic and military elephantiasis.

In this book Wibberley also uses the device of the tiny and the huge. His story, set in 1968, is about a Pacific island dependency of Great Britain, Omo Lau ("palm-fringed," of course, and not so far removed removed from cannibalism), which has been a small but irritating drain on the British budget.

For the sake of international diplomacy the tiny colony is given its freedom for which it is not ready. Freedom means bankruptcy. So Omo Lau asks for annexation ot the United States. This doesn't seem too ridiculous to the American generals, who suddenly decide they have stumbled upon a fine test range for nuclear missiles.

Wibberley has some pointed observations on government by the voters, and a good many other sharp, shrewd contrasts in the field of democracy and international relations.

Because it is not quite so fantastic as it might seem on the surface, this is a satire that cuts right down to the quick. Laugh, and say to yourself, "So I'm laughing, at what?"

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

The cultural accent is fittingly enough on youth as the musical scale nears its point of repose for the season. Two guest performers will appear with the Monroe Youth Symphony in Monday evening's performance.

The concert, featuring the players of violin family instruments in the City School System's string program boosted to symphony strength by band members from both city and parish systems, will be under the direction of Roger DiGiulian.

Rex Morris of Rayville, painist, will perform the solo part for the "Concerto in E Flat Major for Piano and Orchestra," by Mozart.

Michael Galasso, artist teacher in residence at the LSU School of Music, will play the "Introduction and Rondo Capriccio," by the French Composer Saint Saens, also with the orchestra.

Other selections on the program include the "Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra," by Vaughn Williams, and the first movement from "Sumphony No. 6," by Beethoven.

MORE COMEDY

It's American comedy this time out at Strauss Playhouse. We understand the cast for "Take Her, She's Mine" has been chosen and director Richard Clark has moved full speed ahead with the rehearsals. No date for the opening has been announced as yet, but we understand this is to be the last play of the regular season.

Of course, as the old English rota puts it, "Sumer is Icumin in," and there'll be sundry productions on the boards, so we hear throughout the hot months. The power of air conditioning has made it possible to cool down the stage lights so the players can run through their parts without all the grease paint melting. Even in the Deep South.

FARTHER SOUTH

New Orleans, often identified with Deep Delta jazz, is also the cradle of opera in the United States. Of course, emphasis moved northward about the time of the Civil War, but New Orleans continues to present standard works as well as lesser known productions for the lyric stage. The Opera House Association's drive for 1964-65 is now underway, and the office taking subscriptions is located at 420 St. Charles Avenue.

Titles and stars have already been announced for the five productions of the winter season, and two of the spring operas. Plans for the eighth production will be completed soon. Of the seven operas already set two have never been produced by the New Orleans company, two more have only been presented once.

Verdi's "Otello" will open the season at the Municipal Auditorium on Thursday and Saturday, October 8 and 10. Bellini's "La Sonnambula" will follow October 22 and 24. In November Massanet's "Werther" will be given on the 5 and 7, and Verdi's "Il Trovatore" on the 12 and 14. "Madama Butterfly" the Puccini favorite, will close the winter series on December 3 and 5.

Charpentier's "Louise" will usher in the spring opera season on March 11 and 13, followed by Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" on March 25 and 27. The eighth production has not yet been set.

HIGHLY PRAISED

"Otello" will introduce New Orleans opera audiences to the most highly praised Otello of the day, James McCracken, who sings the role at the Metropolitan and is famous for it throughout Europe.

Dorothy Kirsten returns to New Orleans to sing the title role in Charpentier's "Louise," the second of the new operas to be added to the company's repertoire. The role of the father will be sung by Norman Treigle and Audrey Schuh will sing Irma. Miss Kirsten sang with the Opera House in last season's "Tosca" and is well remembered also for her roles in "Butterfly" four years ago, and of Violetta in 1958.

Boy Fights Polio While Growing Up

THE LONG WALK HOME. By Leonard Kriegel. Appleton-Century. $4.50.

Kriegel has written a first person story. It is lifted above the routine, literary tatting and crochet of many autobiographical pieces by the sort of psychological drama, tension and resolution that characterize a well written novel.

Its theme is a boys's growth into manhood, in the midst of a bitter struggle against the crippling effects of polio.

It begins when he was 11, and was stricken at summer camp. When the fever of the illness had subsided, he had escaped death but had lost the use of his legs.

For two years he was in a rehabilitation center for children, "The Rock," as they called it. The author draws a vivid picture of the other-world happenings in this strange place, and the feelings it aroused in him as he progressed from bed to wheel chair, to braces and crutches.

When he returned home, there were other-world experiences in his old environment, which had changed because he had changed. He relates with sharp insight the new crises that forced their way upon him with adolescene, such as the sudden compulsion to lift himself out of physical softness and defeat to make himself lean and at least partly selfreliant.

Finally, he sketches briefly his college years and his introduction to love. At the very end, he has found his own pattern of life, but not in the posture of surrender.

Kriegel writes his story with a remarkably electrical skill. In other hands this narrative could have dropped very easily into the maudlin and mediocre. But the author has the real writer's touch. The book's subtitle, "An Adventure in Survival," is a clue to the moving impact of his story.

CHICAGO (AP) — An automobile designer has come up with a brake and accelerator combination on one pedal.

Product Engineering, a trade publication, reports that it may lessen the time it takes to move the foot from accelerator to brake, preventing fatal accidents.

The top portion of the gas pedal is linked with the engine accelerator and speeds and slows the car. The lower portion of the pedal can be depressed with the heel to brake the car.

Morgan Rips Out Best Hurdles Time

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Rocket-swift Roger Morgan turned in a pair of dazzling hurdle times to easily cop outstanding track performer laurels and help Northeast State to a successful defense of its title in a record-shattering second running of the Northeast Invitational before approximately 3,000 fans here Saturday night.

The Indians, who have failed to finish first in only one meet this year, scored 81 points against 54 for second place East Texas State. The University of Southwestern Louisiana was third with 44, Northwestern State and Louisiana Tech tied with 37 each and improving McNeese had 30.

Morgan, a mercury - footed junior from El Dorado, Ark., ripped off a sizzling 13.7 in the 120-yard highs, best collegiate time in the nation this year. The run also erased the Northeast school record of 13.8 set by Don Styron in 1962 and the Invitational mark of 14.4 set by Dalton LeBlanc of Northeast (all meet records broken were set last year in the initial running.)

Morgan also clipped off a 36.8 in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles, second best collegiate time in the nation this spring. Only a 36.7 run by Ray Hilburn of Texas Western was better. The event wasn't held here last year.

Russell Polhemus of East Texas State, who also won a pair of firsts and broke two meet records in the process, was selected the outstanding field performer.

Polhemus eclipsed the 154-9 discus standard set by Tommy Jameson of USL with a fine 163-10 ⅝ heave.

He also bettered the 45-5½ shot put record held by Justin Canale of Mississippi State with a 53-8½ effort.

In all six old records were broken and two others were tied. Three of the new records were in running events and three in the field.

Northeast's 440-relay combine of Dalton LeBlanc, Charles McDonald, Jay Goldsmith and Ronnie Fountain toured the oval in 41.2 to better the 41.6 held by Mississippi State.

Sprintman R. L. Lassiter from East Texas turned in a 21.1 performance in the 220 to shade the 21.3 run by Jim Wood from Miss. State.

The other new field record is a 215-5 javelin toss by Glen Ermatinger of Northwestern. Teammate Ed Horton set the standard with a 208-11 throw.

The two tied records went to East Texas.

Morris Kyser ran a splendid 47.3 in the 440 to equal the time set by Randall Walker of Northeast and the speedy Lassiter did the 100 in 9.5 to tie his own winning effort here last year.

Fred Vogel of Northeast was second in the 330 intermediates with 37.6 to turn in the second best time run by a college freshman or junior college performer this year. Only Ron Houser of Fullerton Junior College and George Greenwood from San Benito Valley Junior College, who both ran 37.4, have done better.

440-Relay: Northeast (Dalton LeBlanc, Charles McDonald, Jay Goldsmith, Ronnie Fountain) 41.2; East Texas State 41.3; McNeese, 41.6; Southwestern, 42.7 Northwestern, 42.9 (breaks Northeast Invitational record of 41.6 set by Mississippi State).

Mile run: Malcolm Robinson USL(4:13.0); Ray Haile, Northwestern; (4:14.4); Mickey Sullivan, USL (4:15.0); Paul Simmons, Northwestern (4:19.3); Bill Smith, Northeast (4:20.8).

440-yard dash: Morris Kyser, East Texas State (47.3); Ronnie McNeil, East Texas State (48.0); Cline Averett, Northeast (48.3); Steve Sartor, East Texas State (49.1); Art Garcia, McNeese (49.3) (ties record set by Randall Walker of Northeast).

100-yard dash: R. L. Lassiter, East Texas State (9.5); Ronnie Fountain, Northeast (9.6); Craig Henry, McNEESE (9.7); Monte Ledbetter, Northwestern (9.9); Jay Goldsmith, Northeast (10.0) (ties own record).

120-yard high hurdles: Roger Morgan, Northeast State (13.7); Roger Mann, Northeast State (14.1); Allen Carpenter, La. Tech (14.3); Dalton LeBlanc, Northeast State (14.4); James Phillips, East Texas (14.6) (breaks record of 14.4 set by Dalton LeBlanc of Northeast).

880-yard run: John Wenk, USL (1:54.2); Gayland LeBlanc, Northeast (1:54.4); Jim Baudin, Northeast (1:54.5); Frank Bright, La. Tech (1:55.0) Fred Miller, La. Tech (1:55.2).

220-yard dash: R. L. Lassiter, East Texas (21.1); Ronnie Fountain, Northeast (21.3); Reggie Day, La. Tech (21.7); Dalton LeBlanc, Northeast (21.8); Jim Ancelet, McNeese (22.3) (breaks record of 21.3 set by Jim Wood of Miss. State).

330-yard intermediate hurdles: Roger Morgan, Northeast (36.8); Fred Vogel, Northeast (37.6); Allen Carpenter, La. Tech (37.9); Roger Mann, Northeast (38.3); Robert Daulton, La. Tech (38.5).

2-Mile Run: Malcolm Robinson, USL (9:22.9); Micky Sullivan, USL (9:30.6); Hunter Horgan, McNeese (9:30.8); Tom Brown, Northeast (9:51.0); Allen Laird, La. Tech (10:.0).

Mile Relay: East Texas State (Bridges, Ballowe, R. L. Lassiter, Ronnie McNeil, Morris Kyser) 3:12.4; McNeese 3:14.0; Northeast (3:18.2); La. Tech (3:22.1).

Triple jump: Alphonse Habeitz, McNeese (47-4½); Monty Ledbetter, Northwestern (46-9); James Bohata, USL (46-½); Doug Constant, Northeast, (45-10½); Robert Daulton, La. Tech (44-11).

Discus: Russell Polhemus, East Texas (163-10⅝); Jim Goodwin, La. Tech (160); Gary Walker, Northeast (159-4); Tim Hall, La. Tech (151-5⅜); Joe Sullivan, McNeese (147-10½) (breaks record of 154-9 set by Tommy Jameson of USL).

Javelin: Glen Ermatinger, Northwestern (215-5); Pat Arceneaux, USL (209-0) Jim Lyles, USL (206-4); Tommy Slack, Northeast (205-1); Ed Horton, Northwestern (186-9) (breaks record of 208-11¾ set by Horton of Northwestern).

Shot Put: Russell Polhemus, East Texas (53-8¼) Pat Arceneaux, USL (50-1¾); Dick Reding, Northwestern (47-7½); Wayne Gray, La. Tech (45-9½); Larry Delebretonc, USL (45-5½) (breaks record of 51-6¼) set by Justin Canale of Miss. State).

Broad Jump: Monty Ledbetter, Northwestern (23-3⅞); Jim Hatcher, La. Tech (22-3¼); Roger Mann, Northeast (22-3). James Bohata, USL (22-1); Mike Toon, East Texas (22-¼).

High jump: Monty Ledbetter, Northwestern (6-2); Frank Howard, La. Tech (6-0); Whitney Miller, East Texas (6-0); Mike Poole, La. Tech (6-0); Doug Constant, Northeast (6-0).

GLEN ERMATINGER (left) of Northwestern State college set a new North east Invitational javelin record with this 215-5 toss. The effort battered the 208-11¾ throw recorded by teammate Ed Horton here last year. Gary Johnson of Northwestern, was one of three pole vaulters who tied at 14-0. Ronnie Oberby of Northeast won on fewer misses. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

KNOCKS OUT 7 BIRDIES

Awesome Nicklaus Grips Lead In Champions Meet

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus unleashed an awesome attack on par, knocking out seven birdies for a 77-under-par 65, a 54-hole score of 206 and a firm hold on first place in golfing's Tournament of Champions Saturday.

The blockbuster from Columbus, Ohio, aiming at his second straight victory in this tournament, took a lead of three strokes over the second-round leader, 120-pound Chi Chi Rodriguez, who had a 70 for 209.

Playing in gentle weather in contrast to Friday's wild, windy afternoon, Nicklaus broke through what had been an even fight with Rodriguez, taking the lead on the 15th hole with a birdie four.

Nicklaus opened his barrage with birdies on the first three holes, added another on the eighth, and broke par on the 15th, 16th and 17th.

Rodriguez started the round leading Nicklaus by two strokes. The popular Puerto Rican birdied two of the first three holes.

Homer, Error Give Chisox 3-1 Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Hansen's second-inning home run and the wildness of Los Angeles starter Bo Belinsky helped the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Angels Saturday.

The Sox gained their fourth straight triumph in the first game they played since last Sunday.

Hansen's homer got Chicago off to a 1-0 lead. The White Sox added two in the sixth as Belinsky became wild.

He walked leadoff man Mike Hershberger, who advanced to third on Don Buford's single. Buford took second on a wild pitch, and Floyd Robinson struck out.

PIRATES WIN, 5-4

Freese Trips Cards' Plans

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gene Freese rapped a two-out bases-loaded single in the top of the ninth Saturday night and Frank Bork followed with some gritty relief pitching in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-4 decision over St. Louis.

The Cards' Curt Simmons went into the ninth with a 4-3 lead but walked pinch hitter Julio Gotay and surrendered a one-out ground rule double to Dick Schofield.

One out later Roberto Clemente drew an intentional walk off Bobby Shantz, and Freese delivered his clinching blow to left.

But it took some brilliant relief work by Bork in the bottom of the ninth to make it stand up. He came on with two on and none out, struck out dangerous Bill White before loading the bases by walking Ken Boyer.

He then enticed Tim McCarver to hit into a game-ending double play.

Freese's winning blow was his third hit of the game. He also slammed solo homer. Johnny Lewis had a homer for the Cardinals.

'BLOOD AND GUTS'

Hartack Lauds Canadian Colt

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jockey Bill Hartack was riding Northern Dancer, but his attention was focused on favorite Hill Rise Saturday in the Kentucky Derby.

"I had him in my sights all the time," Hartack said after scoring his fourth Derby victory aboard the gritty little Canadian colt, Northern Dancer.

"As we can to the stretch, I was tapping the Dancer every step. He's a good little horse. He's all blood and guts and he tries hard."

Hartack brought the little guy out of the middle of the pack, running with Hill Rise, and took the lead in the last quarter.

Hartack said that when he got out of bed Saturday morning any doubts he had about losing were gone.

"I told my valet we would bring home the roses—and the money—and we did," the smiling Hartack said. "Mr. Luro (trainer Horatio Luro) and I worked out our strategy ahead of time and you can see it paid off.

"We made suggestions to each other and we knew what we were doing," Hartack said as he returned to the jockey quarters.

After getting Northern Dancer home in record time.

Hartack loved every minute of it.

"I got $200 worth of tickets on your horse—you're the greatest." said a shabbily dressed man.

"Where's my half," Hartack said, "I did all the work."

Hartack was mobbed by thousands as he headed for the jockey quarters. Four police officers tried to keep them away, but their efforts were in vain.

Someone handed Hartack a program and asked for his autograph, thus beginning an hour-long autograph session.

"Give me a pen somebody," Hartack yelled.

Taylor, whose Windfields Farm is the pride of the Canadian thoroughbred industry, said the record didn't surprise him.

"I even caught him faster—but then my view of the starting gait was not as good as the judges," he said.

NORTHERN DANCER with jocket Bill Hartack riding led the 12 horses at the finish to win the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs at Louisville Saturday. (AP Wirephoto)

Chicago Cubs Stop Houston As Buhl Hurls

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Buhl pitched a three-hitter Saturday night as the Chicago Cubs stopped Houston 9-0 behind the hitting of rookie Billy Cowan and Ernie Banks.

Buhl limited the Colts to two singles in the third inning and one in the fifth in winning his second game against one loss. John Batemen, who got Houston's first hit in the third, was the only man to reach second against Buhl, who struck out four and walked none.

Cowan singled home two runs in the Cubs' three-run fourth, then homered with two aboard in the five-run ninth.

Banks tripled in the second and scored the Cubs' first run on Bateman's passed ball. He knocked across a run with a single in the fourth and did the same in the ninth.

Duck Counts Still Going

With Sam Hanna

Latest Waterfowl Survey

It may be hard to believe, but Louisiana still has more ducks in the spring than some states have during the winter.

The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, extending its waterfowl surveys into May for a purpose, reports that Louisiana had 1,649,800 ducks between March 5-7th.

This, of course, does not include April, but a survey was conducted in April and its results will be released later. Then the commission will conduct another survey this month.

The reason for extending the survey (they're normally ceased in February or March) is to give the state more facts to present to the federal government before the season is set for the next winter.

And it won't be long before the machinery will be put into motion to determine the new seasons.

For instance, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service will hold its annual dove conference June 25th at Washington to review results of dove surveys and to discuss dove management problems.

Then the Mississippi Flyway Council will hold its annual conference around August 1st at St. Louis. This is where representatives of all the state game departments in the Mississippi Flyway sit down and attempt to agree on recommendations for the duck season.

On August 11-12th, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service will hold its annual waterfowl conference at Washington, presenting to the Waterfowl Advisory Committee its breeding ground survy, data and other information. On this basis, recommendations will be presented to the Department of the Interior, August 13-14th, for the season, or at least for the framework.

Louisiana and other states will receive their frameworks.

And that's why the Louisiana department is making waterfowl surveys in the spring in an effort to show the federal people that there is not a shortage of ducks.

During the February 5-7th survey, Louisiana came up with a total nose count of 3,225,350 ducks, but you can't compare the two surveys, since by March ducks begin pairing off, some returning north.

In addition, the winter surveys are conducted on a state - wide basis whereas the spring surveys are conducted only in areas where ducks are concentrated.

At any rate the show is on the spring road for next winter's grand opening.

Problems At Louis

Lake Louis at Sicily Island has been on the downhill for the past few years. The fishing has gone from good to average or below.

Numerous persons who fish Louis, including some who own camps there, have complained for many months, even to the point of turning to the state for assistance.

The Department of Public Works has taken a look at Louis and so have biologists with the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission.

At Monroe, fisheries biologist Jim Davis says Lake Louis and Bayou Louis — practically one in the same—started declining when a dam was built where Louis runs into the Ouachita River.

This, he says, has kept the lake level stable, preventing it from being properly restocked and also — and most important — tying up nutrients in the bottom mud, making for an unproductive lake. Nutrients, for those who are interested, are fertilizer material.

As a result of the dam, the only new water, for all purposes, that gets into Louis comes in the form of backwater from the nearby Tensas River.

Jim Davis says that if a flood gate was installed at the dam, the level of Lake Louis and Bay Louis could be controlled. Water could be pulled out of the lake, thereby permitting the banks to dry and the bottom of the lake to crack, thus freeing the nutrients.

This would assist the fisheries population to expand, thus improving the fishing. The installation of a flood gate would cost probably less than $50,000.

And at the moment state officials are looking into the proposed project. Fishermen and camp owners at Lake Louis and Bayou Louis are in hopes that the project will be carried out.

Also on the subject of the Tensas River, the Army engineers are considering a plan to build a levee along a major portion of the Tensas to hold water in the river for flood control in the lower part of Catahoula Parish.

Turkey Management

Turkey management is one of the hardest jobs any biologist can tackle. Turkeys are just plain hard to handle. They're hard to trap and they don't always survive once they're released.

But here's an interesting approach.

The Missouri Conservation Department recently announced that it plans to equip trapped yearling wild gobblers with miniature radio transmitters in an attempt to trace their movements.

Two biologists, John Lewis and Carl Slagel, have built seven sets in an effort to learn from the studying the birds' movements, what kind of habitat the turkeys prefer at different times of the year and reasons for the preferences.

Will the radio system work? The Missouri people hope it will.

Alabama probably has done more with studying turkeys than any other state, according to Louisiana biologists whom we've talked with. Even there where there are so many turkeys, the number of turkeys trapped annually is relatively small.

Perhaps the radio will give the game people the wedge they've needed with the turkey.

Little Man's Corner

The rains were heavy and the streams got muddy, but the little men made news afield.

For instance, Kelley Arnold, a Monroe fisherman who has been at for 20 years, caught the limit of bass Friday morning in Bayou DeSiard. He was fishing with a Devil Horse, but he said he'd rather for say where he caught his fish.

Bass fishing has probably been better in Bayou DeSiard than it has been anywhere else in the immediate Monroe area.

At Black Bayou, it took a while for the fishing to improve after the big rains, but it did and local fishermen who landed them included the following:

Bill Gayle, 50 bream; E. A. Hollensherd, 45 bream and chinkapins; Willie Mays, 49 bream and chinkapins; W. H. Holley and Jack Wigler, 55 bream and chikapins; George and Robert Hollis, 75 bream and chikapins; and Johnny Danna, 50 bream.

And at Winnsboro, Willie Reems, one of the better bass fishermen, had a limit day at Mosquitto Lake.

From Ferriday, A. D. Wiley got the limit of bream in Lake St. John. Oscar Nugent and Noel Walker of Ferriday landed the limit of catfish and bream in Lake St. John.

Fishing at Lake Cocodrie at Ferriday, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Kelly caught the limit of bream.

Vidalia fishermen having good luck included Willie Goss and Alex Dunagan, limit of white perch at the Red River pits; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith of Ferriday, limit of white perch at Lake Concordia; Jim and Barton Swinny of Ferriday, limit of bream at Concordia; Spot Price, limit of bass at barpits below Deer Park; and Percy May, limit of white perch at Vidalia.

Still locally, the Ouachita Wildlife Unit is planning a fishing rodeo for the public, May 30-31st, at Black Bayou with divisions for all age fishermen, boys and girls, men and women.

There'll be prizes for the biggest fish caught and the most fish caught. Watch for more details.

SALINE WILDLIFE Management Area in LaSalle and Catahoula parishes has been dedicated by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis (fourth from left) and members of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission, which bought the 50,000-acre tract of land recently for $29 per acre, using funds from the Russell Sage Foundation. With the governor at the dedication were (left to right) James L. Frey, Lafayette; Ray Whately, Alexandria; Jolin E. Kyle, Berwick; Davis; L. Richard Fleming, Shreveport; H. B. Fairchild, Sunshine; A. J. Buquet, Houma; and Richard K. Yancey, assistant commission director.

IN NORTH-SOUTH

Morey Collects At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Dale Morey built a five-hole lead in the morning round then staved off a late rush by Billy Joe Patton to win the North and South Amateur Golf Championship 3 and 2 in the 36-hole finals Saturday.

Morey, 43-year-old High Point, N.C. furniture executive, shot three-over-par 75 golf in the morning against 80 for Patton, 42-year-old lumberman from Morganton, N.C.

Patton was making a bid for a third successive title and ended his North and South winning streak at 19 matches.

Patton steadied his game in the afternoon and twice but Morey's lead to a single hole. Morey, who won nine of the morning 18 holes, didn't win one in the afternoon until the 13th. He went on to take the 15th and 16th. On the 16th he closed out Patton with a 25-foot birdie putt.

Morey was four over par in the afternoon and finished the 34 holes seven over. Patton's two over par afternoon play put him 10 over for the day.

Tribe Netters Still Keeping Perfect Mark

Northeast rallied to win the doubles matches and maintain its perfect record in tennis with a 6-3 victory over Southwestern here Saturday afternoon.

The victory was the Tribe's 10 straight for the year while the defeat was only the third for the strong Bulldogs.

The visitors won three of the five singles matches, dealing Indian Richard Campbell his first defeat of the spring in number three. It was a different story in the doubles however as the Indians won both in straight sets.

Northeast coach Ralph Lane broke up his doubles combinations playing Bob Owen and Buddy Embanato in number one and Margo Alvarez and Richard Campbell in number two. Alvarez and Owen usually play in the first flight and Campbell and Embanato in the second.

The strategy payed off as the Tribe's number one team polished off John Breaux and Bob Boudreaux 6-2, 6-2, and the number two combination downed Earl Turner and Denis Aucoin 6-4, 6-2.

Turner earlier upset Campbell in the number three singles. The USL star outlasted Campbell in the first set 8-6, and wrapped up the match with a 6-3 triumph in the second set. Campbell had lost only one set in his previous nine matches.

Aucoin followed by winning the number four singles over Buddy Embanato 6-3, 6-2, and Bob Boudreaux beat Bob Statham in number five 8-6, 6-3 to give USL a 3-2 lead before the doubles units saved the day.

Alvarez and Owen kept their unbeaten strings going in singles, Alvarez dispatching Bob Rockhold in number one play and Owen blanking Breaux 6-0, 6-0 in number two.

Summary:

No. 1 — Margo Alvarez beat Bob Rockhold, 6-3, 6-3.

No. 2 — Bob Owen beat John Breaux, 6-0, 6-0.

No. 3 — Richard Campbell lost to Earl Turner, 6-8, 3-6.

No. 4 — Buddy Embanato lost to Denis Aucoin, 3-6, 2-6.

No. 5 — Bob Statham lost to Bob Boudreaux, 6-8, 3-6.

No. 1 doubles — Owen and Embanato beat Breaux and Boudreaux, 6-2, 6-2.

No. 2 doubles — Alvarez and Campbell beat Aucoin and Turner, 6-4, 6-2.

Racing Track Delays Opening; Begins May 10

Dirt track auto racing makes a comeback in the Northeast Louisiana area one week from today when the West Monroe Speedway holds its inaugural event May 10, promising some of the Mid-South's finest drivers and machines.

Roy Smith, track owner, said the original opening date of May 3 was pushed back one week to avoid a conflict with the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored motorcycle contests today.

Smith said there were 30 to 35 qualified drivers in the Twin City region now and that the Speedway race program would probably develop an equal number, making a total of about 70.

Two classes of competition are planned, modified and American stock. The former will allow any type car to run while the latter is restricted to domestic makes of 1960 vintage and older.

The stockers must have an unaltered engine, carburetor and rear end.

Smith said 40 per cent of the gate receipts would go to the winning drivers in the various heats and feature races and could amount to a sizeable sum if the 1,000 seat grandstand is filled.

Races are slated for very Sunday during the summer months on the quarter-mile clay-base oval.

MEETS LEAGUE RECORD

Four Straight Homers Power Twins' Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tony Oliva, Bob Allison, Jimmie Hall and Harmon Killebrew tied a major league record with four consecutive home runs in the 11th inning and powered the Minnesota Twins to a 7-3 victory over Kansas City Saturday night.

The power - laden Twins became the third team to hit four homers in a row. Cleveland did it against Los Angeles in the American League last July while Milwaukee did it against Cincinnati in the National League in 1961.

Minnesota also became the third team to hit four bases-empty homers in one inning. The New York Giants were the first to do it in 1939 and the Indians did it with their consecutive homers last season.

Oliva, who cracked a two-run homer in the third, started the rout with none out off Danny Pfister, the Athletics' third pitcher. Allison and Hall followed before Pfister was replaced by Vern Handrahan.

Killebrew, whose solo home run in the ninth gave the Twins a 3-2 lead, then connected for the fourth homer of the 11th.

The Athletics tied the game 3-3 in the ninth when Rocky Colavito singled home Ed Charles, who had doubled and advanced to third on an infield out. Kansas City eventually loaded the bases, but pinch hitter Bill Bryan struck out, ending the inning.

LEADING THE LEAGUE

Indians Subdue Orioles In 13th

BALTIMORE (AP) — The American League-leading Cleveland Indians scored three runs in the 13th inning on two hits—one of them a bunt—and held off the Baltimore Orioles 6-4 Saturday.

Little Vic Davallio started the weird rally off relief pitcher Harvey Haddix with a single, his third hit of the game, and continued to second when left fielder Russ Snyder fumbled the ball.

Haddix, the fifth Oriole pitcher, then hit Leon Wagner with a pitch and walked Al Smith intentionally to load the bases.

Joe Azcue hit a sacrifice fly to score the tie-breaking run. It was the last ball hit out of the infield during the inning. The other runs scored on a bunt by Max Alvis and a wild pitch.

Baltimore, which rallied to tie the score 3-3 in the 12th after Woody Held homered for Cleveland, tried again in the 13th.

A walk and Norm Siebern's fourth hit chased relief pitcher Ted Abernathy and he was replaced by Don McMahon. After striking out two batters, McMahon yielded a run-scoring single to Sam Bowens, but retired Jerry Adair on a game-ending ground out.

Lefty Jack Kralick was within one out of his third victory after Held hit his homer off Dick Hall in the 12th.

But Adair dropped a double in front of right fielder Smith and pinch hitter Boog Powell doubled over Davallio's head in center to tie the score again.

Wickersham Is Downfall Man

BOSTON (AP)—Dave Wickersham pitched a six-hitter Saturday as Detroit shut out Boston 4-0.

The tall right-hander, acquired by trade from Kansas City, raised his season's record to 3-1 and lowered his earned run average to 1.39. Wickecsham already is one-quarter of the way to last year's victory total of 12.

LIONS, TIGERS

Monroe Teams Drop Contests

DUBACH (Special) — Ouachita and Neville were eliminated in the Dubach baseball tourney semifinal play Saturday after both had advanced via upsets earlier in the three day, 16 team go.

Fair Park's defending Triple-A state champs and current title holders in District One bounced the Lions out of further contention with a 1-0 extra inning win, while Neville lost to Lisbon by a 4-3 count in another extended contest.

Both games went six stanzas, one over the tournament standard of five.

The Tigers reached the semi-final plateau with a 2-0 defeat of Simsboro as Tom Brown handcuffed the losers with a one-hitter. Gene Galligan slamed his first home run of the season with on in the second inning for Neville's tallies.

Ouachita beat host Dubach to gain the semi's, scoring seven runs on eight hits, one a three run homer by Johnny Elmendorf. Dubach managed one marker as Ken Cupples tossed a two hitter.

The Lions continued to get good pitching as Cupples and Elmendorf combined to limit Fair Park to three safeties, but the Indians' Mike Herron went them one better as he allowed only two hits.

Fair Park's tally came in the top of the sixth when a walk, a sacrifice and a single won the ball game. Ronnie Fetzer, who scored the run, was almost picked off second base by Cupples in a disputed call.

Two errors helped Lisbon take the Tigers as the winners scored two runs in their half of the sixth. Lisbon had earlier downed Homer, 8-3, in twelve innings.

Fair Park made it to the finals with Lisbon by beating Ouachita and in an earlier contest taking Downsville by a 4-1 count.

Skowron Strokes Hit That Beats Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill (Moose) Skowron stroked a pinch hit single, driving in John Kennedy with a 10th inning run that gave the Washington Senators a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday.

Skowron, nursing a pulled groin muscle, was summoned from the bench by manager Gil Hodges to hit for Don Blasingame after Kennedy had hit a one-out triple off Bud Daley, fourth Yankee pitcher.

Moose, traded away by the Yankees last year, hit a 2-2 pitch over shortstop Tony Kubek's head to break a 4-4 tie.

The Yankees, who had rallied from a 4-1 deficit to force the game into extra innings, threatened to tie it again in their half of the 10th. With two out Tommy Tresh doubled but Jim Duckworth, fourth Washington pitcher, got Joe Pepitone to ground out.

Jim King starred for the Senators both on offense and defense. He smashed a three-run homer into the third tier in right field to give the Senators a 4-1 lead.

With the score tied at 4-4 in the ninth, he raced back to the fence in front of the Yankee bullpen and made a one-handed catch of Kubek's bid for a homer.

WOODSON WINS

Techmen, USL Divide Twinbill

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech and Southwestern split a baseball twinbill here Saturday afternoon with Tech winning the opener, 2-0, behind George Woodson's three-hitter and USL copping the nightcap, 6-1, on Harry Stelley's five-hitter.

It was Woodson's seventh win against two losses and Stelley's sixth with tow defeats. Woodson, despite a 3-2 loop record, has not given up an earned run in five Gulf States Conference games.

Tech put together two of its three hits in the third frame. An error, Paul Labenne's single and a two-run double by Ron McNabb provided the margin. Woodson struck out ten.

Stelley was just as tough against Tech in the second contest. USL took a 1-0 lead in the second frame on a single by Mickey Guildry, a two-base outfield error and a sacrifice fly by Pat Richard. Singles by Paul Boeneke and Stelley and a double by Leonard Kleinpeter accounted for two more in the fifth. Three walks, two stolen bases and a single by Lionel Kleinpeter accounted for three more in the seventh.

Tech's only run came on a single by Arnold Ramsey, an error and a single by Labenne.

Monterey Beats Ogden For Title In District 8-C

MONTEREY (Special) — Monterey took an 11-0 baseball victory over Ogden here Saturday and with it the District 8-C crown.

Eddie Poole got the win, his third of the season against no losses, through Eugene Pecanty hurdled the last two frames in relief. The pair held Odgen to only three hits.

Duane Green led the Monterey offense with two hits in three tries, both home runs.

The Wolves will play Mer Rouge in a bi-district playoff Tuesday at Monterey. Game time will be 2 p.m., with the winner advancing to the state tourney.

Monterey's season mark is now 3-1, with a 2-0 record in conference play.

Braves Trample Phillie Effort In Mighty Blow

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews and Joe Torre broke out of batting slumps with four hits each as the Milwaukee Braves mounted their mightiest attack of the season and mauled the Philadelphia Phils 11-2 Saturday behind the pitching of Bob Sadowski.

Mathews, who carried a .176 batting average into the game, cracked his second homer with one aboard and collected three singles, while Torre had two doubles and two singles, driving in two runs.

The Braves clobbered five Philadelphia pitchers for 17 hits as the Phils suffered only their third defeat in 13 starts.

Sadowski, giving up five hits, had his shutout spoiled in the ninth when Johnny Callison and Wes Covington slammed solo home runs.

Lefty Jackson Uses 2-Hitter Against Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Lefty Al Jackson pitched a two-hitter for his second shutout of the season Saturday as the New York Mets won only their third game of the year, 3-0 over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Mets, who have lost 11 games this year, got only four hits off Cincinnati starter Jim Maloney in eight innings, but made good use of them.

Ron Hunt doubled in the fourth and scored on Frank Thomas's single. In the seventh, Maloney walked Thomas, pinch runner Dick Smith moved to second on a sacrifice and went the rest of the way on two wild pitches.

Singles by Jim Hicuman and Rod Kanehl and a sacrifice fly by Al Moran added the last run in the ninth, off Al Worthington.

Northwestern Inks 1st Cager

NATCHITOCHES (Special)—Northwestern State College announced the signing of its first basketball recruit. He is Peter Gary of Marthaville who starred on the Class B team which went to the finals before losing to Plainview in the Top Twenty tournament at Shreveport.

Gray was named to all-state honors in 1964 and to all-district teams in 1963 and 1964. His best efforts last season were 33-point scoring sprees against Ringgold and Florien. Coach Donald Winn of the Hawks rates Gray among the best turned out by the North Louisiana school which goes big for the roundball sport.

COLLEGE SENIORS BEWARE

NBA Starts Grabbing In Annual Draft Day

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's top senior college basketball players go up for grabs Monday at the annual draft meeting of the National Basketball Association.

The New York Knicks, who finished the season with the lowest percentage of the nine teams, get first choice and the feeling is that they will claim Lucious Jackson, the 6-foot-9 Little All-America from Pan American College in Texas.

The Knicks have been seeking a "big guy" to firm up their rebuilding program and Jackson has been proclaimed as one of the best by NBA scouts scouring the country for pro prospects.

Other "big guys" likely to be taken on the first round are Jim and News Barnes, 6-8 of Texas Western now in Russia with the touring U.S. team, seven-foot Mel Counts of Oregon State, 6-10 Willis Reed of Grambling College in Louisiana and 6-10 Bill Chmielewski who led Dayton to the 1962 NIT post season tournament title.

Chmielewski dropped out of school and did not play with Dayton last season, but is eligible for the draft since his class is due to graduate.

All-Americas Walt Hazzard of UCLA, Cotton Nash of Kentucky, Gary Bradds of Ohio State, Barry Kramer of NYU and Ron Bonham of Cincinnati are high up on the list of highly regarded seniors.

It would not be a surprise, however, for Hazzard to go to the Los Angeles Lakers and Bonham to the Cincinnati Royals as territorial choices. This is a contoversial NBA rule that will be dropped after next year's draft.

Other players expected to be drafted in the early rounds are Ira Harge of New Mexico, Jeff Mullins of Duke, George Wilson of Cincinnati, Joe Caldwell of Arizona State, Happy Hairston of NYU, Willie Murrell of Kansas State, Paul Silas of Creighton, Les Hunter of Chicago Loyola and Wally Jones of Villanova.

Others include Howard Komives of Bowling Green and Nick Werkman of Seton Hall the nation's highest scorers the last two years, Vic Rouse of Chicago Loyola, John Thompson of Providence and possibly Rick Kaminsky of Yale and Danny Schultz of Tennessee.

After New York, Detroit gets the second choice followed by Baltimore, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cincinnati and the champion Boston team.

Destrehan High Defeats Farmers For State Title

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Destrehan High made the most of four Farmer bobbles and an equal number of hits to win the state Class A baseball title with a 4-2 victory here Saturday.

The South Louisiana crew came from behind to score their 12th win of the year against four losses as winning pitcher David Davis held Farmerville to only two hits.

The Farmers took a 2-0 lead in the second inning when Joe Albritton led off with a double, moved to third on Ronnie Nolan's hit and scored on Gary Albritton's ground ball. Nolan came home moments later on a wild pitch.

With two out in the third the third the Wildcat's, Ted Davis reached first on an error and was doubled in by V. J. St. Pierre. Rusty Walker then doubled home St. Pierre to tie the game at 2-2.

In the fifth frame Richard Ayme scored the new champion's third run on an outfield error, and in the seventh he came home with the fourth tally on an infield miscue.

Lothridge To Play

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Quarterback Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech was chosen Saturday to play for the East in the All-America football game here June 27.

Open House Reveals Engagement Of Charlotte Salley, William Turpin

MISS CHARLOTTE ANNE SALLEY

Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Charlotte Anne Salley and William Allen Turpin was revealed at open house given by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fred Salley, 2309 Gordon Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Thurman Turpin Jr., 302 Country Club Road.

The Salley home was scene of the announcement party Saturday, May 2 from 7 until 9 p.m.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, August 1 at 6:30 p.m. in Parkview Baptist Church, Monroe. Officiating will be Rev. James R. Edwards, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. A. T. Mitchell, retired pastor of Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe.

Approximately 250 relatives and close friends who called during the appointed hours were greeted at the door by Mrs. Charles Campbell, cousin of the prospective bridegroom and Fred Salley Jr., brother of the bride - elect. Date of the forthcoming wedding was revealed in a crystal ball which also contained pictures of the betrothed couple and which formed the central decor for the entrance table. Surrounding the ball were pink carnations, leatherleaf fern and tiny pink ribbon bows.

The guest book table, presided over by Mrs. J. Thomas Brakefield, sister of the future bridegroom, was covered with a floor length lace cloth and decorated with a memory candle, garlanded by ivy and pink carnations.

A pink and white theme prevailed throughout the reception rooms with arrangements of pink carnations, white stock and leatherleaf fern. Miss Salley, wearing a pink summer gown and a white orchid corsage, received with her fiance and their parents. Both mothers wore pink orchids to complement their after-five gowns.

Covered with a lace cloth over pink the reception table was centered with a five-branch silver candelabra holding tall pink tapers and clusters of carnations and ivy. On the buffet a white milk glass compote held white stock, pink carnations and fern, flanked by tall pink tapers in silver candlesticks.

Miss Carolyn Wills and Miss Glenda Jordan presided at the crystal punch bowl and serving were Mrs. Larry Kulcke and Miss Lois Saucier. Floating hosts during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salley, Mr. and Mrs. Truitt Salley, all of Shreveport and Mr. and Mrs. Van Salley of Bernice.

Attendants for their wedding have also been chosen by the betrothed couple. Miss Roslyn Walker of Columbia will serve as maid of honor for Miss Salley and bridesmaids will be Mrs. Brakefield, Miss Wills and Mrs. Kulcke. Mr. Turpin will attend his son as best man and chosen as groomsmen are Corbin J. Turpin Jr., cousin of the future bridegroom; Charles Fred Salley Jr., and Michael McCorcklin, Houston, Tex., also his cousin.

Miss Salley is the granddaughter of Mrs. Milton Hall, Bay City, Texas and the late Rev. Hall and of Mrs. Charles Thomas Salley of Bernice and the late Mr. Salley. A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, she attended Louisiana College, Pineville and is now attending Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. She is a member of Delta Omicron, International professional music fraternity; Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity; Student Teachers Association and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. She is also organist at St. John's Christian church.

Mr. Turpin is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McKelvey Sr., and Mrs. Allen T. Turpin Sr., and the late Mr. Turpin, all of Monroe. He was graduated from Neville high school, attended Baylor University in Waco, Texas and is presently a student at Northeast Louisiana State College where he is a member of Pi Sigma Epsilon, professional sales and marketing fraternity.

Kerstin Johansson Becomes Bride Of Edward Joseph Pohlman III

MRS. EDWARD JOSEPH POHLMAN III

Miss Kerstin Johansson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Johansson of Uppsala, Swedden, became the bride of Edward Joseph Pohlman III, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pohlman Jr., 2704 Plantation Drive, Monroe, on Saturday, May 2.

The Rev. Dave P. Dabria performed the double ring ceremoney at 2 p.m. in the Church of Jesus the Good Shepherd. Two golden urns on the main altar were filled with large fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli, stock and fern flanked by lighted white tapers in branched candelabra, entwined with white ribbons.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. R. H. Easterling, organist and Mrs. Waymon Etier, soloist.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over white taffeta, fashioned on classic lines with velvet ribbon encircling the waist of the basque bodice. A floating panel extended from below the back neckline to form a chapel length train. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell shoulder length from a queen's crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley, showered with satin streamers.

Miss Nancy Williams of Atlanta, Georgia, served as maid of honor and wore an Empire style floor - length gown of mint green satin styled with scooped neckline and floating back panel extending to the hemline. Her matching green net headdress was attached to a satin bow and she carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds with fern and ribbon streamers.

Dressed identically to the honor attendant were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Virginia Edmiston of Columbia and Mrs. Barbara Scalia of Monroe. They carried single pink roses with fern and ribbon streamers.

James Edmiston of Columbia, attended Mr. Pohlman as best man and groomsmen were Richard Ringham and Phillip Goldman, of Monroe. Serving as ushers were James Pohlman, brother of the bridegroom; Joseph Bruscato and J. C. Scalia.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pohlman entertained with a reception at their home, 2704 Plantation Drive. For the occasion of her son's wedding, Mrs. Pohlman wore a pink lace gown with pink satin flower at the waist, long white gloves and white hat, shoes and bag. Her corsage was of pink roses.

At the entrance was a large white standing straw basket holding an arrangement of green and gold foliage and magnolia leaves. Mrs. C. R. Tidwell Jr. presided at the bride's book at a table graced with an arrangement of pink roses. Spring flowers decorated the coffee table and the central decor for the buffet was a mass arrangement of pink roses and stock. The tiered wedding cake, embossed with pink roses and topped with a bride and groom, was served from the bride's table by Mrs. Allen Ritter while Mrs. C. B. McMahan Sr. presided at the punch bowl opposite.

Assisting with courtesies as floating hostesses were Mrs. Audie Burford and Mrs. A. F. Canizaro.

For a wedding trip to New York and a visit to the World's Fair, the bride changed into a white sheath with light blue linen coat, matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. From New York they will fly to Uppsala, Sweden to visit Mrs. Pohlman's parents before returning to Monroe to establish a home.

The bride is a graduate of the Junior college of Uppsala, Swedden and spent two years in this country as a governess. Mr. Pohlman was graduated from St. Matthews high school and received a B. S. degree in civil engineering from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston. He served as an officer of his fraternity, Epsilon Gamma Chapter of Kappa Sigma and as a member of the Student Senate and president of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Engineers Association.

Margaret Rose Griffing To Wed David G. Caddy

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Griffing, 203 Mitchell Lane, West Monroe, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Margaret Rose Griffing to David Gray Caddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Caddy, of Houston, Texas.

The wedding will be solemnized on June 5 at 7 p.m. in Memorial Presbyterian Church, West Monroe with Dr. Hugh Bradshaw performing the ceremony.

Miss Griffing has chosen Miss Willadean Brunet of New Orleans, to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Sylvia Manes, New Orleans and Mrs. Alan Cousans, West Monroe, and chosen as candlelighters are Miss Martha Norris and Miss Millie Hislop, both of West Monroe.

John Manes of New Orleans will attend Mr. Caddy as best man and named as groomsmen are Alan Cousans, West Monroe and Eddie Moore, New Orleans. Tommy Reighney of West Monroe, will serve as usher.

Providing music for the wedding will be Miss Beth Bradshaw as organist and Mrs. Donald Logan, soloist.

The bride-elect was graduated from West Monroe high school where she was a member of Delta Beta Sigma. Miss Griffing also graduated from Touro Infirmary School of Nursing, New Orleans, where she received her R. N. degree and is presently attending Louisiana State University in New Orleans.

Mr. Caddy graduated from Alcee Fortier high school in New Orleans and will graduate in May from Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge,where he will receive a B. S. degree in chemical engineering. He is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma fraternity.

Marjory Rabun Is Bride Of Edwin Earl Howard

A white satin prie dieu beneath an arbor of white wisteria and ferns formed a setting in Clarks Spring Baptist Church for the wedding of Miss Marjory Diane Rabun and Edwin Earl Howard. On either side of the arbor were arrangements of white gladioli and white tapers in branched candelabra.

Rev. Homer Spence, uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony on April 24 at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rabun of West Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Howard, also of West Monroe.

Traditional wedding music was provided by the organist, Mrs. Carl Brown and soloist, Mrs. Kenneth Lee.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short white dress, styled with scoop neckline and full organza overskirt attached with a bow of the dress fabric. A circlet headpiece held her short circular veil of illusion and completing her costume were short white gloves and white patent shoes. She wore pearl earings and necklace and carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Charlie Brinson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a pale blue sheath with white picture hat. Her bouquet was of small white chrysanthemums with blue accents. Candles were lighted by Miss Marcy Taylor, who wore an orchid organza frock and a white carnation corsage.

Mr. Howard attended his son as best man and usher was Rusty Rabun, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Rabun chose a two piece ensemble of pale pink linen knit with white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a dark crepe dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table, covered with a white cutwork cloth held a central arrangement of white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers. Mrs. Allen Young, sister of the bride, served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Lynn Garrett presided at the bowl of pink punch.

For a wedding trip to Vicksburg the bride wore a white sheath and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Winnsboro.

USL Coed Engaged To George Parish

Of interest to friends in Jonesville is announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Jimmie Lynn Brownson of Liberty, Texas to George D. Parish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Parish of Jonesville, made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brownson of Liberty.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, June 20 in the First Methodist Church, Liberty, Tex., at 7 p.m. Rev. Donald Deviller, assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church at Lafayette, will officiate.

Miss Brownson will receive a BA degree in May from the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and Sigma Tau Delta honorary fraternity.

Mr. Parish graduated from USL where he was listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is presently working towards a master of arts degree in Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C.

The engagement was revealed at an announcement tea held at the home of Mrs. Harry Lloyd McGuire of Liberty, Texas.

White Is Big Summer News For Stockings

This may well be the summer when women start wearing stockings again. First of all, there's Cantrece, and second there are so many fascinating styles.

Cantrece is the new nylon that takes the iron maiden feel out of nylon in the summer. It's soft and just - right stretchy, really feels like next to nothing on the leg.

In styles, white is the big news. Clothes will be featuring white, and the new way is to wear sheer, textured white stockings with white costumes. The texture is a faint diamond pattern or a fine mesh open enough to let a tan show through.

There are stockings with a separate big toe for wear with thong sandals, and white lace ones for evening. Frosted legs is the summer fashion look.

The couple will establish a home in New Orleans in the fall where Mr. Smeltzer will be employed by the Orleans School Board.

Leap Year Marriages On Upswing

However the beleaguered males feel about Leap Year, the Bridal and Bridesmaid Apparel Association is very happy about the way it is going thus far.

The ladies are gaining on the boys, from all indications. The rate of marriages in January, 1964 were 7 per cent over the same month last year, according to statistics released by the U. S. Health, Education and Welfare Department.

The ladies were already in the swing of things before the proposing season arrived, however. The rate of marriages had remained at a fairly steady 8.5 per 1000 population for four years. Then last year there was a 4.5 per cent gain in middle-aisling.

By the time Leap Year has come to a conclusion, the bridal - wear industry expects to have one of its busiest years in decades.

But the manufacturers of bridal finery do not believe that Leap Year can take all the credit. They are more inclined to the theory that the war babies have at least reached the age where they want to create homes of their own — a delightfully healthy age for business.

Monroe Business And Professional Women To Host State Convention

The 45th annual convention of the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs which will convene in Monroe May 15-17 with the Monroe club serving as hostess for the 33 clubs throughout the state which comprise the federation.

Miss Ruth Whatley, president of the Monroe club, predicts at least 250 delegates will attend the convention with headquarters at the Frances Hotel. Miss Eulah Cato of Gretna, state president, will preside during the three-day session, theme of which is "Responsibility of Full Partnership."

Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux is serving as convention chairman with Mrs. Helen Trichel as co-chairman.

National representative in attendance will be Miss Ruby Sills of Washington, D. C., executive director of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, headquartered in Washington D. C. and in charge of the administration for the 170,000 members throughout the country.

On Thursday evening, May 14, preceding the convention the Monroe club will be hostess to all state and district officers with a boat ride and buffet supper on Noe's Ark.

A workshop is planned for Friday afternoon and will be conducted by the state president, Miss Cato, the first vice-president, Mrs. Lillian Poole and Miss Sills.

Friday night's entertainment will be a costume party, "Redskins on Parade," to be held at the Paragon Club with authentic Indian decorations from Oklahoma to be used. Mrs. Nethel McDermott is chairman for this event with Miss Whatley presiding. Highlight of the occasion will be presentation of membership awards by Mrs. Jo Cart of Crowley, membership chairman. Louisiana is number one in the National Federation in equalizing membership and obtaining new members.

The convention officially opens Saturday, May 16 with the presentation of colors by the R. O. T. C. unit at Northeast Louisiana State College. The fifty-star flag belonging to Crosley School that has flown over the Nation's Capitol will be used. Invocation will be given by Dr. Clifton Tennison, pastor of the First Baptist Church, West Monroe. Delegates and guests attending will be welcomed by Mayor Jack Howard of Monroe; Councilwoman Mrs. Joyce Smith of West Monroe, Miss Whatley and Mrs. Trichel.

For the first time at a state convention each club will have on display a local club flag symbolic of the area of the state in which they are located. The Monroe club flag, designed and made by Mrs. Lorraine Keith, member, is maroon with yellow fringe and bears a large Ouachita Indian head on one corner, is lettered "Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club."

Following the morning business session a luncheon honoring the state president will be held on the Frances Hotel Roof. "A Yellow Rose of Texas" will be the theme carried out honoring Miss Cato, who migrated to Louisiana from Texas. Mrs. Lucille Crow is chairman for the fete with Mrs. Helen Trichel scheduled to preside. Achievement awards will be presented at the luncheon, which will be followed by election of officers during the afternoon session with voting machines to be used for the first time at a BPW state convention.

Highlight of the convention will be the installation banquet using the theme, "A Breath of Spring," with Mrs. Lucille Mathis, chairman of the committee in charge and Mrs. Burdeaux presiding. An address will be given by Mrs. Sills, national representative, who will also conduct the installation. Each officer, as she is installed, will be presented an arm bouquet, a gift of her local club.

The convention will close Sunday morning with a breakfast on the Virginia Hotel Roof. Theme of the event with Miss Maibel Hood as chairman, will be "Balance is a Symbol of Harmony." Mrs. Gladys Miles, a past state president, will preside and a memorial service will be conducted by Mrs. Georgine Holcombe, of Bogalusa.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs was founded in 1919. Established to promote the interests of business and professional women, it is now incorporated and has a membership of 170,000 women throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It is affiliated with the International Federation, whose membership extends to 30 countries.

National and International projects to which the Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club contributes are the Salley Butler International Scholarship Fund, the Judge Sarah T. Hughes World Friendship Fund ,the Chinese Nurses Fund for the purpose of housing and training nurses in China, the Helen G. Irwin Fund, an aid in the expansion of membership within the International Federation, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency Fund that is training young women in Palestine and the B&PW Foundation Fund for research purposes.

MISS PATRICIA AINSWORTH
KAPPA ALPHA ROSE

Kappa Alpha Rose Named At Annual Old South Ball

The traditional Old South Ball climaxed a series of special events for Kappa Alpha Order at Northeast Louisiana State College in celebration of annual Old South Week. The Paragon Club ballroom was scene of the colorful affair last Saturday from 8 p.m. to midnight during which Miss Patricia Ainsworth, sophomore student from Bastrop, was named Kappa Alpha Rose.

Jack Duggins, of Monroe, KA president, announced the selection of Miss Ainsworth as successor to the fraternity's rose, Miss Laney Ware, also of Bastrop, who reigned during the past school year. Miss Ainsworth was presented an arm bouquet of crimson roses tied with matching satin ribbon and pronounced the KA Rose of 1964-65.

For the occasion Miss Ainsworth was wearing a formal ball gown of white satin embellished with crystal floral appliques on the bodice and extending down the center panel of the skirt.

Her presentation was made against a background reminiscent of the ante bellum South, with Kappa Alpha officers in conferedate uniforms, actives dressed in uniforms of officers and pledges were in the gray of enlisted men. Beards were conspicuous as a custom of the fraternity Old South Week.

As soft music was played by The Monarchs, local band, president Duggins introduced fraternity members, pledges and their dates, who were given antique mugs bearing the KA crest and inscription "Old South 1964" on one side and names of the fraternity men and their dates on the other. The gift for Mrs. Lola Hutchinson, KA housemother, bore the added gold name, "Mom."

Couples danced in a setting which featured tall rose trees, a mammoth satin banner bearing the fraternity crest, and low white fence, entwined with greenery and flowers. Pink ribbons and red roses extended the length of the white damask covered tables, to carry out a spring note.

The refreshment table, centered with an arrangement of roses and iris, held a crystal bowl from which punch was served with assorted confections. White glistened magnolias overflowed from an epergne which adorned the table where the guest book was signed.

Special guests attending the affair included President and Mrs. George T. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris, (Mr. Harris being faculty advisor), Mrs. Lola Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Page, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Hayden III, Mr. and Mrs. Evans Ethridge, Maynard M. Dolecheck, Miss Carolyn Crawford, Allen Towery, Jerri Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Cash and Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl.

Patriotism Talk Given For Colonial Dames

The home of Mrs. W. S. Byargeon in Oak Grove was scene of a meeting of the Francis Billingsley Chapter Colonial Dames of the Seventeenth Century on Saturday, April 25 at 10 a.m. Mrs. William Byargeon was cohostess for the meeting which was followed by a buffet luncheon at noon.

Mrs. A. M. Robinson, president, had charge of the meeting. Mrs. Oscar Loventhal read the "Objects of the National Society," following which Mrs. W. S. Byargeon read a report on the Louisiana State Conference held in Baton Rouge in February and presented the two outstanding awards of merit won by the chapter for the largest number of pages of genealogical material and scholarship fund for nurses training. Mrs. C. C. Randall received the awards for the chapter at the state meeting.

A memorial service for the late Mrs. Julian S. Trezevant of Sterlington was conducted by the president with Mrs. R. S. Millikin acting as chaplain assisted by Mrs. W. H. Lamb.

J. L. McKenzie, member of the Oak Grove high school faculty was introduced as guest speaker for the afternoon and chose as his subject "Americanism and Patriotism," in keeping with the objectives of the Colonial Dames XVII Century society. He stressed five points of true patriotism as being faith, freedom, rights, obligations and responsibilities.

Luncheon was served by the hostesses to members, Mrs. A. M. Robinson, Mrs. S. E. Callier, Mrs. Oscar Loventhal and Mrs. W. H. Lamb, all of Bastrop, Mrs. D. W. Kelly, Mrs. R. S. Millikin and Mrs. T. N. Pulley Jr., Oak Grove and two guests, Mr. McKenzie and Miss Donna Gail Pulley of Oak Grove.

Farm Bureau Women Make Plans For Tea

Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr. was hostess to the Farm Bureau Women's Committee when it met Monday morning. During the business meeting plans were made for the state convention to be held in Baton Rouge on July 21, during the Farm Bureau State convention.

The Farm Bureau Women's Committee of Ouachita Parish is in charge of the tea and Mrs. Guy DePriest will handle arrangements.

A tea for local members of the Farm Bureau Women will be given on May 25 from 2 until 4 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Joe Dixon, 2205 Pargoud Blvd.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. Drew Anderson. Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Mrs. Guy DePriest, Mrs. Tripp Faulk, Mrs. T. W. Humphries, Mrs. F. J. Jones, Miss Donna Moore, Mrs. John Osterland, Mrs. A. C. Ransom, Mrs. Paul Ransom, Mrs. L. W. Seab, Mrs. James Standley, Mrs. Elton Upshaw and Mrs. Burg Waddill.

ENGAGEMENT OF Miss Lynda Kay Jones to James L. McElroy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. McElroy Sr., 404 Woodrow Street, West Monroe, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jones of El Dorado, Ark. The wedding is planned for June 5. Miss Jones will receive her degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute this spring. Mr. McElroy is a graduate of West Monroe high school and of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

My 9-Day Reducing Diet is as sure a sign that spring is here as the first robin or the first flower. Thousands of readers look foward to all three of them with equal enthusiasm each year, and many depend on 9-Day Diet to rescue them from embarrassment.

Summer, with its swim suits and play clothes and sheer clothes, can make a woman feel very self-conscious about a five or 10-pound gain. Time passes by so swiftly that we are likely to let the weeks slip by without seriously settling down to lose those extra pounds which can make such a difference in the way we feel and the way we look in our clothes.

This diet has been so popular, because by following it, you can lose from five to 10 pounds in just nine days. Also, women find it quite satisfying. When you have this small an amount to lose you like to get it over with and if you have more than 10 pounds to lose, 9-Day gives you an encouraging start.

As most of you know I publish the menus for each day on the preceding day.

You may be just nine days away from a truly lovely figure, from more pep and from more self-confidence. If so, follow the menus which will appear in your newspaper for the next nine days.

Here is an exercise which is better than the old - fashioned spring tonic. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend your knees half way and place your feet on the floor. Bend your elbows, head resting on the hands. Now pull your abdomen in and press the small of your back to the floor, as you push against your hands with your head. Hold for eight counts. Relax and repeat. This is an abdominal exercise that also straightens the spine.

Remember, tomorrow I'll start my 9-Day Diet with menus for Tuesday's meals. Watch for it!

If you would like to have my 9-Day Reducing Diet in a convenient little booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

Congratulations to Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, local group named the nation's outstanding chapter of Children of the American Revolution. Our delegates returned Monday evening from the national convention, held last weekend in Washington, D. C., bringing the award home for the second time in four years.

In addition to the big prize, Lt. Joseph Bowmar received five first place awards. These were the senior national treasurer's award for first payment of dues; greatest percentage gain in new members and gain in boys; most successful Patriotic Education Week; and best programs for the year on radio and television. Our society was awarded a second place for the annual report of the correct use of the flag committee. Lt. Joseph Bowmar was also the only society in Louisiana to receive a gold ribbon national merit award.

KATHY DOWLING of New Iberia, a member of Evangeline Society, won the national oratory contest, marking the first time this prize has come to Louisiana.

CAR members and guests from this area who attended the Washington meeting were JULIE AMMAN, SUSAN ALEXANDER, BETSY TAYLOR, DOUGLAS and MARTHA DAWKINS of Monroe; MILLICENT PARKS, DONNA GREEN, and FRED PARKS of Mer Rouge; DAVID and RICHARD BARHAM, DOTTY SUE McENERY of Oak Ridge; NANCY and SUSAN SHACKLEFORD of Jones. Their chaperones were IRENE ALEXANDER and MARTHA DAWKINS of Ft. Miro chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution; and CATHERINE BARHAM of Abram Morehouse chapter, DAR.

On Monday last, POTPOURRI BOOK CLUB celebrated the tenth anniversary of its founding by inviting the "mother group" (the Literary Guild) to its monthly meeting. The affair was held at the home of JOY MARSHALL, with ELEANOR BROWN as co-hostess. Magnolia branches, euonymus, and other greenery filled a coal shuttle which stood in the entrance at the Marshall home. On the living room mantel were magnificent yellow roses in a crystal and silver epergne.

An appliqued organdy cloth covercd the tea table in the dining room, where the centerpiece was a silver epergne filled with pink and rose-red roses. Goodies included open face mushroom and almond sandwiches, bell pepper sandwiches, lemon squares, and bite-size chocolate, lemon, butterscotch, and blueberry pies.

Continuing the year's study of biographies, ANNE BERNHARDT reviewed "Courtroom", story of Samuel Leibowitz. HELEN LEDBETTER read a report on "Mistress to An Age", biography of Madame de Stael. Twenty-six ladies, members of Potpourri or Literary Guild, attended the meeting. Special guest was VERA BROWN, former Guild member, who was visiting in Monroe from her home in New Orleans.

Another former Monroyan here for a visit this week was JEAN EASTMAN, now residing in Natchez. Jean and her son ROSS were guests in the PAUL TENNIS home from Monday evening until Wednesday. On Tuesday Carol invited a few good friends of Jean's for coffee and a chat.

From the coffee, the group went on to SOPHIA BLANKS' for luncheon. Jean, Carol, and six guests were seated at a table centered with white roses. The menu included a shrimp salad plate and chocolate ice box cake.

Grecian Bend plantation was scene of a luncheon party Monday when CLIO BRIGHT entertained honoring her visitor, ANNE PRIOR of Dallas. Guests were seated at four tables for four, each centered with a nosegay of honeysuckle. Jars of pepper relish tied with placecards were favors at each plate. Sixteen guests enjoyed a luncheon of beef loaf with hot olive sauce; squash with shrimp; tomato aspic; hot biscuits with pepper jelly; and assorted tarts.

THYRA HOLT and SANDY HOLT motored to Winnfield last Saturday to attend the announcement tea given for Thyra's daughter ELLEN RUSSELL at the home of SHIRLEY JACKSON. Ellen is to be married to JOHN SCOTT June 18 in Winnfield.

Thursday evening ELEANOR and BILLY BROWN honored out of town guests here for Law Day at a dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club. JUDGE ALBERT TATE of Ville Platte and SAM JONES of Lake Charles, here as Law Day speakers, were honored with their wives at the party. Other guests included members of the executive committee of the Fourth District Bar Association and members of the Law Day committee.

Dinner was served in the Garden Room at the club. A candelabra - epergne filled with daisies and white tapers decorated the table. The menu included boned Cornish hens, wild rice casserole, and fresh fruit salad.

One of the year's most fabulous meals is that served when a group of weight - watchers throw caution to the winds and live it up. Some twenty-five ladies, who meet each day to melt the too, too solid flesh with exercise, had such a party Wednesday at noon. Each brought her specialty in a covered dish, and what a meal it made!

The party was held at the home of LILLA MAE CARROLL on Redwine Drive in West Monroe. Arrangements of pink gladioli and white stock were used in the living room and dining room, with yellow flowers elsewhere: gladioli in the den, chrysanthemums in the solarium. As a going - away present for MABEL RATLIFF and HELEN CAMPBELL, who were leaving for New York Thursday, the group had prepared small flight bags filled with dark glasses, corn pads, baggage insurance policies, and other needs of the traveler.

Groaning indeed was this festive board, with more goodies than the most dedicated eater could get to in just one sitting. BETH McGOUGH brought her famous shrimp and asparagus casserole . . . JUANITA DAIGLE, cabbage stuffed with ground meats and spices . . . and VIRGINIA ELIAS, Lebanese kibby . . . Fried chicken was brought by HAZEL JOHNSON and CLYDINE WHITE . . . and JANE EARNEST contributed chicken puffs . . . Salads included EZELL GENTRY's congealed raspberry . . . Lilla Mae's potato salad . . . BETTY FERGUSON'S Cole slaw with sour cream dressing . . . and CHARLENE SIMONTON's hot fruit bake.

MARGARET FAULK made a big hit with her homemade bread, churned butter, and mayhaw jelly . . . and the desserts were enough to make strong men weak. There was cherry-topped cheese cake provided by host Pete Carroll . . . BITZA BROWN's freezer of fresh strawberry ice cream . . . CHARLOTTE KIRKPATRICK's chocolate torte with foamy sauce . . . NANCY WEAK's orange cake . . . and PAULA LANDRY's fudge cake.

This week we visited the new home of the WAYMON BROWNS at 2500 Indian Mound Boulevard, and first home to be completed on that street. Construction is of antique brick with white columns across the front. In the entrance hall, floored in beige quarry tile, a patterned paper of beige and white is used above beige wainscotting. A pair of Victorian chairs covered with rose velvet stand at each side of a marble top washstand. An interesting accessory here is a pair of brass candlesticks brought from Damascus by Dorothy.

Folding doors open into the living room at the right. Here and in the dining room beyond are beige walls, carpet, and draperies. Portraits of the Brown's daughters hang over the rose-brown sofa. Dining table and chairs are of fruitwood, French Provincial in style.

Red gum with natural finish is used for kitchen cabinets and for wainscotting in the family dining area. Oven and cooking units are built into the Formica-top counters, with roll-out shelves below. Paper in a provincial print in yellow and browns is used above the dining area wainscotting.

Red gum is seen again on three walls of the family room, where the fourth wall and fireplace are of antique brick. Book shelves and easy chairs contribute to the livability of this room. Here a braided rug in shades of brown is used on a hardwood floor.

In the guest bedroom, carpet and bedspreads are of blue, echoing the shade of the draperies: a Tole print of blue on white. Furniture is white and gold French provincial . . . A restful green shade is used for walls, carpet, draperies, and bedspreads in the master bedroom. Here are an antique comb back chair and bench. A barrier of closets extending the depth of the house separates the bedroom from the living wing.

From the family room, stairs lead up to the unfinished second story. Here are studs indicating the position of rooms to be completed by Waymon, whose hobby is woodworking. There is a completed bath, a proposed large storage room, two bedrooms, and a sewing area to be finished in one of the dormers. Truly a house to grow with and love!

As we have discussed so much luscious food today, let us remember this poem entitled "Cake, Love, and Dreams" by Philene Hamner:

I don't care much for carrot sticks
Or Celery to munch on;
I scorn the lettuce-grapefruit mix
That passes for a luncheon.
But anything with chocolate sauce on,
Whipped or sweet or sour cream on,
Sugar glaze or frosting gloss on,
B'earnaise or sauce supreme on,
Kirsch or brandywine ablaze on
Walnuts, almonds, or cashews on.
Olive oil or mayonnaise on,
Gravies that serenely ooze on,
A la mode or a la king on,
Jelly, jam, or marmalade on, anything with everything on —
Such is stuff as dreams are made on.
But I am stuck with carrot sticks
And greens (insipid twosome!)
For no one goes for chubby chicks.
And that's my life; it's gruesome.

MRS. JOHN D. COPES

AAUW Awards Grants For Higher Education

Sixty-four southern women, whose average age is 40.9 years, will return to college and university classrooms next fall to prepare for college-level teaching or administrative posts.

They will receive 1964-65 awards from the American Association of University Women to enable them to pursue graduate studies that will lead to master's and doctor's degrees in the humanities, natural, and social sciences, Dr. Blanche H. Dow of Nevada, Mo., president of the AAUW Educational Foundation, has announced.

Graduates of Northeast Louisiana State College will be eligible in the future for such awards as the organization has placed Northeast on the approved list of colleges and universities with respect to AAUW membership qualifications for graduates.

More than half the recipients of the organization's College Faculty Awards are currently homemakers, while just over one-fourth are full-time or substitute elementary and secondary teachers. All but three of the 1964-65 awardees are mothers — nine with five children and one with eight, and nearly half of them have three or more children.

The Foundation's College Faculty Program was designed to assist the mature college woman, long away from studies, to prepare for a professional career in higher education, Dr. Dow points out. It was inaugurated in the southern states in the spring of 1962 with an initial grant of $225,000 from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. A supplement of $42,000 was granted later.

"This program, as it enters its third year, has proven an innovation in the eleven states in which it operates," says Dr. Dow. "It has demonstrated that the college woman who is 35 years or older can successfully return to the university classroom to prepare for college teaching or administrative posts.

Since 1962-63, the College Faculty Program has awarded tuition grants and stipends to 125 women from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

A list of the 1964-65 Louisiana recipients is announced by Mrs. Lovell Hayden III, president of the Monroe Branch, AAUW. The group includes: Mrs. Perry H. Howard of New Orleans, formerly of Monroe, whose husband, Dr. Howard, taught at Northeast State; Mrs. Donald H. Kupfer of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Alfredo R. Lozada, also of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Virgil McNary of Lafayette; and Mrs. Louis Milliner of New Orleans.

Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Milliner will be candidates for the master's degree at Tulane University. Mrs. Kupfer will be a candidate for the master's at Louisiana State University, and Mrs. Lozada also will be at LSU, where she will work for the Ph.D. in German language and literature.

Mrs. McNary will work for the master's at the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Cadaver Look Among Teens Is Passe Fad

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Can you predict when the fad will pass? I hope I live long enough. I am sick and tired of seeing our 17-year-old daughter in her black tights, boots, string hair, no lipstick and gobs of eye make-up. There are times when she looks so ghastly I hope no one will recognize her as mine.

I've talked until I am blue in the face, trying to persuade her to look like a normal human being instead of a derelict, but I might as well talk to the wall. She used to be quite sensible. Now she follows the pack like a sheep, and a blind one at that.

Am I worrying needlessly? Do other mothers feel as I do? Please tell me what you think about this. — A CONCERNED MOTHER.

Dear Concerned: Chin up, mother — this too shall pass. In fact it may pass more quickly if you ignore it.

I am happy to report that the cadaver look is out and the wholesome look is in. When your daughter catches up with the latest she'll abandon the black leotards and shock movie eye make-up and rejoin the human race.

Dear Ann Landers: Do you believe if a person breaks a mirror he is in for seven years of bad luck?

I haven't been in good health these past few months. The doctor says he can't find anything wrong with me, but I still feel tired and edgy all the time. This superstition thing has thrown me into a real tailspin.

After lunch yesterday, I was powdering my nose. The compact fell out of my hands and the mirror broke into pieces.

The woman next to me said, "Well, that's seven years of bad luck for sure. I've never seen it to fail." She then went on to recite the terrible things that have happened to people she knew who had broken mirrors.

Please, Ann, tell me what you know about this. — WEAK PERHAPS

Dear Perhaps: The only bad luck that comes from breaking a mirror is the problem of replacing it. If you want to wait seven years before you buy a new compact that's up to you.

I can think of no way to guarantee you seven years of good luck, but I CAN suggest something which might improve your mental health for the next seven years. Dump that lunkhead friend who went out of her way to "cheer you up."

Dear Ann Landers: Hank and I have been married eight years. We have five children, lots of bills and plenty of monthly payments to make.

My folks are not wealthy, but they have helped us out when things got to the repossession stage. I have always paid them back.

This morning when I was cleaning out the closet I found ten $20 bills stuck way down in one of Hank's work shoes. The minute he came home I asked him where the money came from. At first he said he didn't know and then he changed his story. He said he was saving up to buy me a fur coat.

At one time Hank played the horses, but I don't think he goes near the track any more. I'm worried sick about the unexplained money. What does this sound like to you? — GRAY HAIR

Dear Gray: It sounds as if Hank has had another attack of bang-tail fever. Tell him that now is his chance to quit when he is ahead — and I am keeping my fingers crossed for you that he will listen.

Confidential to A REAL FRIEND: Stop being so "friendly" or you will wind up paying her bills again, Dummy.

Landscape Beauty Peak

By AUDREY M. DAWSON

During May the landscape can be at its height of beauty and usefulness. Day and night temperatures are usually excellent for comfort, so make use of the outdoor spaces as patios for family enjoyment while weather conditions permit. If you, Mrs. Gardener, need to add some plants for color, look over the following and if you decide to use some of them, buy your plants from your nursery and get them planted real soon: Hibiscus, coleus, salvia, ornamental pepper, zinnia, marigold, geranium periwinkle and plumbago

Ornamentals other than perennials and annuals that give color and enrichment in the summer are: hydrangea, althea, lantana, crape myrtle and bottle brush.

Dust gladiolus weekly for thrip — use five per cent DDT, it will give effective control. Spray or dust roses weekly to control pests. If you do not have your roses mulched, cultivate often to control weeds and grasses to prevent the soil from becoming too compact. Shallow cultivation is recommended.

Do not allow thatch to build up in lawns. Remove clippings periodically to prevent build up of thatch. Have a regular schedule for mowing. Apply fertilizer at monthly or six week intervals during the summer.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

Cooperative Extension Service completes 50 years of service to rural and urban families on Friday, May 8th. Since 1914 Home Demonstration Agents have brought the latest important facts in every phase of homemaking to all interested homemakers.

INTERESTING NOTE

A report from the president's council on aging shows that nearly 18 million people in the United States are 65 years of age or older. That nearly 1½ million live on farms, almost 2 million work full time, over 2.3 million are war veterans; over 12½ million get social security benefits; more than 3 million came originally from Europe, and more than 10,000 people are over 100 years old.

A THOUGHT

The full use of today is the best preparation for tomorrow.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Design Rug Of Flowers

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Hot, dry areas on terraces, in patios, or in gardens need not be left bare in summer. There are numerous flowering plants and several ground covers which like these conditions. Now that Victorian beds of low plants and flowers are again in style, you can design an out-door rug for your terrace floor.

It is a shame that santolina does not stand up well in our climate for it is such a beautiful grey foliage plant. Old fashioned lavendar does not last long here either, so we are denied the use of these two grey edging or bedding plants that are the mainstays of European formal summer beds. However, the annual dusty miller (centaurea gymnocarpa) is easy to raise from seeds and is one of the most beautiful of all grey foliage plants. It will take an awful beating in the sun.

FIRE-EATER

Perhaps the toughest fire-eater is portulacca. If you have never raised this in separate colors, you are in for a surprise. The colors are pure and the flowers surprisingly large. For the very worst hot spots, portulacca is your plant. Designs can be made in the different colors, and portulacca will survive in rather poor soil. Furthermore, it comes quickly from seed and will be in flower before you know it.

For beds of taller flowers in hot places, nothing is more suitable than the many, many wonderful petunias. Unless you wish to deliberately make yourself feel hotter than you really are, avoid the reds and scarlets that are so blatantly advertised. Stick to the whites, blues, violets and light shades.

PROTECTIVE

The sticky substance and the hairs on the leaves of petunias and their close of kin, the nicotianas make them able to take the blazing sun. The long-tubed flowers of nicotiana make them very useful to plant in groups amongst petunias, and the white nicotiana gives off a wonderful spicy scent at night.

All of the plants we have mentioned can be planted from seeds at any time and will come into blooming in a really short time, now that hot weather is again visiting us.

Use Cuttings In Camellia Propagation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on the various phases of growing and showing of camellias in the Monroe area. Various articles discuss the different problems and aspects of camellia propagation.)

The camellia grower who produces his own plants by means of cuttings not only derives more pleasure from his garden than the one who brings his plants in from the outside, but is constantly seeking new ways of improving his methods of propagation.

Now that the time of the year for making cuttings is upon us, many persons are asking about different methods of rooting. One which can be easily made is in some respects a miniature greenhouse, but unlike a greenhouse, it can be assembled in a very short time and at small costs by anyone who can use a hammer and saw.

MATERIALS

The materials required are a box 12 inches long, 16 inches wide, and six inches deep, with holes bored in the bottom for drainage; two coat hangers; a piece of light plastic 36 inches wide and 42 inches long; and a supply of planting soil, made up of three parts clean builders sand and one part peat moss, sufficient to fill the box.

The cutting box is filled with the prepared soil to within an inch or two of the top. The soil should be moist and well packed. The wire coat hangers that are to serve as supports for the cover may be stapled in place at this time. They are stapled to the ends of the box. (It may be more convenient to wait until after the cuttings have been set in the box to attach the wire hangers.)

Tip cuttings from the current year's growth, about three or three and one-half inches long, and with two or three leaf buds, are most desirable. However, if the growth is long, the lower part of the cutting with only one leaf bud may be used. The cuttings should be removed from the plant on a slant with a very sharp knife and all of the leaves cut off except the two at the top. The ends of the cuttings may be dipped in a rooting medium, such as Harmone 3. The cuttings should be placed in the moist soil in four rows of nine each. The soil should be well packed around the cuttings and watered.

The box and cuttings should be moved to a semi-shaded position and covered with the plastic cover. (Less physical effort would be required by placing the box in semi-shade before it is filled with the soil.) The plastic cover is then put into position so that it will completely cover the box. This cover should not be tightly secured to the box, but left loose enough so that it may be moved to permit examination and, when necessary, watering of the cuttings.

The purpose of the plastic cover is to prevent evaporation of mositure from the box, thereby maintaining a humid condition so necessary for the growth of the cuttings. Only enough water to keep the soil damp should be added.

The cuttings should root in eight to 10 weeks, when they can be transplanted in a well-drained, shady place. They may be set about a foot apart in ordinary soil that has been enriched by the addition of leaf mold or compost, and water regularly.

FLOWER ARRANGEMENTS shown by Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Monroe at the Garden Center last week are displayed here. From left, they are (1) Design of green dock and Flora Dora roses, prepared by Mrs. Joe Adams. (2) Madonna fgurine with calla lilies, prepared by Mrs. W. M. Rasberry. (3) Massed design, made by Mrs. Reagan Wilson, using an array of spring flowers in an ornate container (three cherubs holding bowl) made by Mrs. A. M. Joiner, the club's ceramics teacher. (4) Red roses in a cherub container, prepared by Mrs. Reagan Wilson. (5) Blooms of pomegranates in ceramic shoe, made by Mrs. Vernon Whitlock. (6) Peace roses arranged in oriental manner in a footed oriental container by Mrs. B. L. Talton. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Sprig, Twig On Program

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Monroe, a club high in quality, provided an excellent program for the Fifth District Garden Center and T. V. last Wednesday. The club's hobby (ceramics) was displayed along with the lovely array of flower designs.

Each design was prepared in one of the containers made by the members of the club. The club's teacher, Mrs. A. M. Joiner, of West Monroe, has been so much help with this club. In fact, they claim that she has taught them all they know about ceramics. The six club members all helped with the program, sending six lovely designs. These are featured in today's paper—just in case you didn't get by the Center in Sears to see them.

ORIENTAL MANNER

"In the Oriental Manner," a design featuring three Peace roses with the foliage forming the "Heaven," "Man," "Earth," levels in a black ceramic bowl on a footed base, made by Mrs. B. L. Talton. The container was made by Mrs. W. M. Rasberry.

"Line of Beauty," Hogarth curve made of red American Beauty roses with the foliage for filler in a cupid container of soft white ceramic, so ideal for roses, the flower that interprets "love" — made by Mrs. Reagan Wilson. The container was made by Mrs. R. L. Coates Jr.

Mrs. Reagan Wilson created a massed (Period Style) design featuring an array of Spring flowers — Louisiana Iris, larkspur, roses, and peonies in a very ornate tri-cupid container, made by Mrs. Joiner. The peonies were grown by L. G. Hunt of Monroe.

Mrs. W. M. Rasberry created "Peaceful Beauty," using a lovely ceramic Madonna complemented with calla lilies with their foliage forming a slight modified Hogarth line in a needle point (cup) holder that had been wrapped with white adhesive tape. The base for the design was an inverted snack plate (white) made by Mrs. Rasberry. Mrs. Coates grew the calla lilies in her garden.

TRIANGULAR DESIGN

Mrs. Joe Adams made a triangular design using the lovely fresh green roadside dock for the overall line in a lovely irregular shaped ceramic contained (soft green in color). This line was filled in with "Flora Dora" roses which are a bright orange - red color. A striking contrast of colors that would add a bit of cheer in most any room in the home. The container was made by Mrs. Vernon Whitlock.

Mrs. Vernon Whitlock used the blossoms and branches of the pomergranite for her line material for the diagonal line in a ceramic (old fashioned) high top shoe. This shoe container was made from a real authentic shoe which was used as a pattern for the ceramic. It was painted a dark, rich brown. A base of the same color was made for it. The color combination — orange with brown, was quite pleasing. It is a lovely design for a conversational piece in the den or family room.

The horticulture for the show included a tall blooming stalk of yucca sent by Mrs. Henry Mayo. This is an usual bloom which will hold up for a long time out of water. Mrs. W. M. Rasberry made a lovely corsage using one of the blossoms which resembles a large clematis blossom and presented it to me to be worn during the T. V. program. It was still fresh and lovely as I wrote this article.

Mrs. J. D. Rhodes sent two of her seedling amaryllis (potted) specimens not yet named. They are just lovely. She invites the public to see her many lovely varieties at 908 South 2nd St., Monroe.

Thanks, Sprig and Twig gardeners — all six of you, for this wonderful program. Hope you double your membership with the same amount of quality in each of the new members that now exists in the members today.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

A few weeks ago we discussed the pros and cons of using the words "asking price" when putting a house on the market. We pointed out that more and more real estate brokers were against use of the term and wondered what our readers thought about it.

We were hardly prepared for the avalanche of mail that descended upon us. Nor were we prophetic enough to anticipate that 98 per cent of those writing in would be opposed — in many cases, bitterly opposed—to the asking price method of starting negotiations. One per cent saw no harm in the practice and thought it didn't make any difference what words were used in quoting a price. The remaining one per cent felt that an asking price established a base for bargaining and were in favor of its use. One of the latter, Paul R. Heydt, said in part:

'ADDED INCENTIVE'

"The added incentive that he may be able to wangle a very good deal will ofttimes bring a buyer into a bargaining session. Personally, I'm a sucker for that little phrase. I always vision a terrific bargain in the offing."

From Mrs. C. W. Young came the comment that she doesn't like bargaining over prices, "be it a steak or a home." Fred Signoracci said an asking price label immediately puts him "on guard for a hidden gimmick." William Mann thought we "should do away with horse trading in this country, once and for all."

Frank H. Jones said he would not reply to any advertisement "for real estate or any other type of merchandise that quotes an asking price." He also struck out at real estate brokers who take a prospect to a house and quote a price, but who make it plain the seller will take less. Jones called this "weak and miserable selling."

Everett M. Roberson Jr. posed this question: "I often wonder if a person should come up to a seller and offer to pay the asking price, if he would be informed he is really paying more than what was actually expected?"

TERMED 'EVIL'

R. O. Witte called the asking price system "an evil" and added "like most other business practices, I suppose that the public as a whole prefers it that way."

Two of the letter writers injected a touch of humor into their replies. Mrs. L. Gold, after saying she didn't mind seeing an asking price in an ad if she were the prospective buyer, added: "However, when I advertise something, I do not like to use an asking price because, although I like to bargain with other people, I can't stand it when other people presume to bargain with me." Charles E. Smith favored the seller giving the exact and proper price, but said a real estate broker told him most buyers "wish to get a good deal by reducing the asking price." Smith concluded:

"But it all seems to work out the same. The seller meets a lot of people, the brokers get to talk plenty, the buyers feel happy with a bargain, and I waste my time watching TV and reading your column."

Safety Hints For Handling Power Tools

Power tools for the home workshop area a real boon to the handyman — but they can also be very dangerous if they are not handled with care.

Here are some tips to help in getting the most value from power tools, while playing it safe:

Before Beginning Work—

Make sure that stationary tools are mounted securely on firm bases.

Mark all switches so that power can be switched on and off quickly.

Keep belts on motors short as possible, out of the way or covered with a guard.

WEATHER-RESISTANT INSECTICIDE:
New Bidrin® Insecticide penetrates cotton leaves, kills insects from inside out.
Control lasts 7 days—rain or shine.

BIDRIN is a powerful new kind of cotton insecticide. It gives an honest week's control of thrips, aphids, spider mites and fleahoppers. Resistant strains of fleahoppers are also controlled. Bidrin not only kills insects on contact—like ordinary insecticides—but also in a completely new way.

Is absorbed by leaves
Soon after spraying, most of the Bidrin you apply is absorbed into your cotton's foliage. Inside the leaves, where it is protected from rain and sun, Bidrin keeps on controlling insects for a full seven days.

Result: Bidrin Insecticide gives you long residual control of the insects that stunt young cotton plants and delay fruiting—and protects itself against weather at the same time.

NOTE: Bidrin also controls boll weevil at time of spraying. It is compatible with most other insecticides.

Bidrin enters foliage, makes it deadly to thrips, aphids, mites, fleahoppers, lygus bugs. The lygus bug above pierces underside of leaf, will die even though Bidrin spray hit only on top.

VARIATION

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore Mann, a veteran off-Broadway producer, has come up with a new variation in late-hour entertainment called Twelve O'Clock Theater.

The purpose is to give established performers an opportunity to display talent in change-of-pace solo revues. Lined up for a series of midnight appearances at the Embers Club are Tessie O'Shea, English music-hall singer recently featured in "The Girl Who Came to Supper"; Jason Robards Jr., of the Lincoln Center repertory company; Bernice Massi, Lee Grant and Elizabeth Seal.

GOING STRONG

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's controversial drama "The Deputy" has turned out to be one of the season's strongest box office bets.

The play has been playing to capacity since it opened at the Atkinson Theater, and has put tickets on sale through Dec. 31.

THEN. Cute as a button, little Linda Cousin at 9 months has a bright mischievous appeal.

STAMPS

Baseball may be the national pastime in the United States, but rugby is the number one sport in South Africa. To show its fervent feeling for this athletic event which is a combination of American football and European soccer, the Republic of South Africa has issued two new stamps commemorating the 75th anniversary of the South African Rugby Board.

The 2½ cent stamp depicts the official badge of the Rugby Board — a native animal (the springbok) with a rugby ball at its feet. The 12½ cent stamp features an action shot of a rubgy player diving over the goal line with the ball in his outstretched hands. The dates 1889-1964 appear at the side of the illustration.

The United Nations Postal Administration has announced that three million people in over 100 centers throughout the world have viewed the UNPA traveling exhibits. Among the countries in exhibits were displayed last year (in addition to the U. S. and Canada) were the United Kingdom, Denmark, France, Congo, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Turkey and New England. An even larger scheduling of exhibits will take place this year. The first of these, a Human Rights Exhibit, was displayed in Rabat, Morocco.

Also announced by the UN Postal Administration was the news that a "Narcotics Control" stamp set will be issued on Sept. 21. The values will be 5 cents and 11 cents.

Costa Rica has issued a new airmail set of 16 values featuring pre-Columbian Indian art. The subjects depicted on the stamps are taken from archeological finds from recent excavations. The designs show the following: clay mountain lion, ceremonial stool, carved male figure, painted pottery cup, kneeling diety, simian statue, bell with eagle motif, multi-limbed god and kneeling statue. Some of these works of art appear on more than one value.

The Ministry of Posts in France reports that two stamps will be issued honoring "Postage Stamp Day" in that country. The stamps will illustrate a postman on a horse from the 18th century era. The stamp design was taken from a drawing which appears in the French Postal Museum.

Just issued by France are two new stamps marking the 20th anniversary of Liberation after World War II. One stamp shows a prisoner grasping at a barbed wire fence. The other stamp depicts a statue symbolizing resistance.

Argentina has issued three new stamps to commemorate the 60th anniversary of its taking possession of the South Arkney Islands and Argentine sovereignty in the Antarctic Zone.

MARIONETTE THEATER

NEW YORK (AP) — A permanent theater designed especially for marionette shows is being established here by Bill and Cora Baird.

NOW. AT AGE 21, beautiful Linda Cousin of Newfoundland, N. J., gets photographer Ed Adams' nomination as "The American Face" . . . even when eating pizza pie.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

An enterprising Associated Press staff photographer, Edward T. Adams, came into our office one day recently, waving a sheaf of 11x14 prints. "I've found it!" he enthused. "I've found it!"

"What?" I asked. "A new fine-grain super-duper developer? An all-purpose camera? A high-speed film which isn't grainy on extreme blow-ups? The perfect focus - and - exposure - setting for ALL picture situations?"

THE AMERICAN FACE

"The American Face!" he replied. "A beautiful, typical American face. She lives in New Jersey, works in New York, photographs beautifully in everything she does . . . . and she gets my nomination."

That's how I learned that there's been an intensive national search on the part of the National Press Photographers Association (NPPA) to find and crown the most beautiful, typically American face in these United States. This is a revolutionary search for it departs from a 17-year tradition of crowning a glamour queen based mainly on the photogenic appeal of her alluring figure.

Now if you had to picture a beautiful but typical "American Face" what would you look for? A college girl? A stenographer? A model? An actress? Do you visualize a blonde . . . a brunette . . . . or a redhead? Would she have an air of sophistication? Or do you see a "wholesome" look as more appropriate for the title?

SIMILAR QUESTIONS

These and other similar questions have been the focus of attention of many of the country's press photographers for many months . . . . and of their cameras as well. And the answer may come, as it did to Ed Adams, on a routine assignment. The important thing is to recognize when the subject matter before your camera has significance.

Adams was photographing the work-a-day world and home life of a typical American secretary for a chain of Japanese newspapers when he became aware of the clean-cut quality, the poise and wholesome personality of his subject. She put on no airs, there was no affection or artificiality as she went about her duties and her home chores with the camera clicking away.

'JUST NATURAL'

"She was just natural!" Adams summed up. "All I had to do was stand by, find the right camera angles and shoot at meaningful moments."

There will be 30 to 40 nominations for "The American Face," each sponsored by a local city or state press photographers' group The national winner will be chosen at the NPPA convention in Las Vegas on June 25th.

Ed Adam's personal nomination may not wind up as the chosen beauty queen but it's her type of NOT posing and his type of significant shooting that can produce winning pictures for amateur photographers. Keep it in mind when you're recording the activities of your youngsters or loved ones.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: About ten years ago I saw a finished basement room built by the home owner. I recall being told that no cut nails or other fasteners were used to attach the furring strips to the concrete walls. I no longer live in the same city where I saw that room, but now I'd like to construct a finished room in our basement, which has a poured concrete foundation. Can you tell me how that previous job might have been done?

ANSWER: It is quite likely that the furring strips were attached with what are called anchor nails. These are small squares of perforated metal. A nail is welded to the center of each square. A special adhesive, bought with the anchor nails is spread on the back of each square. The metal is then pressed against the wall, using a slight twisting motion. This twisting motion pushes some of the adhesive through the perforations, insuring a strong bond. These squares are placed on the concrete wall where you want a furring strip to be. After the adhesive has thoroughly set a furring strip is held against the protruding nails and tapped lightly with a hammer. The resulting small indentations are used as centers for holes to be drilled through the furring strip. The strip is then placed over the anchor nails, which are clinched in place. It isn't as much work as it seems, especially in contrast to the tough job of anchoring furring strips to poured concrete by means of drilling holes in the wall.

AMUSEMENTS

CURTAIN CALL

Most members are more interested in attending plays than in the internal operations of Little Theatre, but tomorrow night at 7:30 at Strauss Playhouse they are urged to come to the annual meeting to transact the necessary business of electing directors and trustees.

Little Theatre is governed by a board of 15 directors, five of whom are replaced every year and may not succeed themselves. Now that we own such a costly plant and produce shows throughout the year, the directors carry a heavy burden. In addition to monthly board meetings, most directors have committee assignments.

About June 1 the new board elects its officers consisting of president, vice presidents for administration, production and membership, secretary and treasurer, who may not succeed to the same office. Officers serve for one year, directors for three.

ELECTION

At the annual meeting, members also elect 10 trustees for three year terms who take their place on the 30-man board of trustees. Trustees consist of members who have shown enough interest in Little Theatre to be called upon for advice and help when needed.

Members who attend the annual meeting tomorrow night will also hear reports from the officers and be given an opportunity to voice criticisms and suggestions to improve Little Theatre.

Our retiring directors represent many years of service to Little Theatre. Julius Cahn, for example, is completing his fourth term as director. Since 1948 he has been president twice and treasurer four times, in addition to many other duties in every year.

Another past president is Myrtle Carter who has also been membership vice president and secretary. Since she first became a director in 1953, Little Theatre has benefited from her loyalty and devotion in many activities, particularly membership and hospitality.

RETIRING DIRECTOR

Retiring director Mary Ellison became interested in Little Theatre along with her husband, Ed Ellison, who served as president in the 1952-53 season and who has become Mr. Box Office himself. Mary has cheerfully assume many of the onerous, but essential tasks concerned with the tremendous growth of membership in recent years.

Russ Kettenring brought his interest in Little Theatre from Peoria to Monroe when Commercial Solvents transferred him here. Twice vice president and currently treasurer, Russ is one who gives his best to Little Theatre on or off the board. Velma Kettenring has handled reservations for us since our Selman Field days.

J. R. "Bud" Henry was a moving spirit in the Strauss Playhouse project as a member of the building and finance committee. In his first year as director, he was vice president for administration and treasurer. Bud acted in "Detective Story" and "Damn Yankees."

NOT EASY

It will not be easy to fill the shoes of these five on our board and we know the nominating committee has chosen carefully in the names it will present to the membership tomorrow.

Technical director Lonny Fraze, Pat and Denise, have just moved to 1701 North 4th Street. Their telephone number stays the same.

A welcome visitor to "Breath Of Spring," was Mrs. Roy Swift, the former Beryl Madison, who acted in Little Theatre's first production and served four years as a director and one as vice president. She is, of course, the sister of Mrs. Lessie Garrett who so often lends a helping hand with the hospitality functions.

Betty Bandy has the lead role of Nellie Forbush in "South Pacific," in a production that has just finished its run in Dallas. Betty is remembered here for leads in "Pajama Game," "Guys And Dolls," "Bye Bye Birdie," "Damn Yankees," and "Annie Get Your Gun."

While Lee Edwards, executive director of the Baton Rouge Little Theatre, was here for a bridge tournament, he had his first chance to inspect Strauss Playhouse and spent the rest of his visit singing its praises.

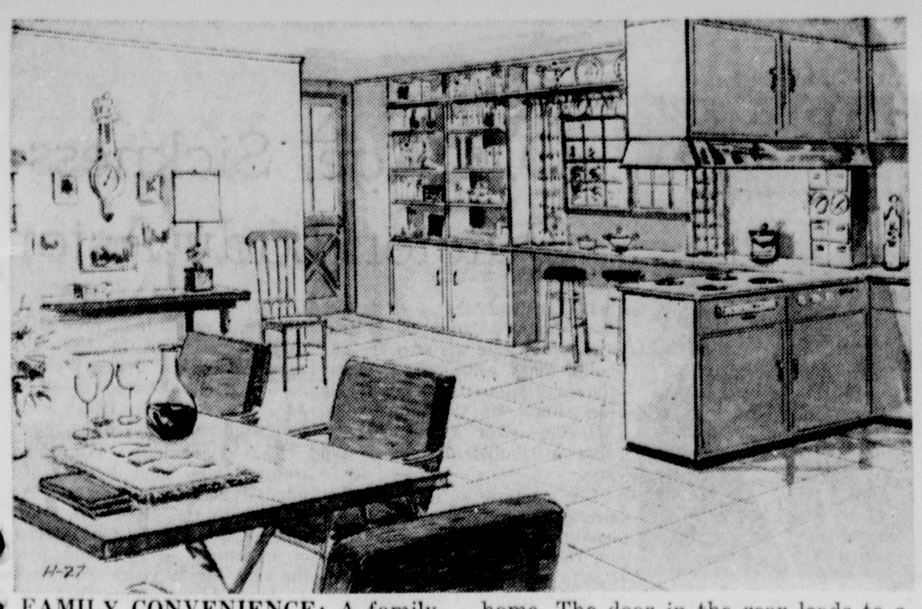
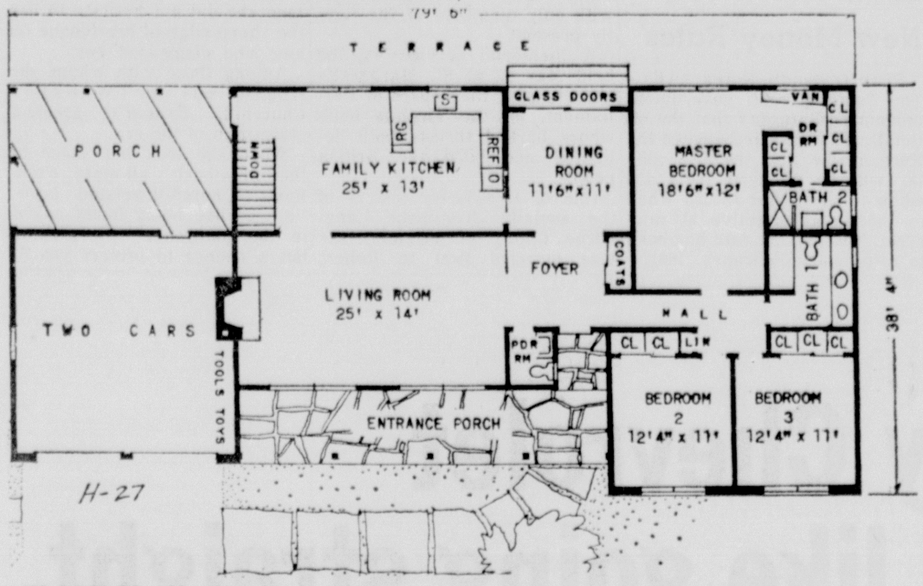
HOUSE OF THE WEEK

This Comfortable Home Satisfies Space Problem



FAMILY CONVENIENCE: A family-kitchen 25' by 13' over-all, provides informal comfort in this medium size home. The door in the rear leads to a covered porch.



FLOOR PLAN: The basic living area is 1,848 square feet. Good planning keeps hall space to a minimum yet provides easy movement from one part of the house to another. Note also the copious closet space.

Undoubtedly there are many romantic and uplifting reasons families give for deciding to move to a new home, but surely in most cases at the root of the decision is a simple demand for more space.

Architect Lester Cohen recognized the fact that civilized man just isn't comfortable in cramped quarters when he designed today's House of the Week.

It is not a large house honeycombed with rooms for a batallion-size family. Basically it is a three-bedroom house with 2½ baths, living room, dining room and large family-kitchen. But it is expanded just enough beyond the "efficiency" class to give the elbow room necessary for gracious living. Architect Cohen explains its design concept this way:

"Well proportioned rooms don't require 'multi-use' handling. Avoiding this sort of compromise is what the term gracious living actually means."

The house contains a living area of 1,848 square feet in overall dimensions of 79'6" wide by 38,4" deep. Thus it still is well below the "large" category which begins generally at 2,000 square feet.

An inviting front portico with arched columns defines the traditional exterior which features a pleasing bland of native stone and vertical board siding. Multi-paned windows accent the home's colonial flavor, and a broad planter adds interest at the protruding gable.

The house is equally exciting in the rear.

A large covered porch, which could be screened if desired, is at one corner directly behind the garage. At the center of the house is a recessed entry to the dining room. Sliding glass doors lead to the rear terrace, down two steps from the floor level.

The front portico, 31' wide and 6' deep, provides a gracious covered entry as well as a delightful place to relax and watch the passing neighborhood scene.

A vestibule leads to the spacious reception foyer with its generous coat closet and adjoining powder room, as especially nice feature which is convenient to the living area and not far removed from the bedroom wing, so that it can be pressed into family service if necessary.

A handsome, strong fireplace is the focal point of the 25' by 14' living room. Two broad banks of windows overlook the portico, and there is plenty of wall space for imaginative furniture arrangement.

The informal family-kitchen is planned ideally for a medium size family. The kitchen work area is nicely contained in an efficient U-shape plan which offers a maximum of counter space in a minimum area, and assures a work zone free from annoying traffic. A window over the sink provides excellent supervision of the outdoor play area.

The covered porch actually is an extension of the family room, offering 228 square feet of protected recreation space. There also is a door from the garage to the porch, providing sheltered access to the kitchen when you drive it in bad weather.

All three bedrooms are well sized and have copious closet space. The master bedroom is an especially elegant suite. It has a dressing room with built-ins, an adjoining full bath with stall shower, and no less than five closets.

The family bathroom (which is back-to-back with the master bath for plumbing economy) has a double vanity and recessed tub, and is just a stepaway from both family bedrooms.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plans H-25 and H-26.

TRADITIONAL and comfortable: This fine three-bedroom ranch features nicely proportioned rooms and the amount of living space sought by medium size families tired of living in cramped quarters. The architect is Lester Cohen.

Scouts In Action

The Adventure-Rama to be held May 9 at the Ouachita Valley Fair grounds is the focal point of all Scouting activity in the Ouachita Valley Council.

Eighty-five units have already reserved booths and Jack Pankey, scouting executive, urges all other cubmasters and scoutmasters to reserve booths so all may be accommodated. Exhibit booths will be erected and ready for units by 6 p.m. on Friday, May 8.

Winners of the Central District Pinewood Derby were Andy Childress, first place from Pack 67 Sterlington and Russell Ray, Monroe Pack 29. Other participants in the race were Kerry Fike, Pack 132; Joe Worley and Dennis Phelps, 31; Charles Salisbury and Buddy Moore, 232; Charles Danny Page and Jim Bradford, 133; Johnny Buck and Steve Hazel, 174; Jimmy Hembree and Perry Whitlock, 37; Bob Powers and Jerry Luffey, 30; Charles Harris, 29; and Johnny Carpenter, 67.

A Pinewood Derby was held by Pack 31 for their last pack meeting. Winners were Joe Worley and Dennis Phelps. Achievement awards were given to Jack Hunnicutt, Wolf badge and gold and silver arrow; Buddy Lindsay, Wolf badge, gold and silver arrow; Wes Bolton, Wolf badge; Mike Johnson, Wolf badge; Marvin Johnston, Wolf badge, gold and silver arrow; John Jones, gold arrow on Bear; Timmy Elliott, Bear badge and gold arrow; Patrick Gallagher, silver arrow on Wolf; Joe Worley, Lion badge and Jack Reynolds, Bear badge.

The opening flag ceremony was led by Den Chief Johnny Massey and Cubs of Den 3. Auburey Phillips, Cubmaster, urged all parents to help the boys in ticket sales for the Adventure-Rama and also in preparing the pack's exhibit booth.

Pack 37, sponsored by McGuire Methodist Church, West Monroe, held its pack meeting April 17, at which time the Pinewood Derby was run. An impressive candlelight ceremony by cubs of Den 1 opening the meeting. Attendance award was won by Den 3. Winners in the derby were Jimmy Hembree and Perry Whitlock both of Den 1. Boys receiving achievement awards were Mark Parrish, gold arrow on Bear; Mike Alexander, silver arrow on Bear; and Jimmy Goldson, silver arrow on Bear.

The Ceremonial Indian Dance Team of Order of the Arrow, Comanche Lodge, were guests on a local television show Friday.

Booth sponsors for the Adventure-Rama are urged by Pankey to send their confirmations to the scout office immediately so the sponsoring signs can be made for them.

DURING PAST MONTH

Building Permits Exceed $550,000

Building permits issued during April went over the $550,000 mark in Monroe, according to Dale Martha, co-ordinator of the city inspection department.

He said permits issued during April totaled $553,011 which was a $26,053 gain over the totals in any previous month of this year. He said 15 were issued for construction of new, one-family dwellings while one each was issued for construction of a service station, a car wash and an electrical fixture outlet. Forty-four permits were written for additions or alterations of residences. Moving permits issued or alternations of non-residences. Moving permits issued in April came to 39 and nine were written for demolishment of buildings.

During the past week, permits issued came to $25,550 representing two for new structures and 10 for additions or alterations to existing structures. Four demolishment permissions were given and five moving permits written.

New construction permits were written to Ramage Milby, to build an ice maker at 402 Winnsboro Rd., $2,000; and T. R. Shackleford, build a brick residence at 2122 Maywood Dr., $18,000.

Addition and alteration permits went to Arnetta Winters, add to a frame residence and photo studio at 2301 S. 6th St., $500; Otto E. Passman, add to a brick residence at 2705 Oak Dr., $800; Lucille Criner, add to a frame house at 4112 White St., $500; Lavell Cowan, add to a frame house at 311 N. 21st St., $900; George S. Mills, add to a frame house at 1407 Olive St., $800; Edward Swillie, add a frame storage to 509 S. 22nd St., $250; Southern Hardware add a masonry passageway between Southern Hardware and Passman Equipment Co., 108 Walnut St., $1,000; Arthur Johnson, add frame carport, 1016 N. 7th St., $200; and Morris Bartlett, add to a frame house at 105 Davis St., $500.

Two moving permits were issued to G. W. Welch, one for a house from 817 Wood Street to out of the city, and one from West Monroe to outside the city; one to R. W. Woolsey, frame house from 812 Wood St., to West Monroe; Better Homes Realty, from Grant Street to outside the city; and C. O. Boyd, from 815 Layton to outside the city.

Demolishment permits during the past week were written for Cernealus Samuel, frame house at 4013 Dunlap St.; R. L. Voigt, frame repair shed and station canopy, at the Illinois Central Yard and railroad station; James Winfield, frame house at 100 Ninth St.; and Nick Matthews, frame house at 1513 Thomas St.

Work Launched To Raise Three Sunken Barges

VIDALIA (Special) — Salvage operations were underway Saturday to remove three barges which sank near the U.S. Corps of Engineers water control structure south of here early Friday morning.

The barges — two loaded with powdered ore and one with phosphate rock — were among eight that crashed into the structure in Forebay Channel. The other five barges lodged against the structure and three were removed earlier.

A corps spokesman said the barges were among 20 which broke loose from their moorings south of here.

The barges crashed into the low sill structure which controls the water flow into the Atchafalaya River Basin.

The structure's gates will be operated intermittently until the salvage operations are complete, the spokesman said.

He said the corps will hold the gates closed for as little time as possible to prevent a major change in the water flow.

The New Orleans District Army Corps of Engineers said the barges broke loose in the river 28 miles south of Vidalia. Three of them hit the still structure in the channel and sank.

Shrine Club Sets Benefit Dance Here

A nationally known band leader, Jan Garber, and his 14-piece orchestra will be featured at a benefit dance Thursday, May 28, at the Paragon Club here.

The event, sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, will run from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. Vocal specialties will be presented by Delores Boswell, folk singer Steve Brooks, and the Garber Trio. Freddie Large and his saxophone and the Piano Duo will be among other entertainment highlights of the evening.

Garber, who is described as the "Idol of the Airlanes," has been in the dance music business for three decades providing what he calls "sweet with a beat" rhythms.

Carl Thompson, general chairman of the dance, said the club supports many charities, sponsors Demolay Boys and provides funds for children's assistance, and other benefits.

Advance sale of tickets priced at $6.60 a couple, including tax, is now under way. Tickets are available from any Shriner or at the Paragon Club.

Garber, who calls Shreveport home base, recently was selected for the second consecutive year as having the best all-around dance band in America. The results, based on the annual poll of popular dance bands conducted by Downbeat Magazine, were announced at the recent National Band of America Conference.

South Korea Sets New Money Rates

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)— The South Korean government announced Saturday that the official exchange rate between the Korean war and the U.S. dollar will be changed from 130 whan to the dollar to 255 whan to the dollar effective at midnight. The present rate has been in force since February, 1961.

SUCCUMBS AT 84

Old Age, Sickness Quieten Lady Astor

LONDON (AP) — Virginia-born Nancy Lady Astor, who aimed her acid wit at peers and commoners alike and became the first woman to be seat in the House of Commons, died Saturday after a lingering illness attributed mainly to old age.

The onetime suffragette spitfire and temperance advocate would have reached 85 on May 19. Death came at Grimsthrope Castle, the Lincolnshire home of her daughter, Lady Ancaster.

She will be buried Wednesday in the private chapel at the Astor county estate of Cliveden with only members of the family present.

A memorial service will be held May 13 at St. Margaret's church, near the houses of Parliament, for the Virginia belle whose barbed thrusts both delighted and riled the British people.

One of five lovely sisters of the socially prominent Langhorne family of Virginia, she was married first to Robert Gould Shaw, a Boston socialite. The union ended in divorce after three years and in 1906 she married wealthy Briton Waldorf Astor, later elevated to peerage. He died in 1952. They had four sons and a daughter.

The vivacious American woman, who kept her beauty into advanced middle age, was elected to the House of Commons from the Sutton district of Plymouth in 1919 and held the seat for 25 years. One son, J. J., now represents that district in Commons.

Although she had friends ranging from peers to policemen she did not hesitate to use the sharp edge of her tongue on any who displeased her.

Among those with whom she tangled was Sir Winston Churchill, Britain's greatest statesman of the era.

When she took her place in the previously all-male Commons, Churchill related later, "it was like being found naked in the bathroom with nothing but a sponge to protect you."

Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet makes crooked roads feel like going straight

Your Chevrolet resists leaning on turns. You see, Chevrolet's stabilizing suspension system with its four big coil springs makes the crookedest S-curves seem on the level. And with a low-friction Ball-Race geared steering system, you waltz over twisting roads as gracefully as a ballerina.

Your Chevrolet resists bouncing on bumps. Chevrolet has a Safety-Girder X-built frame that soaks up jolts at its sturdy tubular center member. It has a double-acting shock absorber in each corner to take the jumps out of bumps. Why even the most cantankerous country road doesn't stand a fighting chance.

Your Chevrolet resists squatting on starts. In the rear, Chevrolet's Full Coil suspension is designed with 4-link levelizing control. Instead of lunging forward, you get away with Jet-smooth acceleration.

TRADE 'N' TRAVEL TIME FOR THE GREAT HIGHWAY PERFORMERS

Your Chevrolet resists nose diving on stops. Chevrolet's front-end coil suspension has built-in anti-dive control. When you put your foot down on the biggest brakes in Chevrolet history, you come to a Jet-smooth stop.

Your Chevrolet resists shaking and vibrating. All seven Chevrolet engines are precision balanced for smoother operation. And because Chevrolet's chassis and Body by Fisher have over 700 insulators and sound deadeners, you don't have to shout to have yourself heard.

But talking about Chevrolet's quiet Jet-smooth ride is one thing; experiencing it is another. And now that it's Trade 'N' Travel time at your Chevrolet dealer's, this is the perfect time to try it. Find the meanest, roughest stretch of road you can. Then see for yourself how straight a crooked road can feel.

HEY, MAJOR FLAGG... REMEMBER ME? DAVE THORPE OF THE UNION. WHERE YOU GOING?

TO MY OFFICE. CAN YOU MAKE A STORY OUT OF THAT?

YOU DON'T LIKE NEWSPAPERMEN, DO YOU, MAJOR?

OF COURSE I DO, MR. THORPE.

WELL, THIS ONE COMES IN PEACE AND FRIENDSHIP... SEEKING A BIT OF ADVICE.

FIRST YOU MISTAKE ME FOR THE PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICER, MR. THORPE... NOW YOU THINK I'M THE CHAPLAIN!

I'M DEAD SERIOUS, MAJOR FLAGG... I WANT TO TELL YOU ABOUT A PHONE CALL I RECEIVED.

TO BE A MARINE YOU HAVE TO BELIEVE IN: YOURSELF-YOUR FELLOW MARINE-YOUR CORPS-YOUR COUNTRY-YOUR GOD ◄ SEMPER FIDELIS ►

WHAT PHONE CALL?

THE GUY SIGNED OFF "A FRIEND"... BUT HE'S NO FRIEND OF YOURS. HE CLAIMS THAT MARINES ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ONE THAT WAS MURDERED THE OTHER NIGHT. IS THAT TRUE?

ONLY INDIRECTLY, MR. THORPE... IN A BACK-DOOR MANNER OF SPEAKING.

I WON'T TRY TO FIGURE THAT OUT. JUST TELL ME IF I SHOULD PRINT IT.

MISTER... DO YOURSELF AND THE MARINE CORPS A BIG FAVOR AND PRINT NOTHING. I PROMISE YOU IF YOU PLAY IT MY WAY, YOU'LL HAVE A BIGGER STORY THAN THE JOHNSTOWN FLOOD!

GEE! IT SURE WAS NICE O' THOSE COPS T'USE THEIR DAY OFF T'MOVE "UNCLE" JOE AN "AUNT" JULIE ALL TH' WAY OUT HERE!

"SPRING IS A TRUE RECONSTRUCTIONIST." -HENRY TIMROD.
"NOW 'TIS THE SPRING, AND WEEDS ARE SHALLOW-ROOTED; SUFFER THEM NOW AND THEY'LL O'ERGROW THE GARDEN." -SHAKESPEARE.

BET THIS WAS A CUTE PLACE, WHEN THEY SPENT THAT SUMMER HERE; NO WONDER THEY BOUGHT IT!

"UNCLE" JOE WAS IN TH' BIG MONEY THEN, WRITIN' STORIES AN' BOOKS! SOMETHIN' BAD MUST'A' HAPPENED!

THEY NEVER CAME BACK, TILL NOW. TH' WAY I GET IT, THEY RENTED TO SUMMER FOLKS MOSTLY. WOW! WHAT PIGS SOME PEOPLE CAN BE!

LAST FEW DIDN'T EVEN BOTHER T'PAY TH' FEW BUCKS RENT! TOO LAZY T'CUT WOOD; EASIER T'BREAK UP TH' BACK PORCH AN' BURN IT!

STOLE TH' OLD IRON PUMP, LIKELY T'MAKE A "QUAINT" LAMP! DOOR HANDLES GONE; HALF TH' OLD IRON HINGES OFF TH' DOORS! NICE FOLKS!

USED T'BE A WHITE PICKET FENCE! BET THAT MADE SWELL FIREWOOD! AND WHAT TH' KIDS DID TO TH' WINDOWS WITH THEIR BB GUNS!

OH, WELL! ROOF NEEDS ONLY A NEW SHINGLE HERE AN' THERE. GET TH' GARDEN CLEANED OUT AN' GOIN', THAT'LL HELP A LOT. FLOWERS'LL BE POPPIN' OUT SOON!

BARN LOOKS PRETTY GOOD: S'PRISED NOBODY RIPPED IT DOWN FOR TH' OLD TIMBERS! TOO MUCH WORK, I 'MAGINE!

AT LEAST WE GOT 'LECTRICITY, WHEN WE GET IT TURNED ON, AN' GET BULBS; NOBODY LEFT EVEN ANY LIGHT FIXTURES, O' COURSE!

WELL, ANNIE! HOW DOES IT LOOK TO YOU?

WONDERFUL, "UNCLE" JOE! JUST NEED A GOOD CLEANIN'-UP! MONTH FROM NOW, Y'WON'T KNOW TH' PLACE!

HATLO'S HISTORY
BILLY THE KID'S LAWYER MAKES THE FIRST "UNDER-PRIVILEGED-CHILD" PLEA... KANSAS, 1881...

LOOK AT THIS LAD! A MERE BOY! DON'T BLAME HIM--BLAME HIS ENVIRONMENT!! WHAT CHANCE DID HE HAVE? HIS STEPFATHER REFUSED TO SEND HIM TO SUMMER CAMP! HE HAD NO BIG BROTHER TO GUIDE HIM! HE WAS INFLUENCED BY VIOLENT PAPERBACK NOVELS--HE HAS ADENOIDS....

BOY? HE'S NEAR THIRTY, IF YOU ASK ME!! HE'S BEEN CHAWING TOBACCY FOR NIGH ON TO TWENTY....

I THOUGHT IT WAS LITTLE LORD FAUNTLE-BRITCHES ON TRIAL FOR STEALIN' LOLLIPOPS...

OL' LOOPHOLE, THE LAWYER, SHOULDA SHAVED HIS CLIENT HIMSELF--I THINK BILLY SHOT THE BARBER...

COULDN'T WE ADOPT HIM, SAM? YOU SAID YOURSELF YOU'VE ALWAYS WANTED A SON....

I'M FROM THE COSTUMER'S.. NOW ABOUT MY BILL...
